LINDBERGH SHIP TAKES OFF FOR POINT BARROW

MAY GO ON TO NOME IF WEATHER IS BAD

Flying Colonel's Next Goal Is Alaska's Largest Arctic Town.

Aklavik, Northwest Territories, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The Japan-bound monoplane of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh soared away toward the Arctic's western horizon tonight, with the midnight sun lighting the way.

The genial colonel and his wife set their course toward Point Barrow, Alaska's largest Arctic town, which juts into the Arctic Ocean on a bleak peninsula about 540 miles from here. Should they fly there through excellent weather, the Lindberghs likely will attempt later a landing in the ice-infested sea further on, where a Coast Guard cutter awaits them with a load of gasoline.

If flying conditions are bad, however, Col. Lindbergh said they would go directly to Nome, some 900 miles away.

Leave at 10:30 P. M.

The steel pontoons of their freshly polished ship flashed up in a plume of muddy spray from the Mackenzie River at 10:30 p. m., E. S. T. Lindbergh circled his flashing black and scarlet plane twice around this tiny Arctic hamlet, and roared away to the west.

The roar turned to a drone, then to a whisper while the Eskimo children, who had followed Mrs. Lindbergh wherever she went during her two-day stay, stood soberly staring after the plane.

The fur traders, the radio operators, the Indian trappers and the two white women in the village also gazed silently after the famous fliers who arrived as strangers and departed 48 hours later as friends.

Loath to Leave.

The Lindberghs left with something closely akin to regret, even though they had been irked by the steady downpour which had kept them grounded until tonight. They were anxious to complete their Arctic adventure, yet they were loath to leave the serenity of the North, where publicity graspers are nonexistent and where celebrities such as themselves are accepted merely as welcome guests.

Almost directly west af Aklavik was Point Barrow, Alaska's northernmost town, where the Lindberghs originally had planned to stop. But about 150 miles past Point Barrow was the white coast guard cutter, Northland, laden with gasoline, plowing slowly eastward through fields of ice in the Arctic Ocean.

The Northland can not possibly reach Point Barrow for several days. The Lindberghs thus hope to go to Point Barrow and later may attempt a ship-side landing in the open sea, dodging down among the ice cakes to fill their gasoline tanks through hose lines from the Northland's side.

May Encounter Bad Weather.

Again, the colonel said he might find "dirty" flying weather toward Point Barrow. If he does, he and Mrs. Lindbergh merely will turn their ship southwest, pick up the Yukon River, where the gold miners of another century made history, and fly directly to Nome.

In any event they will skim above some of the wildest country remaining in North America. They will fly over rivers which still are indefinite on the most modern of maps, over mountains capped with snow, and over vast expanses of tundra.

Unlike their experience on two of three previous hops across the Canadian "barrens," however, the Lindberghs will find villages, settlements and trading posts at frequent intervals. They will see great herds of reindeer being raised on a commercial scale, will swoop high above gold seekers panning gravel in the icy rivers, and will find rescue by plane almost immediate should a forced landing prove necessary.

Death List Reaches 26 at Hoover Dam

(Associated Press.)

Deaths on the country's greatest construction job, Hoover Dam, have totaled 26 since operations began in May.

A report yesterday to the Department of the Interior from John C. Page, Government construction engineer, showed that 13 men have died of heat prostration. Since June 21 the thermometer at the dam never has fallen below 79 and has soared at times to 128 in the shade.

Five employes of contractors have died in accidents, two from falling rock and three as a result of explosions. Two employes were drowned and two died of illness, while four men not employed died at the construction site.

Love Piracy Charged To Marlene Dietrich

MARLENE DIETRICH.

Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Marlene Dietrich, German film actress, has been sued in New York for $600,000 on charges of alienating the affections of Josef von Sternberg, director, it was revealed during a court hearing today.

Rita Royce von Sternberg, the director's divorced wife, revealed existence of the suit in superior court where she had cited the director for failure to pay $1,200 due on her monthly alimony.

Mrs. Von Sternberg, questioned for her reasons in coming here to press a contempt citation against the director, said that she has two actions on file in New York against a "mysterious lady."

One of the suits is for $500,000, charging alienation of affections, and the second for alleged libel, for which she asked $100,000.

"Who were those suits directed against?" Mrs. Von Sternberg was asked. In answer, her attorneys submitted a copy of the New York actions, naming Marlene Dietrich Sieber as the defendant.

CRAMER IS REPORTED SAFE IN FAROE ISLES

Plane, Forced Down on Sea, Continues to Its Goal, London Learns.

London, Saturday, Aug. 8 (A.P.).—The Daily Mail said today that Parker Cramer, American airman who made a forced landing yesterday on the ocean off Iceland, succeeded in getting his plane aloft and landed safely at his destination on the Faroe Islands.

Earlier a message to Lloyd's from Wick, Scotland, said that a plane giving the radio call letters KHVCX had been forced down by engine trouble and had asked for exact bearings and assistance.

The airship, in which Cramer has been making a leisurely investigation of the possibilities of a northern air route, carried a radio with the call letters KHVCX.

The Lloyds message came from Thorshavn, Faroe Islands, at 7:46 p. m., G. M. T., yesterday (2:46 p. m., Eastern standard time). With his assistant, Oliver Pacquette, Cramer had taken off from Reykjavik, Iceland, early in the afternoon for the Faroe Islands. As relayed to Lloyds, the message read:

"The airmen en route from Reykjavik were forced down owing to engine trouble and asked for exact bearings. Could you assist, please?"

At 8:05 p. m. (3:05 p. m., Eastern standard time) another message from Wick said: "Name of aircraft unknown. Bound for Thorshavn from Reykjavik. Unable to raise aircraft since 7:24 p. m."

When he took off from Reykjavik Cramer carried fuel for about eight hours, the flying time to the Faroe Islands being five hours.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Parker Cramer, American airman, who is studying the possibilities of a regular air service over the northern route, arrived here today from Angmagsalik, Greenland, and after a brief stay for food and refueling took off again at 2:11 p. m. for the Faroe Islands, 450 miles away.

Speaking of his flight, which was conducted so quietly nothing was made public regarding it until he suddenly turned up in Greenland, after a leisurely trip from the United States and Canada, Cramer said:

"The object was to make this trial trip for an American airline company

Mayor Is Indicted In New Orleans

T. Semmes Walmsley Held on Charges in Investing City Trust Funds.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley was named in two indictments handed down by the Orleans Parish grand jury today, following an investigation into the investment of city trust funds.

The indictment charged Mayor Walmsley with investing city trust funds in violation of the law and with failure to have the books of these funds properly kept. The grand jury report was handed down following weeks of inquiry into the city trust investments.

Informed of the grand jury action shortly after 3:30 p. m., when a civil district judge ordered a capiase for arrest issued, Mayor Walmsley at City Hall said he would leave immediately for the Criminal Courts Building, where the grand jury report was being received.

Radio Tells of Ship Fire Conquered by Crew

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Messages from an unidentified ship which gave her position as 220 miles off Fernandina Light, Fla., tonight told first of a fire aboard and then of its being extinguished.

About 9:05 o'clock the ship, which gave her radio call letters as VY, sent out an S O S saying she was on fire and asking help. At 9:18 she wirelessed the fire had been extinguished by the crew and she was proceeding. None of the local stations could get her name, they reported.

FRANK EVANS GETS FARM BOARD POST

(Associated Press.)

Frank Evans, of Salt Lake City, former executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, was appointed to the Farm Board by President Hoover yesterday. He will fill the vacancy created by the retirement of C. C. Teague, vice chairman and fruits and vegetables member. One other vacancy now exists.

In making the appointment, Mr. Hoover selected a second official of the Farm Bureau Federation, a nationally known farm organization with thousands of members. Sam H. Thompson, named when Alexander Legge, former chairman, retired last March, was president of the federation until his appointment and served together with Evans.

The federation has consistently supported the board and the agricultural marketing act. Only yesterday Edward A. O'Neal, the president who succeeded Thompson, announced in Lawrence, Kans., that his organization will "fight to the last ditch" in defense of the board and the act.

Evans was secretary of the federation for four years, resigning in 1927 but retaining his office as general marketing counsel. He returned to Salt Lake City to practice law and continued to act as marketing counsel until last year. He assumes membership on the board at a time when its wheat and cotton sales policies are receiving world-wide attention.

The other vacancy existing was caused by the retirement of Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member, who left the board on June 15. Teague retired June 1.

Salt Lake City, July 7 (A.P.).—In assuming a place on the Federal Farm Board, Frank Evans will continue a work in which he has been active for almost a decade. His wife, who also is an attorney, has been his constant assistant in cooperative marketing activities.

Mr. Evans first became identified with cooperative farm movements in 1922, when he lent his assistance to the Utah Farm Bureau, at that time engaged in a taxation campaign. The organization was successful in obtaining a reduction in assessments on farm lands in the State.

Mr. Evans is given principal credit by Utah Farm Bureau workers for

Three Governors Deposed in Mexico

Seats in Legislature of One State Are Declared Vacant.

Mexico City, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Three state governors of Mexico were deposed today and the seats in the legislature of one state declared vacant.

After a prolonged dispute over the legality of various state elections, the permanent congressional committee declared the governorship and the legislature seats in the State of Colima vacant. It appointed Pedro Torres provisional governor.

Jose Ramon Valdez, of the State of Durango, was deposed on charges of permitting religious meetings outside of churches in violation of the national religious laws. Luis Castillo Ledon, governor of the State of Nayarit, was deposed on charges of not calling a session of the legislature and of governing the state unconstitutionally.

LAW BODY HITS METHODS USED IN ALIEN CASES

Wickersham Group Views Deportation Rulings as Tyrannical.

LABOR DEPARTMENT SEVERELY CRITICIZED

Decisions Are Pointed To as Unconstitutional and Often Oppressive.

(United Press.)

Unconstitutional, tyrannic and oppressive methods are often used by the Federal Department of Labor in seizing and examining aliens preliminary to deportation, the Wickersham commission reported to President Hoover yesterday.

The commission, reporting on the deportation laws, adopted the conclusions of a report by Reuben Oppenheimer, Baltimore attorney, severely criticizing many Labor Department practices and proposing a new Federal board of alien appeals to rule publicly and legally on deportations. The department's action is final in most cases now under existing law.

A reported 57-page rebuttal by Labor Secretary W. N. Doak, presented by him while the commission was considering the subject of deportations, was not made public by the White House along with the commission's brief report and the Oppenheimer study.

Particularly critical was Mr. Oppenheimer of the Labor Department's recent refusal to send a political refugee, Guido Serio, to Russia, where he would be welcome, instead of Italy, where he expected to be slain. The Labor Department's board of review in this case "insisted upon making deportation a death penalty," his report said.

Recent mass raids on meetings of aliens were particularly denounced, the report charging that the Federal agents detained for hours, along with aliens subject to deportation, many foreign-born American citizens, native-born citizens of foreign ancestry and aliens legally in this country. Raids should be banned, Mr. Oppenheimer urged.

It was noted by the commission that the bill of rights protects aliens from unreasonable seizures and restraints as well as citizens. The report said also that it was customary for immigration inspectors to jail suspects, however, apprehended, without any warrant.

Methods of examination of suspects were compared by Mr. Oppenheimer with the star chamber and the Spanish Inquisition. Many deportations were said to "violate the plainest dictates of humanity," and "there is reason to believe" that further development of the cases of some deportees would have shown they had a right to stay here, it was added.

In holding the theory of deportations and exclusions, Mr. Oppenheimer proposed more immigration patrolmen and inspectors, who would be better trained and better qualified "properly to use their tremendous authority."

The defects and abuses, Mr. Oppenheimer said, "are not primarily the fault of the agency in charge of deportation," but result from ironclad laws which allow no discretion, and a system which allows one government department to sit in judgment on the cases which its own agents have worked up.

Nine Members Sign Report.

Raids of Night Riders End As New Mexico Jails Pair

Last Members of Gang Tracked for Six Years Captured in Daybreak Sortie on Cabin in Arroyo, Oso; Reign of Terror Closed.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The terror spread by mysterious "night riders" of Rio Arriba County, was believed ended today with the arrest of Bill McKinley and Damian Lovato in a daybreak sortie on their cabin in Arroyo Oso.

The men were arrested by Detective H. C. Martin and Sheriff Carlos Manzanares, who have tracked the gang for years and in recent months have placed five other alleged members of the gang in prison.

For approximately six years the "night riders," so styled by the populace of the county, have evaded identification. Out of Rio Arriba County have come recurring tales that a barn, a home, or a haystack had gone up in a blaze as the clattering hoofs of many horses faded into the night. Cattle thefts and robberies were accompanied by the same reports. There was never any evidence.

McKinley, a huge, stubble-bearded former cowboy in sombrero and high boots, and Lovato, small, slender Mexican, with a hairline moustache, were held with Arsenio Montoya, of Manassa, Colo., charged specifically with robbery of the Los Luceros summer home of Miss Mary Wheelright, of Northeast Harbor, Me.

Montoya, believed a new member of the gang, was captured after his car which was used in the wheelright robbery. His confession led to capture of McKinley and Lovato. Loot taken from Montoya was photographed and Miss Wheelright sent affidavits from Maine identifying it.

U. S. DECLINES GERMAN OFFER TO BUY COTTON

Farm Board Holds Terms Submitted Are Not Satisfactory.

SUGGESTS PURCHASE IN REGULAR MARKET

Says Claims Payments, Now Being Expedited, Aim to Establish Credit.

(Associated Press.)

The Farm Board yesterday rejected Germany's offer to buy a part of its surplus cotton and suggested an arrangement under which the purchase could be made directly from the cotton trade.

Calling attention to the efforts of the Treasury to provide Germany with dollar credit here, by expediting the payment of German claims, the board said this would provide credit in excess of the proposed cotton purchase and make direct buying possible.

With the approval of President Hoover, Ambassador Sackett, at Berlin, recently suggested that Germany buy wheat and cotton from the holdings of the board's subsidiaries on liberal credit terms. An offer from Germany to buy a quantity of cotton, understood to have been 600,000 bales, followed. The terms suggested by Germany proved unsatisfactory to the board, resulting in today's rejection of the offer.

Vigorous Protests Made.

Meanwhile, representatives of the cotton trade, and members of the House and Senate, led by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, entered vigorous protests against selling cotton from the surplus held by the board.

They insisted the sales to Germany should be made from the current cotton crop, or, if from the surplus, that the board should then replace the amounts sold by purchases from the trade.

The board's answer to the German proposition, which was transmitted to the State Department, follows:

"The Farm Board has given careful consideration to the German offer to purchase cotton. The board is desirous of facilitating assistance to Germany and to the American cotton producer by expanding his immediate markets.

"Many conditions of the German offer are beyond the ability of the board to comply with. It is, therefore, unable to accept the offer under the proposed terms.

Withdrew Minimum Price.

"In addition to other difficulties the original suggestion of Ambassador Sackett five weeks ago provided for a minimum price which would have contributed materially to stabilizing the price of cotton and would have made it possible for the board to offer participation to the holders of new crop cotton. The fall in price since that time, due in part to the situation in central Europe, has necessarily led to the elimination by the German government of that feature of its offer.

"However, a new possibility has arisen in this whole question, which offers an alternative course. The purpose of the discussion has been in effect to assist the Germans in securing the foreign exchange necessary to provide immediate supplies.

"The effort now being made by the Treasury Department to expedite payment to German nationals under awards of the arbiter of certain German claims if successful would place

HOOVER PROMISES AID FOR IDLE THIS WINTER; PLANS NATIONAL BODY

Winter Relief Plans Outlined by President

During the past three weeks I have been engaged, together with members of the administration, in a study of the problems of unemployment and relief likely to confront us over the coming winter and the organization necessary to meet the situation. While improvement in the situation in many directions seems promising, the problem, whatever it may be, will be met. With the organized cooperation of local and State and Federal authorities, and the large number of relief and charitable organizations, the problem was successfully handled last winter. We shall adapt organization methods in such manner as may be necessary for the coming winter.

The first of the facts to be determined is the probable volume of the load of distress which will need to be provided for. The various bureaus of the Government are engaged in an exhaustive study of last winter's experience of all organizations in the average number of persons in distress and their location. Further examination is being made of the probable load during next winter. The economic changes during the year will materially improve certain areas and others may be worse. These reports are not yet complete.

The second requirement is to appraise the action now in progress, the agencies which are available for the winter, the methods which have proved successful, and the organization needed to cooperate with these agencies. I have been in communication with several governors and with other public authorities. Already many States and municipalities have

AVALANCHE OF BILLS SEEN BY PRESIDENT

Question of Unemployment Will Be Paramount Issue in 1932 Race.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover yesterday promised that relief would be provided for the victims of unemployment this coming winter.

"While improvement in the situation in many directions seems promising," the President said in a formal statement, "the problem, whatever it may be, will be met."

That the President realizes the problem of caring for the needy this winter is not entirely a local problem is shown by his statement that a "national organization" will be created to support the State and municipal relief organizations.

The character of the national organization, he said, will be decided in about a month.

Foresees Relief Measure.

Foreseeing a veritable avalanche of what to him will be undesirable measures for unemployment relief in the next Congress, President Hoover is eager to get some kind of relief plan in operation before Congress comes back.

This question — the question of hard times and unemployment — is to be the paramount issue in the 1932 presidential campaign, a fact that will be clearly demonstrated once the floodgates of oratory are opened in the Senate and House in December.

Among those who have been conferring with President Hoover on the unemployment problem in the last three weeks are Silas Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of that organization.

Will Formulate Plan.

After a visit to the White House on Thursday, Mr. Strawn and Mr. Barnes announced they would lay a comprehensive plan for unemployment relief before President Hoover by September 1. The two men agreed there would be "an appreciable increase in unemployment next winter."

Unless something is done, Mr. Strawn said, "there will be more kinds of legislation for the dole than Germany and England ever heard of."

President Hoover already has moved to form a national organization for relief work. At the request of the President's Committee for Employment, the Association of Community Chests and Councils has agreed to sponsor what will be known as a welfare and relief mobilization.

Will Drive for Funds.

The association will sponsor an extraordinary drive for funds in 376 cities of more than 25,000 population. The drive is described as one to provide relief in these cities not only for normal welfare work, but for those men, women and children who are expected to be affected by hard times this winter.

Inasmuch as more than 40,000,000 persons live in the 376 cities, it is estimated that this part of the relief program will take care of one-third of the population.

What will be done about the sufferers among the other two-thirds of the population has not yet been made clear. Recently, however, President Hoover conferred with Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, and it was reported afterward that the President inquired as to how the Red Cross might help in communities of from 2,500 to 25,000 population.

Judge Payne has stated over and over again that the Red Cross is bound by its charter to extend aid only to relieve suffering growing out of an earthquake or some other kind of disaster that may be classed as an "act of Providence."

In some of the smaller villages and towns, however, the Red Cross chapter is sometimes the only organization available to give relief. And so it is entirely possible that some scheme may be worked out

CUBAN COUP EFFORT SEEN IN 43 ARRESTS

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Thirty-eight Cubans, arrested by Coast Guardsmen as they entered Absecon Inlet on the two-masted schooner, Harold, were held today for questioning by Federal officials. The men said they were returning from a fruitless search for a steamer at sea.

Police declared the Cubans were recruited in New York in an attempt to overthrow the present Cuban government. Their names were not revealed because Government agents feared reprisals against members of their families. Department of Justice agents planned to investigate whether they had entered this country legally.

Some told police they were to receive $10 a day from the time they left New York, while others said they were to be paid $500 on their arrival in Cuba. Some called the trip a fishing excursion. Others insisted they did not know the nature of it.

John P. McCarthy, Department of Justice agent, said another boatload escaped while Coast Guardsmen were arresting those on the Harold.

Five other men were arrested at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, where Detective George Scherer said they were buying tickets for New York.

Among those arrested were Dr. Abalo Bartlett, 30, Havana physician; Eddie Alvarez, jr., who said he served in the Cuban army, and Aguinaldo Salinas. The latter was recognized by Joseph Hooker, Atlantic City policeman, who served with the Marines in Nicaragua under Gen. Smedley Butler. Salinas said he had been at Bluefields and has served in the rebel army.

Madrid Alarmed By Terror Blasts

Five Bombs Are Exploded as Police Frustrate Other Plots.

Madrid, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—A new series of terrorist outbreaks alarmed the capital today. Five bombs exploded in telephone line manholes and police frustrated other bombing plots in the vicinity of government buildings, where the constitutional assembly is in session.

Policeman Conrad Alvarez and a workman, Nicasi Ribagogda, were wounded when occupants of an automobile exchanged about 80 shots with police.

Officers have been searching for Ramon Casanellas, one of the three assassins of Premier Edward Dato in 1921, who was said to have returned recently from Russia. Late today police said the man's chauffeur had been arrested but Casanellas had fled to Seville.

HOOVER SIGNS ORDER TO PROMOTE BOONE

Personal Physician Named on Navy's Second List for Commander.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday approved promotion of his personal physician, Dr. Joel T. Boone, from a naval lieutenant commander to commander.

Boone, who holds the temporary rank of captain while serving as White House physician, was one of seven medical officers approved for promotion by the President upon recommendation of a naval selection board after a previous list had been rejected.

Acting Secretary Jahncke of the Navy refused to make public the first list on the ground that to do so would be in violation of Navy ethics and procedure. A report published at the time President Hoover returned the list ascribed this action to omission of Boone's name.

Jahncke made public, however, a letter from President Hoover dated July 17 in which the President said: "I wish it to be known and recorded by the new board that the President has no interest in this matter other than to see that the best men should receive promotion."

Boone, who has been personal physician to President Hoover since April, 1929, holds a congressional medal of honor and the Army's distinguished service cross for heroism in France.

His name appeared sixth on the list of seven. In seniority he was near the end of the list of 33 from which the seven were selected for promotion.

Jahncke issued a statement saying "seniority is only to be considered where two candidates have records and possess qualities of like character and where differentiation is indistinguishable. Merit must be the dominating guide." He added "the recommendations of the previous board were not approved upon the advice of naval authority."

The others listed for promotion, all from lieutenant commander to commander, were:

William W. Hargrave, West Point, Va., on duty in Samoa; Clarence W. Ross, Floral, Kans., stationed at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Carleton L. Wood, Oberlin, Ohio, stationed at Boston; William W. Wickersham, of Philadelphia, stationed on the battleship Wyoming; William H. Michael, Baltimore, stationed at Annapolis, Md., and Frederic L. Conklin, East Lansing, Mich., stationed at New York.

Wanamaker Tax Is Cut $7,279,496

Overassessment of Estate Is Announced by Revenue Bureau.

(Associated Press.)

An abatement of $7,279,496 to the estate of Rodman Wanamaker, Philadelphia, for overassessment of estate taxes was announced yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The overassessment was caused by the allowance of a credit under the provision of the revenue act representing the amount of State inheritance taxes paid subsequent to the filing of the Federal estate tax return.

A refund of $316,804 to the Pfister & Vogel Leather Co., of Milwaukee, for overassessment of income and profit taxes in 1918 and 1919 was announced today by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The overassessment was caused by the allowance of an additional reduction for depreciation in 1918, and understatement of the cost of goods in 1919, reductions of the amount of sales in 1919, a deduction from income as previously determined for 1919 for the amortization of the cost of ore facilities and the allowance of a deduction for taxes omitted when the term was filed.

JAPAN-SEATTLE HOP PLANNED NEXT WEEK

Pangborn, Herndon Arrange for Flight in Spite of Being Suspected.

Tokyo, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The American world voyaging aviators, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr., planned today to start a nonstop flight to Seattle from Samushiro Beach, 380 miles north of Tokyo, next week, despite complications because of suspicion they took photographs of Japanese fortifications.

By starting from that beach, the nearest to Tokyo with runway long enough to permit a take-off with 900 gallons of gasoline, they hope to soar across 4,400 miles of the north Pacific to Seattle, to win the $25,000 prize offered by the Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun for the first continuous flight between Japan and America.

The fact their airplane was locked up by Japanese authorities, who also were detaining the aviators, may interfere with flight plans.

Officials Much Concerned.

Government officials were much concerned over the asserted taking of photographs of Japanese fortifications both by Pangborn and Herndon and three United States naval fliers.

Several departments of the government were conducting investigations and some officials were said to favor punishment for Pangborn and Herndon.

When the latter fliers arrived here yesterday from Khabarovsk, Siberia, where they abandoned their attempt to break the world flight record of Harold Gatty and Wiley Post, a motion picture camera was found in their plane.

The camera was held by authorities to have its film developed to ascertain what photographs had been taken. Investigations may require several days.

Admit Taking Pictures.

It was asserted Pangborn and Herndon flew over fortifications at Hakodate, Hokkaido Island. The aviators admitted taking pictures in their flight over the Japanese Sea and Korkaido, but it was not learned immediately whether the fortifications had been photographed.

The incident gained added prominence because of statements by Dairen newspapers that American naval fliers had photographed Japanese fortifications on Kwantung Peninsula, Japanese territory leased from China.

The admiral of the American fleet off Chefoo explained to the Japanese consul at Tsingtau the fliers had been lost while cruising. Some Japanese newspapers, however, felt the explanation insufficient and the American consul at Dairen was said to have asked Washington for instructions.

a visit with Miss Dietrich and her little daughter, Von Sternberg was with the actress at the station to greet him, it was recalled.

"My husband told me he was willing to take those two New York suits on his shoulders if I would drop them, and assume the financial burden of them," Mrs. Von Sternberg testified.

Regarding the libel action, Mrs. Von Sternberg said she instituted them to "vindicate myself on charges made by Miss Dietrich in a series of syndicated articles in German and Austrian newspapers."

"She made charges that I tried to get her pictures boycotted in this country, and accused me of saying she was going to divorce her husband to marry Josef," he declared.

Von Sternberg, one of the most successful directors in Hollywood, appeared to show little interest in the proceedings. He slouched down in a chair in the courtroom and idly ran his fingers through his long hair.

Von Sternberg "discovered" Miss Dietrich in Germany and induced her to come to America to appear in motion pictures under his direction.

to investigate the possibilities for a future regular air service along this route."

Asked for further details, he replied: "I can't go into further particulars, as these must be reserved for my report to the company, but I may say that up to now I have not met with any unforeseen difficulties, and the landing possibilities in Greenland were not discouraging."

Before Cramer hopped off today an interviewer asked him how he could get away from America and fly over Canada without being discovered. Cramer laughed and replied:

"The explanation is that we don't wish to tell about what we are going to do, only what we have done. Before we had crossed the inland ice we had done nothing worth mentioning.

"Then we flew over a range never passed before, thus adding a link to the future air route."

BISCUIT FIRM'S SAFE CRACKED; LOOT $400

Using a heavy charge of high explosive, safecrackers early yesterday blew the doors from a safe in the office of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., 513 Rhode Island avenue northeast, and escaped with more than $400 in cash. Nothing else in the safe was missing.

Although it was evident that a charge of nitroglycerin or other explosive was used, no noise was heard and the robbery was not discovered until Raymond Guinan, office manager, opened the building yesterday morning.

Entrance, it was believed, was gained through a rear window. A large steel bar, several pieces of timber and a quantity of other material from different parts of the building were found near the safe. Sound of the explosion was apparently muffled by pieces of heavy canvas and clothing material.

The thieves attempted to pound off the combination before resorting to the explosive, Mr. Guinan declared, as two broken hammers and a drill were discovered in the room. The doors were still on their hinges, although blown to pieces.

Small bits of steel were scattered about the office and a partially burned fuse was found on one of the desks. Care was taken by the thugs not to be discovered, as the safe was moved from its usual place in the corner to a spot where light from the street could not hit them.

HEART ATTACK KILLS NORVAL METCALF, 46

Stricken with a heart attack shortly after reaching his home from work yesterday, Norval Metcalf, president of the Washington Sightseeing Co., died suddenly at the residence, 3837 Beecher street northwest, before medical attention could be given.

Mr. Metcalf, who was 46 years old, was a native of Washington and had been in the taxi business here many years. He was one of the first persons to own a group of cabs in the city, and for some time was the only large cab owner here.

Before organization of the firm of which he was head, he was in the garage business on Fourteenth street. He owned business property near Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, in the heart of the downtown business section, and was a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Metcalf, and one son, Frank Metcalf, of this city. Funeral service will be at the residence Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Glenwood Cemetery.

United States Lines Conference Recesses

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Consideration of plans for reorganization of the United States Lines, subject of discussion here for the past two days, will be resumed Tuesday, it was announced today.

Discussions adjourned with the departure of T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, for Washington. R. Stanley Dollar, Dollar Line head, will arrive tomorrow.

the German bank in possession of an even larger amount of dollar exchange than the volume of this proposed transaction in cotton and would enable German business to make its purchases directly from the producers and the trade in the normal way."

Long Credit Undesirable.

One of the conditions which the board is believed to have found itself unable to comply was the credit arrangements suggested by Germany. In effect, it was said, the board might have been forced to accept approximately half of the present price of cotton.

Under the proposed deal credit for between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 would have been granted. Payment of adjudicated claims to German nationals arising out of war-time seizures exceeds this amount many times.

Should these claims be settled promptly and satisfactory arrangements be made through continued negotiations for the purchase of cotton from the current crop, protests of the South against any sales from the stabilization surplus of 1,300,000 bales would be satisfied.

The offer called for the purchase of 600,000 bales with an option on 200,000 more on the basis of three years' credit, payable by bills of exchange in dollars at 4½ per cent interest.

Sale of this amount from the current crop probably would have a strengthening effect on domestic prices. Germany last year purchased considerable amounts of her cotton for textile needs from India.

French Firm Files Protest.

A protest has been received by the Agricultural Department from the Havre Cotton Exchange of France against the proposed cotton sale to Germany. The protest was forwarded by the department to the Farm Board.

So far as is known, this is the first foreign protest received. Carl Williams, cotton member of the board, said yesterday no foreign governments had entered objection on the grounds of dumping. The Havre Cotton Exchange is a firm of importers and dealers buying and selling on the world market.

Berlin, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Rejection by the United States Farm Board of the German offer to purchase cotton failed to result in any great surprise in financial circles here.

In the first place, what the Germans several days ago had been given to understand might be an acceptable offer was not even approximated in the proposal actually sent to Washington.

The German offer specified a three-year credit instead of an eighteen-month credit and stipulated the market price instead of a price slightly above the market, which it was understood the Farm Board hoped to get in view of the credit accommodation involved.

In the second place, publicity given the preliminary negotiations aroused violent objections in the cotton trade here, as it did in the United States.

The news was interpreted as lessening the chances for a wheat deal between Germany and the United States. Early today it had seemed negotiations were far enough along to justify expectations that a German offer would be forwarded to Washington during the afternoon. No proposal was dispatched, however.

The possibilities of a deal in surplus United States copper were still being discussed. This would not be connected with the Federal Farm Board, although it was believed here the United States Government might enter the negotiations as intermediary between Germany and the copper producers.

In this connection considerable interest was manifested in the impending arrival of John D. Ryan, chairman of the board of the Anaconda Co., who is reported en route to Berlin.

$100,000,000 War Claims Soon Will Be Available

(Associated Press.)

The money which the farm board yesterday proposed to turn over to Germany's use as foreign exchange in the sale of American cotton to Germany is $100,000,000 which Congress appropriated in 1928 to pay Germans for their property seized when the United States entered the war.

Congress set up a war claims arbiter, at present Judge James W. Remick, to decide how it should be divided among German owners of ships, patents, a radio station and other property which was taken. Judge Remick recently announced that he has tentatively set aside $74,000,000 to German ship owners.

The largest single figure in this amount was $13,688,000 for the liner "Vaterland," which in United States hands is known as the Leviathan. Other large German vessels for which money is owing were the Kaiser Wilhelm II, the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, and the George Washington.

In addition $6,000,000 had been awarded tentatively to owners of a German radio station at Sayville, Long Island and several million to the owners of chemical, dye and optic patents. Only two large cases remain to be decided. These are being considered now and awards were said to be expected early in September. Now, it appears they may be made even earlier. After that the sum can be prorated among the various German claimants and most of it turned over to them. It is provided, however, that part be held in the Treasury until Germany makes payments to the United States for its claimants.

MRS. ANDREWS, 61, NOTED WRITER, DIES

Famous Also as Artist and Art Patron; Funeral in Alexandria Monday.

Mrs. Marietta Minnigerode Andrews, author of several recent best sellers, artist and friend of all creative artists, died yesterday afternoon at her home, Vauxcleuse, on Seminary Hill, west of Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Andrews was 61 years old. Her death resulted from a complication of diseases aggravated by a stroke of paralysis suffered while visiting in Charlottesville, Va., three weeks ago. She had been in declining health for several months.

She was the widow of Eliphalet Frazier Andrews, formerly director of the Corcoran School of Art, and has for many years been interested in the Corcoran Art Gallery and its school.

Many of Mrs. Andrews' books were illustrated with her own drawings and silhouettes. Some of the best known are "My Studio Window," a book about Washington celebrities; "Memoirs of a Poor Relation," based on old family correspondence and recollections; "Scraps of Paper," and "George Washington's Country," stories of Virginia.

Wrote Plays and Pageants.

She also was the author of several plays and pageants, among them "Thomas Jefferson," "Joan of Arc," "The Master Builders," "The Cross Triumphant," and "Our Common Heritage."

When the movement was started to buy Monticello, Jefferson's Virginia home, Mrs. Andrews was one of the leading workers toward that goal, and the successful completion of the task was due very much to her untiring efforts to interest others in the proposal. She was also a member of the board of directors of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, the Washington Water Color Club, which she founded; the Colonial Dames, and the Washington English-Speaking Union.

Her artistic education was obtained under several famous teachers, among them being William M. Chase, of New York; Luigi Chialiva, of Paris, and Ernest Lieberman, of Munich. She recently had specialized in silhouettes, becoming famous for her outline pictorials of well-known characters in the political and literary world.

Wash Friend of Novices.

Mrs. Andrews came to be known, during her years of association with writers and artists in the National Capital and New York, as a particular friend of all beginners in the arts. She was never too busy to give amateurs helpful advice and encouragement. Many writers and artists who have attained success and prominence owe much to the "white-haired lady of art," as close friends came to know her during years of association.

She was born in Richmond, Va., in 1869, the daughter of Charles and Virginia Cuthbert Minnigerode. She maintained a home in Washington at 1232 Sixteenth street northwest for many years.

Survivors include her son, Eliphalet Frazier Andrews, with whom she lately made her home at Seminary Hill; three grandchildren, Mary Lord Andrews 3d, Helen Tucker Andrews, and Carter Randolph Andrews. A daughter, Mary Lord Andrews, died several years ago. Her husband died in 1915.

Other survivors include three sisters, Misses Lucy and Anne Minnigerode, of Washington, and Mrs. William Butler, of Santiago, Chile; four brothers, C. Powell Minnigerode, the present director of the Corcoran Art Gallery; Capt. Karl Minnigerode, U. S. A.; George Minnigerode, of Washington, and Charles Minnigerode, of Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held at Christ Church, Alexandria, Monday morning at 9:15 o'clock. Interment will be at Middleburg, Loudoun County, Va., in the afternoon.

Deputies Aid Hunt For Girl's Slayer

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Four carloads of sheriff's deputies left Birmingham tonight to lead 100 men in a four-way search for a Negro believed to have been the man who abducted and shot three prominent Birmingham young women, killing one.

Additional posses were organized after reports that a Negro with briartorn clothes resembling the slayer was seen to emerge from mountains and cross fashionable Shade Valley near here.

Ten deputies were stationed at Irondale, another suburb, where one Negro was killed and another critically injured by two white men as they rode past on a freight train. This shooting was laid directly to Communists by authorities tonight. Several crimes of violence in the Birmingham area today were attributed to the racial-equality propaganda of Communist agitators.

Radio Man in Constant Touch With Lindberghs

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—There have been long periods when their countrymen had no word of their progress, but the radio operators along the Lindbergh trail across Canada toward the Orient have been in constant touch with the flying vacationists.

A message from Mrs. Lindbergh has revealed that in fact they have never been out of reach of civilization if the men with whom they communicated while on the wing had bothered to pass the word along.

Pan-American Airways received a message from Mrs. Lindbergh at Akiavik reporting that contact with local stations had been made according to instructions. These instructions, given Mrs. Lindbergh before she left New York, are so detailed that their observance means that almost constant communication has been maintained.

MONEY CIRCULATION FOUND INCREASING

Officials See Public Fears Diminishing as Spending Appears to Grow.

(Associated Press.)

An indication that fear caused by the depression might be giving way to a little more spending was seen by officials yesterday in Treasury figures showing money in circulation increased $15,274,262 in July over June, bringing the total to $4,837,207,719.

Per capita circulation rose 8 cents from $38.57 to $38.65. It was $35.90 on July 31, 1930.

The highest per capita circulation was $53.01 on October 31, 1920, and the lowest, $16.92, January 1, 1879.

The Treasury statement showed the total money in the United States was $9,152,338,017 at the end of July, a new high record. This was an increase of $908,755,566 over a year ago.

Of the total, $4,948,341,721 was in gold coin or bullion, while $3,761,704,365 was held by the Treasury. Of the gold and bullion held by the Treasury, however, $1,694,936,579 was held in trust against gold and silver certificates and Treasury notes, while $1,858,356,378 was held for Federal Reserve banks and agents.

Total money outside of the Treasury amounted to $7,048,495,564, but $2,188,412,596 of that was gold and silver certificates and Treasury notes for which the Treasury holds gold. Outside of the Treasury there was $1,186,637,356 in gold, of which $362,814,223 was in circulation and $823,823,133 was held by Federal Reserve banks and agents.

Ecuador's Government Threatened by Strike

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The stability of the government of President Isidro Ayora appeared to be threatened tonight by a strike of students at the University of Guayaquil. Alarming rumors of unrest were circulated and the newspaper La Voz issued a manifesto demanding resignation of the government.

Students clashed with police who attempted to force them to leave the Rocafuerte School. Police patrols were on duty throughout the city.

HOOVER PROMISES JOBLESS RELIEF DURING NEXT WINTER

whereby these local chapters will give the relief that the community chests provide in the cities.

Among the organizations in addition to the Association of Community Chests and Councils, which the President has called into the "mobilization" for relief this winter, are the Association of Public Welfare Officials, in connection with municipal, county and State appropriations; the Family Welfare Association and the Travelers Aid Society.

Feels Work Was Adequate.

Notwithstanding the criticism that has been heaped on him for not committing the Federal Government to a more liberal relief program last winter, the President feels that the work done at that time was adequate. In his statement yesterday, he said:

"With the organized cooperation of local and State and Federal authorities, and the large number of relief and charitable organizations, the problem was successfully handled last winter. We shall adopt organization methods in such manner as may be necessary for the coming winter."

First, the President said, a survey must be made to determine the probable volume of distress next winter. This, he said, is now being made by various bureaus of the Government.

Second, he said, a study must be made to determine how to cope with the suffering that may grow out of unemployment.

Confers With Governor.

In this connection, the President revealed that he had been in communication with several governors and other officials, with financial and labor leaders, and with the heads of various relief agencies. These conferences, the President explained, were for the purpose of bringing about a coordination of effort when the time comes to aid the needy.

At present, the President said, a new study is under way to determine the actual number of persons who will be given employment through the Federal building program. States and municipalities, he said, also are being canvassed to determine how many jobs will be provided by their own public works.

Asked for his own estimate as to the probable number of unemployed next winter, the President said that it is difficult to make such an estimate with any degree of accuracy. The estimate of 6,000,000 made on January 1 last, he said, is now known to have been inaccurate.

I have been canvassing the situation in conference with business, financial and labor leaders as to the different methods in interstate industries which may be of aid.

I have had a number of conferences with leaders of relief and business organizations throughout the country with view to consolidation and coordination of their efforts to support the national, State and local action.

We have now under way a reexamination to determine the actual number to be employed through the steadily increasing volume of Federal public works. We are canvassing State and municipal and industrial construction to ascertain what may be expected in that direction.

The completion of these conferences and inquiries will require another month. By that time all the facts should be clear both as to the load to be met, the progress and strength of organization in different regions and the character and method of national organization necessary to coordinate and support them.

Half of Disabled Veterans Reporting Without Work

(Associated Press.)

Between 50,000 and 55,000 of the approximately 290,000 disabled veterans of the World War have reported their employment status to the United States Employment Service. About half of those reporting, 26,645 men to date, said they were jobless and wanted employment.

On the basis of this return, E. C. Babcock, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, estimated that "upward of 75,000" disabled veterans would be found to be needing work.

His estimates, he said, were higher than those of officials of the Veterans' Administration and the employment service, which varied from 30,000 to 50,000.

Names of the disabled veterans wanting jobs are being speedily sent to the directors of employment of their States, with a view to a concerted effort for placement.

About 6,500 of the approximately 50,000 reported on were established as unemployable, being in hospitals or institutions of domiciliary care. Another 5,000 reported themselves 100 per cent disabled, and these cases are being investigated.

About 7,000 reported themselves as employed on part-time work and desirous of better jobs.

CIRCUS STAYS HERE AS PROPOSALS FAIL

Stock Car, Dynamo, Engine Seized by Companies; Legion Adds $566.

Circus hands were still tenting last night on their old camp grounds at Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast, as continued negotiations between management and help failed to break the impasse reached Wednesday when the 101 Ranch Wild West Show was stranded here.

Hope was expressed that a committee of nine, designated late yesterday by cowboys, performers and roustabouts, would reach some basis of settlement with Fred Olmstead, personal representative of Zack Miller, owner of the show.

The circus people want their pay. They are owed from five to eight weeks' salary. The management still contends it hasn't the money, but is willing to transport the 392 employes back to Oklahoma and take care of them on the 101 Ranch.

There the matter has rested for three days. Circus hands have threatened trouble if there is any attempt to move the show without settlement first. The management must take them at their word, for there was no effort to move it yesterday, despite announcements to the contrary the day previous.

Late developments in the situation were:

The District Department of the American Legion, which Thursday sponsored a benefit performance which netted $750, raised last night $566 additional to aid the stranded circus men at a meeting in Buchanan School. The sum consisted of $305 taken up in a hat collection and $261 pledged by the various posts. Plans were in the making for another benefit show Sunday at a local theater.

Under writs of replevin the Warren Tank Car Co., of Warren, Pa., took over a circus stock car valued at $3,000, and the Knickerbocker Manufacturing Co., of Brooklyn, N. Y., recovered a dynamo and engine valued at $2,600.

Lew Wentz, Oklahoma politician and holder of a mortgage on the circus property, wired employes he could offer no help and advised movement of the circus without delay.

Spokesmen for the management announced the show would be "moved" today, funds having been forwarded by the mortgagee for that purpose. It was reported Mr. Wentz had sent $6,000 to return the circus to Oklahoma.

The employes' committee, after failing to reach agreement with the managers, announced efforts would be continued this morning. One member indicated they had an "ace in the hole" to be used today.

The American Legion wired Gov. Murray of Oklahoma that 300 citizens of his State were "stranded here, penniless and without food," asking the executive to see that some representative of the company was sent here empowered to take action.

Two Sides of Problems Indorsed by Mr. Baker

By JOHN J. DALY

SINCE Newton D. Baker will undoubtedly be groomed for the next presidential race, a nation hangs anxiously on the good man's words and finds something to wonder about in his policies, expressed before his peers at Williamstown.

The outstanding scholar of his party, Mr. Baker reads Sanskrit and finds most of his warm weather prose in Latin and Greek. Arabic and Hebrew furnish him poetry. Colleges have conferred enough honorary degrees to paper the Baker house. This year three universities added to the collection.

Any pronouncement from the Baker citadel is worth notice. Says the dean: "I believe in free trade and I believe in the single tax, yet I am neither a free trader nor a single taxer."

Against the eighteenth amendment, Mr. Baker is for the League of Nations; but neither of these contentions would make of him either a wet or an internationalist, as can be proved by his own system of logic, to wit:

M'ARTHUR WILL AID FRENCH ARMY SHOW

U. S. Chief of Staff to Sail September 5 for Troop Review in Paris.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States Army, will sail September 5 on the U. S. liner Leviathan for France, where he has been invited to attend and review the maneuvers of the French army, according to an announcement in the Army and Navy Journal.

The chief of staff will be accompanied by his aid, Capt. Thomas J. Davis. The invitation to attend the maneuvers in France was extended to Gen. MacArthur by Gen. Weygand, through Col. Francois Pilion, Military Attache of the French Embassy.

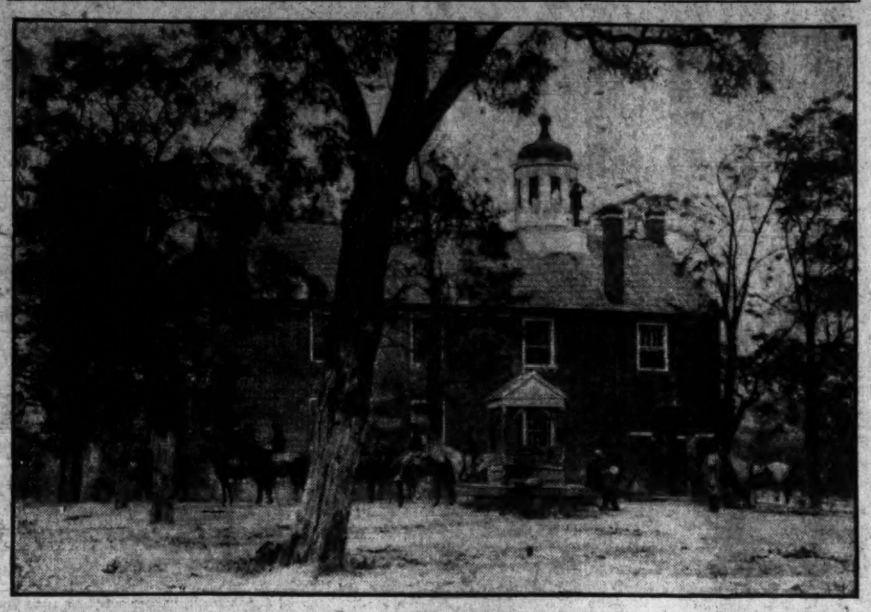
Gen. MacArthur also plans to make an inspection tour of the American cemeteries, which are being visited by the mothers of the soldiers buried there.

The maneuvers of the French army will be on an exceedingly large scale, from 40,000 to 50,000 men will participate. Following the field activities there will be a review of all the troops who participated. It is expected that Gen. MacArthur will be the ranking military visitor, as the other nations will probably be represented by their military attaches in Paris.

This will be the first time Gen. MacArthur has returned to France since the World War, and the country holds many memories for him.

It will also mark the first time that a chief of staff has left the country since Gen. Hugh L. Scott headed a military commission to Russia in 1917. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, with oak leaves cluster, and the Distinguished Service Medal, and in addition, seven Silver Star citations for personal gallantry in action. The French government made him a commander of the Legion of Honor, and awarded him the Croix de Guerre with two palms and a gold star. His service there also won him decorations from the Italian and Belgian governments.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 7



HERE is a scene which few in the Capital will remember. It was taken in 1863 at Fairfax Court House, in Virginia, one of that State's historic spots.

Soldiers on horses appear in the foreground, while the close observer may catch a glimpse of the lookout standing on the tower of the building watching for the appearance of an enemy.

The spot has been visited by thousands because of its historic background, but this particular scene belongs to those of the Civil War period.

Publisher Is Accused Of Income Tax Evasion

Minneapolis, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—An income tax evasion suit for $136,293 was filed against Wilford H. Fawcett, head of Fawcett Publications, Inc., in Federal Court today by W. H. Taylor, Minneapolis, on behalf of himself and the United States Government.

Mr. Taylor, formerly business manager of Fawcett publications here, charged Fawcett with filing a false and fraudulent claim against the Federal Government for repayment of taxes and subsequently receiving a refund of $15,327. Taylor filed the suit under a Federal law providing a reward for persons informing the Government of violations of the law.

Case of Diamond Is Nearing Jury

Witness Admits Giving False Evidence of Being Runner.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A jury will receive the case of Jack (Legs) Diamond and Paul Quattrocchi, on trial in Federal Court charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, tomorrow noon if the schedule agreed on at the close of today's session is followed through.

The Government rested its case this afternoon after its last witness, Nick Fusco, had been turned into something of a boomerang by Diamond's chief defense counsel, Daniel H. Prior.

Fusco admitted on Prior's cross-examination that his testimony about being a $30-a-week beer runner for Diamond and Quattrocchi was given under a "holy fear" of the Government. There was, Prior developed, a pending charge of transporting beer hanging over Fusco's head.

PLAN TO CUT NAVY PERSONNEL DENIED

Jahncke Sees Economies in Operation Possible to Slash Budget.

The Navy is planning to incorporate all possible operating economies in its budget for the next fiscal year, but Acting Secretary Jahncke said yesterday he was "not aware of any plan at present on the part of the Navy or administration to slash the enlisted personnel strength to 75,000 men."

"The Navy's present enlisted strength," Mr. Jahncke said, "approximates 79,800, and this represents a reduction of 4,800 effected by a new fleet operating plan announced by the Navy last October.

"This plan provided for about as low a limit of operating strength as was compatible with efficiency. It was a voluntary reduction with subsequent saving of about $11,000,000.

"The personnel reduction was made with the hope that as new ships might be commissioned we would be permitted to add to our opearting personnel as the necessity requires."

Two years ago the Navy budget was about $375,000,000, and for the present fiscal year it was reduced to nearly $335,000,000, but Congress increased the annual appropriation to approximately $355,000,000, including $10,000,000 for the first instalment on a $30,000,000 modernization program for the battleships Idaho, Wyoming and New Mexico. The other increases were for construction purposes, including funds for eleven destroyers, and expansion of the aviation branch.

Although naval officials said they did not know how much the budget would amount to for the next fiscal year, they made clear that sharp reductions were being noted all along the line, particularly in operation expenses of the fleets.

The GIRL About Town

DID Mrs. Coolidge bob her hair? That's a question no one seems to be able to answer. I met an old friend of mine, stationed at the White House for a handful of administrations, and he said he did not believe it.

Well, if she has, Grace has conquered again. My friend says that, contrary to public opinion, she usually won out in arguments with the astute Calvin. House guests at the summer White House found that out, too. Calvin loved a titbit of gossip, when it was harmless and hurt no one.

One night at White Pines Camp the presidential house party was discussing a certain Washington woman who got a lot of publicity out of her endeavors in public movements. "Why does she do it?" queried some one.

From the President's chair came the answer. "She's a born promoter," remarked Mr. Coolidge: "the last time she promoted something she got a year's rent free."

Cynthia and I dined on the Powhatan roof Thursday night. The air was heavenly, and after a good dinner I got quite mellow. Not far away from us was Senator William H. King, of Utah. Planning out some new District bills, I suppose. Didn't see Mrs. King or the twins. Somehow they appear to like Europe better. The senator seemed to be in fine shape. Just wait until the committee hearings begin and watch him mow down the bright ideas of the District Commissioners.

MY morning mail brought me a nicely scented missive from Arthur Campbell, son of the Marchioness of Huntley. Arthur is winning his way in England, and is well known in Paris, too. The last time he came to Washington he was quite a beau at one of my little teas. The marchionness is doing nicely, thank you, writes her dutiful son.

My chum, who works on a newspaper, called up the then Mrs. James McDonald the night the cable came from London announcing her engagement to the Marquis of Huntley. Mrs. McDonald denied it strenuously. Then, breaking under the glory of it all, she suddenly asked, "Peggy, what kind of a marchioness do you think I'd make, anyway?" Peggy reassured her and got a fine scoop as her reward.

Frenchman Assails Hoover Debt Plan

Charles Leneveu Calls Proposal Cut-and-Dried and Spectacular.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 7 (A.P.). Charles Leneveu, of Paris, president of L'Union Coloniale Francaise, in an address before the Institute of Politics tonight said the Hoover moratorium plan was announced "in a spectacular way" and was "a cut-and-dried affair" to which the French had to submit.

"We objected to the Hoover plan because of the spectacular way in which it was made," M. Leneveu asserted. "It came to us by surprise, more or less of a cut-and-dried affair, and we had to submit, and all that was asked from us was the sheer formality of signature, while we were under the impression, which may be false, that other nations had been approached before and had been able to discuss the terms of the plan before it was brought to us in such a cut-and-dried manner."

The speaker asserted the left wing of French political life believed "that America came to the rescue in order first to save American investments, which were imperiled by the state of affairs in Germany, and second, in order to benefit American industry."

Underworld of Chicago 'Taxed' to Help Capone

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Daily News said today that the cohorts of "Scarface Al" Capone were raising a fund to help him through his difficulties with the Federal courts, collections taking the form of "friendly rides," highway robbery and long term assessments.

The city's 2,500 bookmakers were the principal contributors to the fund, the News said. The paper said one Cicero bookmaker was forced to hand over $45,000, half of his winnings for the last year, and assessed 60 per cent of his winnings for the next six months.

CHURCH BLAMES U.S. IN ATTACK ON WINE

(United Press.)

The Government was charged, by Northern Methodist Church leaders yesterday, with helping to put 12 per cent wine, "highly intoxicating and degenerative" in homes "where little children gather around the table."

The attack, based on the sale of grape concentrate by Fruit Industries, Ltd. a California cooperative, which is aided by Farm Board loans and represented here by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former chief dry-law prosecutor of the Government, was published in the Adult Bible Class Monthly. The Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, intends to reprint the article in the Voice, which circulates among ministers and church leaders.

Mrs. Willebrandt is credited with having convinced the Government that "this traffic is not in fact in violation of the terms of the Volstead act," but the Methodist board characterized the "traffic" as "inimical to temperance."

Accuses Mrs. Willebrandt.

"It is disconcerting that Mrs. Willebrandt * * * a woman whose eloquent voice has been raised in Methodist conferences and in the councils of dry leaders, is the able and energetic attorney of Fruit Industries, Ltd." the article said.

The article also charged that Mrs. Willebrandt for this concern sought a monopoly on distribution of wine tonics. This request was said to have been refused, but it was stated that prohibition officials granted a reduction of the solid matter required in such tonics, from 30 to 22 per cent.

The Methodist attack follows closely on a Federal raid on a New York "wine-brick" shop, which sold grape concentrates in solid form. Customers were told to dissolve these, but not to allow them to stand, else they would turn to wine. Mrs. Willebrandt's concern sells a grape juice concentrate called "Vine-Glo" in kegs and provides for bottling same after it has remained in one's house for 60 days. The Government has not interfered with this distribution.

Termed Law Violation.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the Methodist board, almost alone of the prominent dry leaders, last spring took an outspoken attitude that sale of Vine-Glo violated the law, in that intent to make intoxicating wine was clearly showed. The Antisaloon League voiced no formal protest. The Wickersham Commission, in its prohibition report, held that the tacit legalization of the fruit juice was "an invitation to hypocrisy," and the Methodist quoted this characterization in the magazine article disclosed yesterday.

"There need be no controversy as to what is being done," the article said. "The 'grape juice' delivered to the housewife may not be intoxicating—when delivered. It inevitably becomes intoxicating. It is intended that it shall become intoxicating.

"Through its loans in promotion of this traffic the Government participates in the systematic and effective invasion of the spirit and intent of the national prohibition amendment."

Injured Terrorists Are Operated On Both Winkler and Moran Suffer Broken Jaws in Car Crash.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Gus Winkler, pal of notorious Fred "Killer" Burke, and suspect in a dozen crimes in the Middle West, and John Moran, alias Clyatts, were still in serious condition tonight from injuries suffered in an automobile wreck Wednesday. County and State officers waited opportunity to question them.

Both men were operated upon today. Winkler was suffering from a fractured skull and broken jaw and Moran had jawbone and cheekbone fractures and a broken shoulder. Doctors said both probably would recover.

Mystery surrounding identity of Moran was still unsolved. Despite word from Chief of Police Warren Burch, of Mobile, Ala., that a Mrs. Katherine Clyatts lived there and had a son, John, and a telegram signed by "Mrs. Katherine Clyatts," asking into "my son's condition," Sheriff Cutler still refused to believe that was the man's right name.

LAW GROUP ASSAILS ALIENS' TREATMENT

Wickersham Report Asserts Methods Are Tyrannical and Oppressive.

penheimer's proposals, Henry W. Anderson and Kenneth Mackintosh writing separate statements agreeing in part. Mr. Anderson thought the present Federal courts should handle deportation cases, instead of a new court being created.

Emphasizing the extent of the activities investigated, the commission pointed out that the Labor Department annually questions the right of 100,000 persons to remain and deports about 15,000 a year. The commission's statement, after praising Mr. Oppenheimer's report, said:

"Happily, his investigation discovered nothing worse than the kind of unfairness to the suspected deportee which occasionally results where men untrained in the law become too zealous as prosecutors to remain judicial as judges." The commission earlier, however, asserted that the laws make of an immigration agent a detective, a prosecutor and a judge—"three functions which we have found it safe in no other phase of life to intrust to any one individual." Striking instances of oppression, unfairness and hardship are "certainly to be expected" under such a rigid law and such a system of administration, it added.

Hits Radical Departure.

The commission also exonerated foreign-born from having been responsible "for a disproportionate share of the crime current in the country."

The frequently proposed plans for registration of all aliens brought from Mr. Oppenheimer the suggestion that increased efficiency and funds for deportation work might expel most of the deportable aliens and avoid necessity of "so radical a departure from our traditions as a general registration law."

But vigorous enforcement of deportation laws is necessary, he added.

He also expressed disapproval of the provisions of the present law making deportation depend upon "questions of private morals," and expressed hope that substitutes could be found for these provisions in a much-needed codification of the piecemeal and far-from-clear immigration laws.

Reprinted Pathetic Letters.

Mr. Oppenheimer also reprinted a number of pathetic letters from deported persons illustrating injustices worked by the rigid laws. One, written by a Mexican, addressed to President Hoover, started out: "Pardon my nerve, but——" and recited that he was deported because he "had not his papers straight" leaving a wife and two children. The Mexican said he was not registered in Mexico and was a "man without a country." "I must help my children so they can have a little education," he said. "I like to get back home (to New Orleans, where he lived for fifteen years). Kindly let me know if there is any hope to get a chance to be American and be by my family."

"There was no hope," Mr. Oppenheimer commented. The President can pardon any Federal offender, but neither he nor any one else has the power to allow a deported alien such as this to rejoin his American family.

Doak to Issue Statement On Wickersham Findings

(Associated Press.)

A statement is to be issued today, giving the views of Secretary Doak on the Wickersham Commission's report on deportation, which vigorously criticized officials of the Labor Department.

Mr. Doak made this announcement tonight, saying that until the statement is made public, he preferred not to comment on the report.

The Secretary, at a recent press conference, in discussing criticisms, said immigration officials frequently were called in by local police and other authorities when they arrested or detained aliens who might be deportable.

These inspectors, he said, question the aliens and determine whether they are legally in the United States.

He added that immigration officials necessarily had a wider latitude than police in picking up and questioning doubtful aliens. It often is necessary, he said, to question these people without a warrant.

The burden of proof that he has entered the country legally, the Secretary added, lies with the alien. Should he be unable to prove legal entry he may be deported.

The immigration question is one to which Secretary Doak has devoted much time since he became head of the Department of Labor last December.

Capital Man to Direct Criminal Rehabilitation

Boston, Aug. 7 ((A.P.).—The State Department of Correction today announced it had instituted a new division, which, designed to prevent crime, will endeavor to rehabilitate mentally and morally the inmates of the State's correctional institutions. Frank Loveland, of Washington, D. C., has been named director.

Loveland, a native of Sydney, Iowa, is 29 years old. After being graduated from Northwestern University in 1923, he taught sociology in Chicago and then made a survey of the penal and parole system of Georgia. Later he was associated with the Harvard Law School Crime Survey Commission. He was in charge of parole supervision in Federal penal and correctional institutions at Washington.

Former White House Horticulturist Dies

Mr. Simonds, a native of Herfordshire, England, came to this country in 1886. He was employed five years in the White House gardens in Washington.

U. S. Admits Vivian Duncan's Baby.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Vivian Duncan's 5-months-old daughter, Evelyn, over whose nationality there was considerable question recently because she was born in Germany, the child of a Swedish father and an American mother, was peacefully admitted to this country by immigration authorities today when Miss Duncan and her daughter arrived on the liner Paris.

IL DUCE, BRUENING TOAST EACH OTHER

Place Groundwork for New Italo-Reich Friendship; Laud Hoover Plan.

Rome, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Bruening laid the groundwork today for a new friendship between Italy and Germany and started talking brass tacks on practical measures for the common good of the world.

The Italian premier and chief of Fascists and the German chancellor, whose political life is threatened by Hitlerite Fascists at home, dealt frankly with European sore spots in their first meeting.

Tonight they toasted each other at a dinner given by Signor Mussolini to Herr Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, using words that, for all their generality of tone, promised sincere efforts to push or pull Europe out of the slough of despond.

In his dinner speech the duce paid tribute to German culture and expressed deep sympathy with the Reich in its present plight. He paid tribute to the Hoover war debt plan as an aid in healing the moral and material wound left by the war.

Herr Bruening also touched on the Hoover war debt action, declaring it to be "of trail-blazing importance."

The accord between Mussolini and Bruening was indicated when the duce met the chancellor at the railroad station this morning and for five minutes they talked like old friends on the station platform. And on the three occasions when they were seen together during the day they had smiles for one another.

The main conference today was held in Mussolini's office. Those present were the duce, the chancellor, Dr. Curtius, Signor Grandi and German Ambassador Von Schubert.

The Germans came primarily to thank Italy for promptly accepting, and continued good will in supporting, the Hoover plan, and both Mussolini and Bruening let it be known they were using the visit as an opportunity to tell each other that war is over and the world needs fresh air.

Mussolini long has insisted that Italy must be permitted all the rights of a first-class power. Particularly his policy has been interpreted as tending toward a dominant position in the Balkans, while Germany professed to seek only strong commercial relations there. That the duce has similar designs was indicated by the Italian trade treaties with Austria and Hungary.

Germany Allays Fears Of Throttling of Trade

Berlin, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Rumors and fears of a forthcoming general throttling of German imports through restrictions on foreign exchange brought an announcement from the government tonight that 'until further notice" the purchase of foreign currencies by legitimate import and export firms would be unrestricted.

Importers, however, will be expected "to exercise restraint" in regard to foreign luxury articles in view of the economic situation and will be required to submit periodically reports of all business involving foreign exchange.

The government foreign exchange announcement did not make clear just what, if any, pressure was likely to be exerted on firms whose reports show they failed to "exercise restraint."

Stimson, McDonald Discuss Finances

Rogart, Scotland, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald continued their informal discussion today of the world's financial situation, and took time off to go to Dornoch, where they saw the Highland games.

For the first time today it was admitted the two statesmen were discussing other subjects than the history of the Scottish country in which they are taking a rest.

"We are friends," said Mr. MacDonald, "and naturally when we meet we talk.

"This time we certainly talked about the financial situation, but our conversations were entirely unofficial and can have no political significance. They were just friendly talks."

Mr. and Mrs. Stimson, Mr. MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, got up early this morning, and before breakfast they enjoyed a half-hour walk over the Highland moors near the century-old farmhouse in which the American Secretary and his wife are entertaining their guests.

HINDENBURG BACKS FREEDOM OF PRESS

Prussian Government Is Rebuked for Forcing Papers to Publish Manifesto.

Berlin, Aug. 7 (U.P.). — President Paul von Hindenburg, the stanch, gray-haired soldier whose name has become a symbol for strength in war and peace, entered the battle lists again today in defense of freedom of the press.

The president sharply rebuked the Prussian government of Premier Otto Braun for forcing all Prussian newspapers to publish a political manifesto denouncing next Sunday's plebiscite for dissolution of the Diet and exhorting the voters to stay away from the polls.

Von Hindenburg also ordered the central government to prepare modifications of his presidential decree of July 17, under which the Prussian cabinet assumed dictatorial powers in forcing publication of the manifesto.

The controversy caused a nation-wide sensation, with newspapers taking a leading part in the demand that their rights be respected. It was generally believed that the incident had increased the plebiscite's chances of success. Previously, there had been little doubt that it would fail, but the agitation started by the 2,500 daily newspapers of all political trends, which were forced to carry the manifesto on their front pages, appeared to have aroused wide resentment against the Braun government.

The Nationalist party originated the plebiscite, but the Fascists of Adolph Hitler and the Communists (all three parties being bitter foes) joined in support of the move to embarrass the cabinet. They were not believed to have enough strength to force dissolution of the diet, because Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and other members of the Reichs government urged the voters to remain away from the polls.

The Deutsche Allgemeine said, however, that it was believed some 2,000,000 new adherents to the plebiscite had been won as a result of the newspaper incident. President von Hindenburg's intervention may have tended to alleviate the resentment, it was believed. The president acted despite the fact that he is personally opposed to the plebiscite and will remain away from the polls on Sunday.

The continued stability of the nation's finances was indicated today with announcement that restrictions on foreign exchange for importers would be lifted Saturday.

Philadelphia, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Specific bequests of more than $175,000 were made in the will of Dr. Richard A. F. Penrose, who left the residue of his estate, valued at $1,000,000, to the American Philosophical Society and the Geological Society of America.

The University of Chicago receives $50,000 to be used for the benefit of the Journal of Geology, of which Dr. Penrose was one of the editors for many years. The Economic Geology Publishing Co., incorporated in the District of Columbia, is given $25,000 to be used for the benefit of its journal.

BABY KILLING IS LAID AT COLL MOB'S DOOR

Harlem Police Start Hunt for Gangsters Named by Informer.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Harlem baby killers were identified to police today as henchmen of Vincent Coll, gangster rival of Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Fleigenheimer, intent on hunting renegade members of the Coll mob.

A man arrested last night on another charge told detectives that he was a witness to the recent shooting of five children, one of whom died, on the crowded streets of "Little Italy." The informer's name was withheld.

He gave the license number of the car in which the gangsters rode through East 107th street to spray half a hundred bullets among children playing before the tenements. He said the four occupants of the car were four members of the Coll mob gunning for Joie Rad, who had left the Coll ranks with "One-Eye" Rock and others to form a new gang and so split the underworld faction arrayed against Dutch Schultz.

Police were told one of the four was "Trigger Frank" Coppola, another a fellow named Grecco, and a third known to the informer as Louis. The witness said he didn't know the fourth man's name but was acquainted with him and knew him to be, like the others, one of Coll's men.

Coll has not been seen around his usual haunts of late and detectives furnished with the latest information started out tonight to round him up with all his gang. They said they thought they knew where to find the automobile used in the child shooting, now they had the license number.

The story told to police by the unnamed informant was said to dovetail with that related by Anthony Trobino, who admitted yesterday he was the intended target for the gangster bullets that killed one child and wounded four others in Harlem's Little Italy.

The informant, it was learned, told an eye-witness story of the shooting to a detective who had befriended him when he sought parole some time ago on a robbery charge. He said he was walking down the street when the gangsters' car passed. He asserted he saw "Trigger Frank" Coppola in the back seat with a shotgun poking through the window, "Louie" seated beside him with another shotgun and Grecco seated on a folding seat behind the driver with a pistol in hand.

GOURMETS DELIGHT IN GERMAN DISHES

Appetizing Nutritious, Filling and Low in Cost, Says U. S. Bureau.

In the effort to offer to the housewives of the Nation new low cost recipes which contain the proper amounts of nourishment the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the women's division of the President's emergency committee for employment, is studying the diets used by other nations.

The thrift and culinary skill of German housewives have commended themselves to the bureau to such a degree that they are recommending certain German dishes as being appetizing, nutritious and filling. These three qualifications are necessary when the food budget is low, the bureau points out.

Although there are many German dishes that delight the fastidious taste of the gourmet, there are also many of homely origin and consequently inexpensive and simple to prepare.

Expenses Are Watched.

Whether the food is elaborate or plain, German housewives watch expenses. They also give meticulous attention to the preparation, with cleanliness as the foundation on which to begin to work. Hands, kitchen, pots and pans and tableware all come in for their share of scrubbing and polishing, and all washable foods and ingredients are rinsed and scrubbed before the meal is started.

The cooking process itself is deliberate and well planned. Disorder is as alien to the German kitchen as is dirt. And the right kind and size of cooking utensil is as important to them as any other step in food preparation. But their zeal in avoiding undercooking sometimes leads them into overcooking. With the present-day knowledge of the various necessary elements contained in foods, some of which are destroyed by wrong cooking methods, some of the German time schedules should be modified, the bureau says.

The Germans are fond of sour and highly spiced food, typical of which are sauer kraut, pig's knuckles and frankfurters—the sausages which take their name from that ancient Prussian city which dates back to the twelfth century. The frankfurter is not, however, so ancient in origin and is a comparatively recent innovation of spiced meat in a sausage casing—perhaps best known in this country as the "hot dog." The native German variety is usually shorter, fatter and much more moist than the one made here.

Recipes are included for all these German dishes which serve five persons.

RECIPES.

Cabbage With Mutton or Lamb.

2 pounds breast mutton or lamb
1 quart water
1 large head cabbage
3 long thin slices salt pork
3 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons finely choped onion
8 or 10 cloves.

Wipe the meat and cut in medium-sized pieces. Add to the water, partly cover and simmer until the meat is tender. Drain and reserve the broth. Cut the meat from the bones in small pieces and discard excess fat. Remove the outer leaves from the cabbage. Wash and cut the head in eighths, leaving a rim of the heart to hold the leaves together.

Lay the three strips of pork in the bottom of a large heavy pan and heat the pork for a few minutes to fry out the fat. Over the pork, make an alternate layer of cabbage and meat. Season with the salt, pepper, onion, and cloves. Continue until all ingredients are used and have a layer of the cabbage on top. Pour one-half cup of the broth over the cabbage. Cover tightly and cook over low heat or over an asbestos mat for 30 minutes or until the cabbage on top is almost tender. Remove the cover, turn the cabbage slices on top and cook a little longer until most of the liquid has evaporated. Watch carefully to keep from burning. Turn onto a platter and remove the salt pork before serving; if preferred. This dish may also be cooked en casserole.

Potatoes With Bay Leaves.

½ cup finely chopped diced salt pork
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 pint boiling water
8 pared potatoes, cut into quarters
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 bay leaves
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 tablespoons browned flour
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Fry out the salt pork until brown and crisp. Remove the pork and cook onions in the fat until lightly browned. Add to the water and potatoes with the salt, pepper, and bay leaves, cover and boil gently until the potatoes are done. Remove the bay leaves and stir in the vinegar, the browned flour, and crisped pork. When well mixed, serve with the parsley sprinkled over the top.

Carrots Cooked in Broth.

2 to 3 cups mutton or lamb broth
5 or 6 medium-sized carrots
Pepper
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Heat the broth to boiling. Wash, scrape, and cut the carrots into thin lengthwise pieces. Cook them in the broth from 10 to 15 minutes or until tender. Season with salt, pepper, and parsley. Serve with some of the broth.

Cheese Cake.

1 pound cottage cheese
1-3 cup sugar
¼ cup milk or cream
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup chopped raisins
½ teaspoon salt
Rind and juice of 1 lemon
2 teaspoons melted butter.

Press the cheese through a fine sieve. Add the cream, sugar, salt, raisins, beaten eggs, melted butter, and lemon juice and grated rind, and stir until well mixed. Line a deep pie tin with pastry and bake until a delicate brown. Fill with the cheese mixture. Bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center, about 15 to 20 minutes. Serve cold.

ORANGE BISCUITS.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 cups Self-Rising Washington flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
¾ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
12 pieces of loaf sugar soaked in ½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons powdered sugar mixed with ¼ tablespoon orange rind

Rub shortening with fingertips into the Self-Rising Washington flour (which may be purchased at grocers and delicatessen stores) having added the salt and orange rind; gradually add the orange juice. Roll thin and cut out the biscuits as usual. Put on half of each of them a small loaf of sugar which has been soaked in the orange juice, top with the rest of the biscuits, and spread over all powdered sugar mixed with orange rind and sprinkled with orange juice. Makes twelve biscuits.

Place in the refrigerator to chill and then bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahr.) about 15 minutes.

CREAM JELL.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 package Sanico jelly (any desired flavor)
1 pint water
1 pint Sanico ice cream vanilla (except for chocolate flavor jelly—in that case use chocolate ice cream)

Dissolve the package of jelly in one-half pint of boiling water, add another one-half pint of cold water, and let set until really cold (but not beginning to set), then whip into this cold jelly the pint of ice cream, whipping all well and let stand until firm. If electric refrigerator is used, put mixture in one of the pans and let set, but if ordinary ice-box is used, set dish on top of ice until firm. This makes quite a good dish and will keep for a couple of days.

FLUFF PUDDING.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

2 tablespoons Asco gelatin
2 cups cream
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Soak gelatin in cold water half an hour. Scald the milk and dissolve the gelatin in it. Beat the yolks and sugar together, stir into boiling milk and cook two minutes. Take from the fire, add vanilla, and turn into a bowl to cool. Stand the bowl in a pan of cracked ice, and stir until it thickens then add the whipped cream, turn into sherbet glasses and set away to harden. Serve with whipped cream.

ICE CREAM PIE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 teaspoon Washington Flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¾ cup sugar
1 pint sweet milk
1 box coconut
½ teaspoon Land of Lakes Butter
2 egg whites (Sanico)

Make a smooth paste of the flour, salt and cornstarch by mixing with a small amount of milk. Stir in sugar and remaining milk, making sure that the sugar is partially dissolved before placing over fire. Cook in double boiler, adding half of the coconut before mixture thickens. When thickened and while still hot, add butter and stifily beaten egg whites. Stir mixture thoroughly. Pour into baked crust and sprinkle with remaining coconut. Serve cold.

KATHLEEN ARMENTROUT,

COFFEE ICE CREAM.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 cup strong boiled Victor Coffee
1 cup milk
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Salt
1 can Evaporated Milk (thoroughly chilled).

Heat boiled coffee and milk in double boiler. Add salt, sugar and cornstarch which have been mixed and moistened with a little cold, boiled coffee. Stir constantly until mixture is thickened.

Whip Evaporated Milk, which has been chilled two or three hours in a bowl. An electric eggbeater is ideal for this purpose. When whipped, add to the above mixture, which has been cooled.

Freeze. If electric refrigerator is to be used for freezing, remove tray three or four times during freezing period and stir well. This stirring gives a wonderfully smooth consistency to the ice cream.

Note: Vanilla added to the above recipe will change the coffee ice cream into a maple ice cream; and both ice creams are delicious, equal to any ice cream made entirely of cream.

MRS. O. E. ROBERTS, Jr.
813 Ingraham street northwest.

3 oranges
2 lemons
1 cup sugar
1 cup raspberry syrup
1 quart white grape juice
1 quart National ginger ale

Water

Extract the juice from the oranges and lemons and mix with the raspberry syrup and sugar; grate the pineapple and add to the foregoing mixture, adding enough cold water to make a full pint. Allow this to stand for ten minutes, arrange a block of ice in a punch bowl and pour the mixture over, adding the grape juice and ginger ale just at serving time. This makes a healthy appetizer.

Lawrence Choate, Washington business man and international president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Episcopal laymen's organization, will preside over business sessions of the brotherhood convention to be held August 27 to September 3 at Sewanee, Tenn. Mr. Choate has been president of the brotherhood for three years.

A program declared to be the most far-reaching ever undertaken by the brotherhood organization in the nearly 50 years of its existence will be presented at Sewanee for adoption. The program has been worked out largely under Mr. Choate's leadership.

The psychology of religious experience, intellectual difficulties and religion, problems of college students, opportunities for work in rural communities, international relations—these and other topics of paramount interest at the present time are included on the convention program.

Presiding Bishop to Speak.

The Most Rev. James DeWolf Perry, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States, heads the list of church leaders who appear on the program to lead discussions, conduct classes or instruction or give addresses. Another leading figure in the convention will be the Right Rev. C. S. Reifsnider, of Tokyo, Japan. He will preside at an "international night" program August 28 when representatives of a number of foreign nations will speak.

Herman Page, Bishop of Michigan and formerly of Chicago, will be the keynoter of the convention as a whole. The Right Rev. Frank A. Juhan, Bishop of Florida, will be another headliner on the convention program.

Big Summer Conference.

The convention is essentially a summer conference devoted entirely to church work among men and boys, with special reference to young men. Speakers and leaders on some of the outstanding topics will be: Dean William H. Nes, New Orleans, on "The Psychology of Religious Experience;" Dr. H. H. Lumpkin, Madison, Wis., "Intellectual Difficulties and Religion;" the Rev. C. Leslie Glenn, Cambridge, Mass., "Problems of College Students;" Prof. A. J. Colbert, University of Wisconsin, "Helping Our Rural Folk;" William F. Pelham, Chicago, national council member; Irwin C. Johnson, Detroit, director of advance section of the convention; the Rev. B. H. Heinheimer, New York; Andrew T. Ogawa, graduate Japanese student at the University of Pennsylvania; W. L. Balthis, Gastonia, N. C., chairman, senior division of the convention.

The convention is expected to bring together leaders in adult and young men's work of the Episcopal Church throughout the country. The brotherhood organization was founded at St. James' Church, Chicago, nearly 50 years ago. Three Washington men are national council members of the order—Messrs. Barber and Pelham, and James L. Houghteling, son of the founder. A delegation of 50 is expected to go from this city to the convention.

PIONEERS HONORED CIRCUIT PREACHERS

Often Advertising Medium in Those Days; Predecessor of Church Bulletin.

In the olden days—what historians are wont to call the pioneer days—the pulpit was used as an advertising medium. This was particularly true in those regions not yet reached by newspapers, and there were many such. Members of the church and those who were not, who had any article for sale or barter told the circuit rider about it, and he announced the fact before he began to "bow down upon the brethren."

It is a wonder that our writers of history have not investigated this interesting phase of our civilization. Theodore Roosevelt, in his "Winning of the West," rather hints at it when he says that the circuit riders saved the civilization of that frontier. But he does not elaborate on the part of the circuit rider—and by that term is meant the preacher of every denomination who penetrated the wilderness and taught the rough and riotous frontiersmen. Even the Jesuits did that—played in bringing the community into touch with itself and in developing the various indutries of the new land.

Carriers of News.

With the passing of the frontier the oldtime circuit rider, with his fleet-footed horse—what horse traders they were!—his saddlebags, which carried a change of linen and his Bible, and his manners and customs, also passed. He was the carrier of news; and wherever he stopped for the night, in hospitable cabin or village house, he retailed all the news to that family of other families for miles around. So his coming was an event, and it is no wonder that every respectable home had one room set aside for the minister.

In the intervening century the church has been less and less used as a place of such interesting phases of society; and it was not until our times that churches began to publish their bulletins, which give much of the information that the old frontier preacher carried around in his head and gossiped about wherever he went.

Nearly every church in Washington issues its bulletin, some printed, many mimeographed, and every one full of meat. Some of these are merely church papers, giving the news of the day's services and of the members of the parish, who is sick, who has a new baby, who has come back for a visit, who is courting, and every personal item that folks just love to talk about.

Bulletins Now Common.

Some of these bulletins are issued by societies and Bible classes, and it was one of the latter, issued by the Men's Bible Class of the Eastern Presbyterian Church, which started this typewriter to clicking off these reminiscences. It is a most interesting commentary on the doings of that class. Here is an item about the class attendance; there one about a recent article on this page in relation to comfort in churches; yonder one about a class dinner; still another about the annual summer outing, the names of those members who have birthdays, and their dates, are given, who is ill and where they are hospitalizing, the inevitable new baby, lesson topics and a dozen more items that every member of the class will talk about and some that they will laugh about, and a few that will draw on their sympathies, are to be found on four smal typewritten pages.

This bulletin is not unique except in its form and in that it fits the class for which it is written. There are a number of others of similar grade issue by other classes in this city. I would like to see samples of all church and class bulletins. They may contain ideas which could be passed on to the church-going community and improve the status of the churches.—D. R. B.

Fort Myer Chaplain At Albright Memorial

Chaplain Ralph C. Deibert, of Fort Myer, Va., who is filling the pulpit of Albright Memorial Church, while the pastor, the Rev. George E. Schnabel, is touring the Holy Land, is preaching a series of sermons on the different phases of the life and character of Jesus.

Endeavorers to Discuss Amusements.

Warren Peterman will lead the discussion at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. The topic is: "Good and Bad Features in Amusements."

WILL PREACH

Manken to Speak At Temple Heights

Dr. Henry Manken, jr., pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Incarnation, and the music will be directed by J. Walter Humphrey. Arthur Tabbutt, bass soloist of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, will sing "Gloria," by Bucci-Teccia, and "My Task," by Ashford.

The guests tomorrow will be the officers and members of the following blue lodges and chapters of the Eastern Star, with their families:

Naval Lodge, Kenneth G. Fernald, master; Pentalpha Lodge, John W. Barnes, master; Temple-Noyes Lodge, John W. Littlepage, master, and Joseph H. Milans Lodge, Irving G. Gray, master. The Angel-Watered Lily

"UNTIL Christ be formed in you." Let Gabriel Rosetti illustrate the meaning in his picture, "Behold the Handmaid of the Lord," painted when he was but 21 years old. Mary has just started from sleep on her little white bed, wakened by the bright vision of the angel, and is casting in her mind "what manner of salutation this should be." A simple blue curtain hangs behind her. The only other furnishing in the room is a little handloom on which she has been weaving her ideals—red for divine love, white for purity of heart, and the lilies in the pattern speak of beautiful life springing up to God. A dove is wafted in at the window and the angel holds in his hand a white lily which he is offering to Mary. To the virgin this experience meant a secret that she could not share, participation in a fearful mystery that was charged with momentous significance for all time and for other worlds. This untutored peasant girl with no dowry but a pure heart and a longing to do God's will is brought face to face with the unescapable and the inscrutable.

Rosetti was poet as well as painter and in his verses to Mary's girlhood he has expressed this moment of the girl's awakening to the angel's announcement:

> "So held she through her girlhood, as it were,
> An angel-watered lily, that near God
> Grows and is quiet. Till one dawn at home
> She woke in her white bed, and had no fear
> At all, yet wept till sunshine, and felt awed,
> Because the fullness of the time had come."

In her maiden heart grew the angel-watered lily, near God and quiet. This ideal of white purity she wove day after day into her tapestry, until by the angel hand it is brought to her, from heaven's garden, divinely real. Mary has no longer a personal will; she has surrendered it to God's dread keeping. She gladly gives him all. "And Mary said, behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word?" It is in such moments of surrender that new eras begin to be and from which God's Messiah is reborn.

U. S. AGAIN IN TEST OF RECAPTURE LAW

(Associated Press.)

A new test of the railroad excess profits recapture law was begun yesterday with the Government declining to pay the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad sums due for transportation services.

Comptroller General McCarl notified the line that all money due it from the Government would be withheld until the total equals the sum which the Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered the railroad to pay into the Treasury.

The next step of the carrier was uncertain, but it was thought likely the case, like that of the St. Louis & O'Fallon, would finally be carried to the Supreme Court.

The Interstate Commerce Commission on April 7 ordered the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac, a bridge line between Washington and Richmond, to pay into the railroad revolving fund held by the United States Treasury $696,705.

Aims to Aid Needy Roads.

This was done under the provision of the 1920 transportation act which was framed to entitle the Government to half of what a railroad earns in excess of a "fair return." The law fixed a "fair return" at 5½ to 6 per cent, and the commission in making rates has held the percentage should be 5¾.

Sums so paid to the Government are deposited in a revolving fund from which it was intended that loans be made to needy railroads. No such loans have yet been made, however, as the Government's final right to the money has never been established.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, convinced it can not carry out the terms of the law, has recommended that Congress repeal the fair return and recapture clauses.

Prior to the April 7 order the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac had paid under protest $194,991. The excess profits of the road for the years 1920 to 1923, inclusive, were fixed by the commission at $1,783,392. Yesterday was the final date for settlement by the road.

Sought to Correct Faults.

The case was the second final recapture order issued by the commission. In it efforts were made to correct methods of estimating the value of the railroad's property, which were held improper by the Supreme Court in the O'Fallon case.

Several score of tentative recapture findings have been issued, but all are subject to review by the commission before becoming final.

The St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad, when a final recapture order was issued, went into the United States District Court in an effort to avoid payment. The Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac, however, left the first move to the Government.

Without any precedent on which to act, the commission directed Chairman Ezra Brainerd to ask Comptroller General McCarl what could be done. McCarl answered by notifying the Richmond offices of the railroad that the Government would withhold all pay due the line from the Government for hauling mail, freight and passengers.

Owned by Six Railroads.

The Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac is owned by six railroads running into the National Capital. For hauling mail alone the railroad received $392,641 from the Government in 1929; $388,324 in 1930 and $188,412 during the first six months of 1931.

Although only one final recapture order now stands, the valuation bureau of the commission has made tentative findings in several scores of cases. The largest is that of the Norfolk & Western Railway, which has been held tentatively to owe the revolving fund $15,849,344.51.

It was estimated at the commission yesterday that between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 of railroad funds are now held up through tentative recapture reports. Many millions more are held pending decisions of the commission by roads not yet reported on. Slightly more than $10,000,000 has been paid into the United States Treasury by the railroads under protest.

PLOWS USED IN WAR ON FOREST BLAZES

Forecast of Rain Heartens Crews Fighting Fires in Northwest Woods.

Spokane, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Forest fire fighters today ringed the Deer Creek fire with spades and plows for 83 miles, while predictions of rain heartened crews battling other thousands of acres of blazing northwest woods.

At Priest River, Idaho, where flames devastated farms and forests, R. Y. Stuart, Washington, D. C., chief forester, joined Maj. Evan W. Kelly in hurling men against the flames.

Rains were predicted in eastern Washington, north Idaho and Montana, as an ally to the 3,000 fire fighters. The U. S. Weather Bureau said there was little likelihood of lightning, which has started hundreds of fires in the district.

The Priest River valley fire, which ravaged 22 homes and drove hundreds of refugees before it, was being combatted by from 1,200 to 1,700 smoke eaters and volunteers.

In central Idaho, fires still raged in national forests, but no lives appeared to be menaced.

Approximately 300 fires, ranging in size from a quarter of an acre to 40,000 acres, were believed burning today. Lines were held against the dangerous ones. More than $1,000,000 damage had been wrought. Exact Red Cross estimates of rehabilitation needs in the Priest River valley were still lacking, though that organization sent out a call for $15,000.

Duck-Hunting Ban Being Considered

Government May Forbid Shooting, Due to Shortage in Year's Supply.

A ban on duck hunting this season is being considered by the Department of Agriculture. Due to the drought in the Canadian breeding grounds, it is believed that hunters may have to forego part, if not all, of their duck shooting.

Biologists of the department, who have toured the drought affected areas, have reported that the ponds and lakes in the prairie regions, where the ducks breed, are 98 per cent dried up.

Not all the ducks shot in the United States are bred in the Canadian regions; but the biologists report that most of the breeding places in this country have also been affected by the drought.

HUNGARY PUTS CURB ON CASH TRANSFERS

New Decree Forbids Sending Money Abroad Without Bank's Permit.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The government issued an emergency decree tonight forbidding transfer of currency abroad without permission of the National Bank.

Attempting to bolster the national financial situation, which recently has been endangered, the decree prohibited export of Hungarian bank notes, bonds or stocks and placed a ban on removal of credits in Hungarian or foreign currency to foreign countries. Hungarian money may not be paid to foreigners except as interest falling due on engagements, the decree stipulated.

Persons crossing the frontier of Hungary to other nations will be entitled to take only 300 pengoe (about $51) with them. Exporters sending goods out of Hungary must offer the full value of the foreign currency involved to the National Bank.

Quotations of foreign currency rates on the bourse will be suspended and the National Bank will fix official quotations. The decree stipulated that violation of any of the emergency regulations would be punishable by two months in prison and a fine of 8,000 pengo (about $1,220).

The Hungarian government recently has made strenuous efforts to relieve the financial crisis facing the nation, but there has been some difficulty in arranging for a proposed $25,000,000 issue of Hungarian treasury notes in which foreign banks would participate.

The Bank of England was reported to have decided not to participate in the issue, and it was believed Scandinavian banks might take over the British share. The attitude of Wall street interests was expected to determine the success or failure of the project.

When the Bank for International Settlement board was in session early this week it was informed that the Hungarian situation was critical.

WITHDRAWING FROM HAITI.

Americans have more cause to rejoice in the agreement between this country and Haiti than have the natives themselves. Supervision of the black republic has been a thankless job and a profitless one. It will be a happy day for the United States when its last marine is withdrawn and Haiti is capable of taking care of its own affairs.

The accord which has just been signed provides for the withdrawal of American influence and control over several departments of the Haitian government. Supervision of public improvements, agriculture, industrial education and sanitation will be relinquished. Yet an American scientific mission will maintain control over the water systems at Port-au-Prince and Cape Haitien until the evacuation of American troops. In accordance with the recommendations of the Forbes Commission, which President Hoover sent to the island soon after he took office, the United States will gradually leave affairs of the republic in the hands of the natives. If their training is effective the republic should be free of American supervision within a few years.

This agreement does not provide for withdrawal of the marines. Efforts are being made to replace marine officers in the Haitian guard with native officers so that the new government may rely upon its own forces for the maintenance of law and order. But this will take some time. Too much haste might plunge the little country into anarchy again, and the same painful process of stabilization would have to be reenacted.

It is notable also that the United States retains control over the republic's finances, although part of the work of the finance receiver was turned over to the Haitians. The government is not yet strong enough to make its own way through the fiscal wilderness without the guidance of Uncle Sam. The true test of Haiti's stability will come when financial supervision by the United States is taken away.

The greatest danger to Haiti in the withdrawal of American influence and supervision lies in the possibility that native politicians will try to cut all ties with the United States before the republic is capable of maintaining a stable government. A country with so little traditional stability is easily plunged into fresh chaos. Tutelage in self-government must necessarily be slow. The Haitian people must be patient, realizing that precipitate action now can mean only distress and further intervention. In view of the atttitude it has taken against the intermingling of American and European politics, the United States could not stand by and see the republic slip back into anarchy.

FRANCE'S MONEY MARKET.

Many are asking how it is possible that Paris has quietly become the unquestioned financial center of Europe. Are France's great stock of gold and her overflowing banks due to the frugality of her peasants? How is it that France, ravaged by war as no other country and bled of financial resources, is today comparatively prosperous and prepared to consider large loans to all the world? It is a truly remarkable situation and one that elicits admiration, not alone for French thrift and conservatism, but also for the manifestation of foresight and shrewd financiering.

The saving habits of the people and the economical administration of both business and governmental affairs must be given due credit for the sound financial conditions in France today. Appreciation of these conservative habits by other countries has also helped to make France the storehouse of vast foreign funds. First to seek refuge and safety in the strong vaults of Paris were the Russians. Much wealth from the days of the Czar found its way there as well as that which later escaped the clutches of the Soviet.

Fortunes from all over the world, particularly during the last decade, have been concentrated in France by wealthy men of many nationalities who believed it to be the safest place in Europe. The threats of Hitlerites and Communists in Germany have, more recently, caused transfers to Paris by many individual Germans. In addition to the great public institutions, France has many financial houses that do not have to submit yearly statements of their resources. The deposits in these establishments, added to known funds, combine to make the total available wealth in that country such as has never been equaled before.

Nations from all over the world are seeking loans at Paris. Representatives of several South American republics are known to be there now and the smaller European nations crowding France's doorstep are unnumbered. Being much less sensitive than Germany, most of them are quite ready to submit to French political demands in addition to giving their notes in exchange for cash and credit. Paris handles these matters quietly. The world at large knows but little of the extent to which French influence has been extended in comparatively recent months through financial channels.

The French attribute, in considerable measure, the sudden embarrassment of the Bank of England to a statement made by no less a personage than the British foreign secretary himself. Secretary Henderson, upon his first visit to Paris to urge heavy financial assistance from France to prevent financial, economic and political collapse in Germany, supported his plea with the statement that if Germany declared a moratorium, England would also be forced to do so.

It was a statement that alarmed Europe. Sensational rumors spread that England was as near bankruptcy as Germany. The result was that from all over the continent there was a rush to withdraw funds from London. Not only France, but Holland, Switzerland, Belgium and other depositors, nations and individuals, transferred their funds and again France received most of them. As a result French and American banks were called upon to avert a crisis for the Bank of England. The wealth at the disposal of Paris bankers is being used throughout the world today as never before. None can doubt that it will be placed with sound consideration for the conservative welfare of the world.

FIGHTING PARALYSIS.

Reports from various sections of the country show a marked increase in infantile paralysis in the last month. Efforts are being made to fight the epidemic, particularly in New York, by providing visiting nurses at the homes of afflicted children as well as hospital accommodations for those having improper home surroundings. Despite the alarm over the epidemic it is the mildest in years. Dr. Herman T. Peck, health commissioner of New York, states that, whereas the death rate is usually 30 per cent, it has been but 10 per cent this year.

A meeting of distinguished physicians and surgeons was called in New York City for the purpose of fortifying and extending the campaign against the disease. There had been 1,013 cases reported in that city between July 1 and August 5. A fund of $75,000 was contributed by the city for making available to parents information about paralysis and for assistance to children suffering from the disease.

The public is warned to ignore circulars and advertisements now being issued by unauthorized persons and institutions, asking for funds to fight the disease. The outbreak of infantile paralysis has been seized upon by quacks and fakers as an opportunity for making easy money. For this reason parents are urged to consult only reputable physicians and to seek information from the Board of Health.

The work done by boards of health as well as various private institutions, has been responsible for the marked decrease in paralysis. Regulatory and preventive measures for the control of disease are especially successful in the field of child health. The advance made in the extermination of diphtheria is the outstanding example. The battle against paralysis has shown commendable progress which indicates that this disease may be under control within a few years.

LEADERS IN AVIATION.

Simply to list the various fliers who, singly and in pairs, are now engaged in attempts to lower air records or accomplish sensational flights would require considerable space. Long distance is the popular objective at present. Quite recently it was refueling endurance tests. Before that there was a craze for stunt records. The later trends are more sensible and more practical. American aviators have just captured two important records—that for the quickest flight around the world at the Great Circle and that for long distance to Turkey. They were worthy tests of men and machines, and while emulators inevitably appear in somewhat tiresome repetition, they evidence the tremendous growth, not only of interest in flying, but actual commercial development.

A few surprising records made in Europe have led some Americans to feel that this country is being left behind in the aerial race, but such is far from being the case. Senator Bingham, enthusiastic flier and head of the National Aeronautical Association, has been checking up on the actual figures with regard to regular lines of air transport. He finds that American lines today fly schedules in one week that are only equaled by the mileage of British lines in a whole year, including the famous cross-channel flights.

Maximum speed records appear to be the only phase of flying in which the United States has not kept pace with Europe. It has been a matter of regret that this country has not been represented in recent Schneider Cup competitions. But this situation bids fair to be remedied. Private organizations are at work and special attention is being given to the development of a high-speed engine by the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics. Appropriations for research work in this direction that have been lacking heretofore are now available. Navy efforts will not be directed toward the construction of a plane and motor destined to win one race, but toward high speed, as a primary characteristic in the development of strategy and tactics of aviation.

The great distances that must be covered, even within the United States, necessitate the development in this country of fighting planes with a longer cruising radius than is required abroad, which has been responsible for a compromise between performance and endurance. However, Admiral Moffett is positive in his declaration that, type for type, American service planes are not surpassed by their foreign counterparts in reliability, serviceability or maneuverability.

The unprecedented activity of the record makers and the improvement of our sky-line defense are but the extremes in the steady progress of aviation. The expansion of mail, express and passenger business in recent months shows how dependent the people are becoming upon air transport lines, not for freak rides, or for thrills, but for transportation in the regular course of business. The airplane has been accepted as a most important and permanent addition to rapid communication in this busy world.

WHY ANOTHER CANAL?

Many arguments are being put forth both for and against the construction of an additional interoceanic canal in Nicaragua. One assertion in relation to war-time safety of communication between the Atlantic and Pacific maintained that it would be four times as difficult for an enemy to destroy two canals as one. This is curious reasoning. It is true, however, that a canal in Nicaragua would be less vulnerable than is the Panama Canal, because of the difference in the country through which it would pass.

In connection with the present demands upon the Panama Canal there have been frequent exaggerations. During the lower trade volume of the last two years there has been a corresponding decline in the number of vessels passing through the canal. A published statement to the effect that 50,000,000 tons of shipping is at present annually passing through the canal is an exaggeration of about 45 per cent. The tonnage last year fell short of 28,000,000 tons and during the canal's best year, 1929, it did not reach 32,000,000 tons.

The present facilities of the canal can handle 60,000,000 tons of shipping a year. Figuring the possible rate of increasing demand upon the growth of traffic through the canal during the six best years of its operation, 1923 to 1929, present facilities at Panama can handle all demands until 1960.

These figures are confirmed by no less an engineering authority than John F. Stevens, who also dispels any fear that there is danger of delays in traffic at Panama through shortage of water.

Congress ordered the Nicaraguan route surveyed because it wished to have information on hand when the time comes for construction of a new interoceanic channel. If Congress is swayed by commercial needs alone, it may be many years before another canal is built. But no one can look into the future and see what advantages might accrue from a canal through Nicaragua. No one can accurately estimate what the shipping demands of the next generation will be. There is a great deal of satisfaction in knowing that Uncle Sam has selected another feasible route and has made preliminary arrangements for a second channel across the Isthmus of Panama, thus precluding all possibility that any other nation will attempt to duplicate the Panama Canal.

INSIDE OF A TORNADO

By WILL KELLER,
In a Report to the Weather Office at Dodge City, Kans.

"I have seen a number of these things and have never become panic-stricken when near them. So I did not lose my head now, though the approaching tornado was indeed an impressive sight.

"The surrounding country is level and there was nothing to obstruct the view. There was little or no rain falling from the cloud.

"Two of the tornadoes were some distance away, and looked to me like great ropes dangling from the clouds, but the near one was shaped more like a funnel, with ragged clouds surrounding it. It appeared to be much larger and more energetic than the others, and it occupied the central position of the cloud, the great cumulus dome being directly over it.

"Steadily the tornado came on, the end gradually rising above the ground. I could have stood there only a few seconds, but so impressed was I with what was going on that it seemed a long time. At last the great shaggy end of the funnel hung directly overhead.

"Everything was as still as death. There was a strong gassy odor, and it seemed that I could not breathe.

"There was a screaming, hissing sound coming directly from the end of the funnel. I looked up, and to my astonishment I saw right into the heart of the tornado. There was a circular opening in the center of the funnel, about 50 or 100 feet in diameter, and extending straight upward for a distance of at least one-half mile, as best I could judge under the circumstances.

"The walls of this opening were of rotating clouds, and the whole was made brilliantly visible by constant flashes of lightning which zigzagged from side to side. Had it not been for the lightning, I could not have seen the opening, not any distance up into it, anyway.

"Around the lower rim of the great vortex small tornadoes were constantly forming and breaking away. These looked like tails as they writhed their way around the end of the funnel. It was these that made the hissing noise.

"I noticed that the direction of rotation of the great whirl was anticlockwise, but the small twisters rotated both ways—some one way and some another.

"The opening was entirely hollow, except for something which I could not exactly make out, but suppose that it was a detached wind cloud. This thing was in the center, and was moving up and down.

"The tornado was not traveling at a great speed. I had plenty of time to get a good view of the whole thing, inside and out. It came from the direction of Greensburg, which town is 3 miles west and 1 mile north of my place. Its course was not in a straight line, but it zigzagged across the country in a general northeasterly direction.

"After it passed my place it again dipped and struck and demolished the house and barn of a farmer by the name of Evans. The Evans family, like ourselves, had been out looking over their hailed-out wheat, and saw the tornado coming.

"Not having time to reach their cellar, they took refuge under a small bluff that faced to the leeward of the approaching tornado. They lay down flat on the ground, and caught hold of some plum bushes which, fortunately, grew within their reach. As it was, they felt themselves lifted from the ground. Mr. Evans said that he could see the wreckage of his house, among it being the cook stove, going round and round over his head. The eldest child, a girl of 17, being the most exposed, had her clothing completely torn off. But none of the family was hurt."

SHORT ROUTES.

In coming to straight lines of travel, says the Des Moines Register, the airplane is going to pull our major routes of transportation closer and closer to the North Pole. Who really thinks that, 50 years from now, our express planes from San Francisco to Moscow will be taking a great arc by way of New York and London, when by pointing directly across the North Pole it can be done in approximately half the time? Or that New York tourists headed for Alaska will go a thousand miles out of their way via Seattle when the direct route is a course across the southern tip of Hudson's Bay?

We are hunting for the shortest and fastest routes for almost everything these days, and the area within the Arctic circle will help to provide them just as soon as our airplanes have conquered, safely, the long distances they now traverse with some peril.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise:

You are a friendly little Democrat by nature, and couldn't be a snob if you tried; but you have one fault that will cost you much in years to come unless you correct it quickly.

You are too well content with old friends to exert yourself in search of new ones.

It doesn't seem to matter now, but old friends die as the years pass and every passing year lessens your ability to make new ones to replace them.

About all of the happiness you get in this world will come from friends.

Have you ever noticed how quickly a strange darkey makes friends when he comes to town? He greets every member of his race as he would an old acquaintance, and within an hour has established himself in intimate fellowship.

This knack of making friends keeps him contented wherever he finds others of his kind, while the proud Caucasion is lonely in the midst of crowds and friendless among those who would be friends.

The poor and the humble, wherever you find them, are friend-makers. Like unspoiled children, they offer their friendship frankly, knowing instinctively that friends will give them pleasure. They are friendly because they feel the need of friends.

It is only with the coming of wealth or power that people become unfriendly.

Perhaps that is proof of evolution. The ordinary man likes to believe that he isn't like other people. He is a little ashamed of his race. And the moment he can afford it, he begins to snub the others and pretend that he is made of different clay.

Anyway, most of us are snobs. We are friendly while we need the public's good will and very stand-offish and unapproachable when we have an income that makes us independent of public opinion.

Maybe this scornful withdrawal from the herd after winning a little success is the secret of racial progress, but people pay for it.

We are herd animals by nature, and there is no happiness for us except in fellowship with our kind.

The higher men climb, the less joy their life affords. Loneliness is the price of success. The top-notchers are unhappy because they have no equals to buddy with.

Look the field over and you can see the truth for yourself.

Make friends while you can, dear. Store them up for a rainy day. There is no greater wealth in this world. They are the one insurance against a lonely old age. Love,

DAD.

Moses of New Hampshire.

Boston Transcript.

Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, informally but none the less definitely, has announced his candidacy for election for a fourth term. Known everywhere for his "wise cracks," the New Hampshire senator nevertheless is much more than a master of sarcastic, ironic and sardonic humor; he has a capacity for accomplishing results which will make his reelection as much a matter of concern here as in his own State. Nor is the intention of Senator Moses to run again altogether free from the element of self-sacrifice, for it is an open secret that he could command several times his senatorial salary in the profession he once adorned, should he decide to retire to private life.

Senator Moses is chairman of the powerful committee on rules and a member of four other major committees, including foreign relations, in which he was the right-hand man of the late Senator Lodge, and postoffices and post roads. He is also president pro tempore of the Senate, the presiding officer who acts in the absence of the Vice President. Moses will remain the outstanding senator from New England, and we doubt very much if the voters of New Hampshire have any intention of depriving themselves of such an asset as that.

Why Reduce the Marines?

New York Herald Tribune.

The decision of the Navy Department to reduce the strength of the Marine Corps from 18,000 to 16,000 men is as difficult to understand today as it was when it was tentatively suggested some months ago.

The wide variety of the duties of the Marine Corps is not generally realized. In the United States, for example, there are more than 40 separate places where Marines are on duty. There must, in addition, be Marines on 34 vessels. There are eleven foreign stations where Marines are required. Finally, because the already slender strength of the corps is spread so thin, there are normally about 2,300 Marines in transit or in "pools" awaiting reassignment.

The duties which the Marines must perform are almost as numerous as the list of places where they are stationed. In the United States, for instance, is naval property having a value running literally into the billions of dollars. This must be guarded. Besides guard duty, the Marines in the United States must undergo difficult training. In a sense, the Marines are an army in miniature. There must be "horse Marines" for duty in the many places where animals are still the best mode of transportation; there must be Marines who understand the tactics and operation of tanks, airplanes and field artillery. None of these things, let alone the basic infantry tactics, can be learned in a day.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Californian Protests Against Proposed Omission of Surrender Scene in Yorktown Pageant.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Wasn't it our Henry Ford who once classified history as "bunk?" That might be the Ford contribution to the famous library of "Ford" jokes!

But when more ordinary folk, like the directors of the Washington celebration next year, propose to toss into the waste-basket Yorktown's principal reason for a place in our history we, the common people, who take considerable interest in the fame of our country's father, have surely grave reason for complaint.

It is rumored out on this Pacific Coast that the Yorktown pageant is being arranged to represent a colonial tea-party (not a Boston tea-party), and that Cornwallis, who played quite an interesting part on that October day of 1781, has not been invited. That historical incident of surrender is thus consigned to the category of what is undesirable, a classification surely first cousin to Ford's term for history.

This pink tea version of our national history isn't going to make a hit with us of the West. And what is more it won't make a hit with intelligent Britishers either. They know all about Yorktown and Cornwallis, and many of them will merely give the merry ha-ha to such toadying to the kingly coterie of George III. Britishers don't object to the historical pageant of Joan of Arc, given by their French neighbors just recently; they are not nearly so thin-skinned or ignorant as our Yorktown directors seem to imagine. But, of course, the rumor may be untrue. I hope it is, for I'd dislike having to take my vacation anywhere else than at the scene of Washington's most notable triumph.

Political Influence in Postal Service Brings Another Protest; Seniority Rule Is Favored.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest a letter from one of your correspondents criticizing the biased policy of the city postoffice in its manner of disposing of favored assignments. It is only too apparent that the writer is well informed as to conditions there. It is to be urged that the seniority rule be adopted and carried through without fear and without favor. The postmaster should not be hindered in pursuing this policy by having to bow to influential persons, either in or out of Congress. If the slogan: "An injustice to one is the concern of all" has been the means of building up a high standard of workmanship in all other lines of endeavor, then it is equally true that it can be applied in the Washington Postoffice with better results to patrons and workers alike.

Californian Does Not Yet Understand Why the United States Refuses to Recognize Soviet Russia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the reasons given by our Department of State for its failure to follow the advice of President Monroe, "to recognize all de facto governments," in the case of Russia is the fear that the Soviet consulates would be centers of propaganda subversive of our institutions.

If we are all fully convinced that our institutions are "the best ever" why that fear? Surely it would require quite a large army of propagandists appreciably to affect the faith of Americans in America and our American Government!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Thanks for your article on "Parasite Peddlers." THE POPULAR WAIL.

We didn't go to Europe when the stocks were soaring high,
We didn't rush the newest things in motor cars to buy,
When other folks were running off to sail the seas in ships,
We didn't have the money to afford such lovely trips.

We didn't make a fortune in the days when times were good,
We didn't build a swimming pool, though oft we wished we could,
I remember very clearly what seemed strange to other men,
To us a thousand dollars seemed a lot of money then.

In the days when all our neighbors boasted they were millionaires,
And the common conversation was, "I bought a thousand shares,"
We soldom sought the bright lights where the painted ladies smirked,
For the children's care and comfort I am very sure we worked.

Now we're wailing trips to Europe which, of course, we've never had,
And we're telling all the neighbors that the times are very bad,
Though our lives have changed but little, we're still working every day,
But we speak of the depression in a sad and mournful way.

SUIT ATTACKS LEVY FOR BETTER STREET

Prince Georges Plaintiffs Allege $6,000 Tax on $5,500 Property.

Constitutionality of assessments for street improvements for rural sections by incorporated towns is attacked in a suit filed in the Circuit Court of Prince Georges County at Upper Marlboro, Md. by the Heitmuller heirs. Through Attorney Arthur C. Keefer, the heirs allege that they have been assessed more than $6,000 for the paving of Thirtieth street extended along their property although the property is assessed at but $5,500 on the town books of Mount Rainier.

The mayor and council of the town are named as defendants in the suit. The plaintiffs are Mary L. Miller, Annie C. Hall, Ella H. Steele, Bertha H. Krz, Louise H. Shaefer and Bernard C. Heitmuller.

The court is informed that the defendants own 5.3 acres within the corporate limits of the town, and that the mayor and council levied an assessment of $6.90 per front foot for the improvement, which amounts to $4,414.42, plus interest at the rate of 5½ per cent, which brings the total to more than $6,000. The petition further alleges that the property is purely agricultural and was not made any more accessible by reason of the improvement and that the plaintiffs donated the right-of-way for the street.

Plaintiffs claim that the act of the town is confiscation of property under the guise of taxation in violation of the Federal Constitution. They ask the court to declare the assessments void, enjoin the town from making further assessments for the paving of the street, promulgate a rule to show cause why an injunction should not issue restraining the mayor and council from selling the property to collect the assessment and require the town authorities to furnish an itemized account of expenditures for the paving of the street.

Shifting of Checks Told in Lea Trial

Witness Says Bank Sent Publisher Credits in Spite of Overdrafts.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Testimony that cashier's checks made payable to Col. Luke Lea were paid to his account at the Central Bank & Trust Co, here, when it was already overdrawn, was introduced by the State today in the trial of the Tennessee publisher and three codefendants on a charge of defrauding the bank of $1,300,000. The other defendants are Luke Lea, jr., and E. P. Charlet, both of Nashville, and Wallace B. Davis, former president of the bank, which closed in November.

N. H. Payne, bookkeeper for the bank, testified that it on several occasions telegraphed credits to Lea's agent with Tennessee banks, and that in turn Col. Lea telegraphed credits for the Central Bank & Trust Co. to New York and Charlotte banks, on the basis of which the Asheville bank issued cashier's checks.

Another witness, S. G. Owens, a teller in the local bank, gave testimony that cashier's checks were issued often to Col. Lea, or to Tennessee concerns in which the defendant was interested, without the bank receiving payment or collateral for periods ranging from three to eight days. In many cases, he said, the checks themselves were returned and used to cancel memoranda of their issuance.

Public Will Be Barred From Trial of Minister

Danville, Va., Aug. 7.—The trial in the police court next Tuesday of the Rev. J. Arthur Winn, pastor of Moseley Memorial Methodist Church, arrested on Monday on eleven misdemeanor warrants, will be behind closed doors, according to Magistrate Charles K. Carter, who will hear the case.

Attorney Malcolm K. The line of the defense has not been indicated.

Stock Yards Company Fights Fixed Charges

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The St. Joseph Stock Yards Company filed suit today to enjoin the Department of Agriculture from enforcing its order of July 20 fixing the company's stock-handling charge.

The action is believed by attorneys interested to be the first suit attacking the department's power to fix such rates under the national packers and stock yards acts.

The department's order limited the company's return to 7½ per cent on an investment of $3,382,148.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence, of Alexandria, has so far received eighteen applications for the post of police captain which, however, is not expected to be filled before the end of this month. Several of the applicants apparently are under the impression that the city council will create the position of director of public safety, but the councilmen state that this is erroneous and that the appointment will be made of a captain of police who will be the actual head of the department. Alexandria Will Send 200 To Firemen's Convention

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

The Alexandria Fire Department will be represented by 150 members at the forty-fifth annual convention of the Virginia State Firemen's Association in Winchester next week. The delegation will be accompanied by the Citizens Band of 30 pieces and the ladies' auxiliary to the department with 35 members, so that the Alexandrians in the line of parade will number more than 200. Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., will head the delegation.

The old fire department reel has been completely redecorated for the occasion by Lucian Duffey, a member of the Alexandria and Seat Pleasant, Md., departments, and it will be drawn in the parade by long ropes. Members of the rescue squads of Companies 1, 2 and 5 will march as a unit and will be accompanied by an ambulance loaned by the B. Wheatley undertaking firm.

Chief Duncan, on arrival at Winchester, will make a further effort to have the local men compete for prizes as a department rather than as separate companies, as planned by the Winchester officials. The chief will contend that Alexandria is entitled to compete as a department since it pays dues to the association, and this is the first time such a ruling has been made.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN TO CHOOSE OFFICERS

Large Number of Cups Will Be Awarded in Event at Upper Marlboro.

Election of officers will be one of the features of the ninth annual convention of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen's Association at Upper Marlboro, Md. Among the other features will be awarding of a large number of cups in contests.

The winner of the pumping contest will be awarded the Cranford Memorial Cup, presented by the Marlboro Volunteer Fire Department in memory of Capt. B. Wesley Cranford, killed in line of duty last October. The cup will be presented by the two sons of the dead captain, B. Wesley Cranford, jr., and Lindsay Cranford.

Dr. James H. Truitt, surgeon of the county rescue squad, appears to be the leading contender for the presidency of the association, but a contest may develop if friends of the present head, Karl A. Young, of Mount Rainier, make good their threat to draft him for another term. It has been the usual procedure for the president to serve but one term.

Companies from neighboring counties and Baltimore are expected to be present for the parade and contests. The parade will start in front of Trinity Church, proceed to Crain Highway Monument, down Main street to Largo road and back to the school grounds and athletic field, where the events will be held.

Lawrence was on his vacation at the time, and had been employed at the Bureau of Standards Experimental Flying Station at College Park.

Farmer Is Found Slain; Wife Attempts Suicide

Special to The Washington Post.

Mount Airy, Md., Aug. 7.—The body of Daniel H. Arrington, a 61-year-old farmer living near Sykesville, was found yesterday. His neck was mangled and his spinal cord severed by shotgun wounds. His hands were folded across his chest and the weapon which is believed to have been used lay across his stomach, the muzzle pointed toward the gaping wound in his neck.

Mrs. Arrington is reported to have made an attempt to end her life after finding her husband's body by slashing her throat. She was removed to a Baltimore hospital, where her condition was held to be not serious. Authorities who investigated the shooting declared that the farmer came to his death by party or parties unknown.

CLARENDON PETITION TO SEEK SEWER LINE

40 Per Cent of Citizens Now Signed and 60 Needed for Improvement.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Improved sanitary conditions in the vicinity of Taylor avenue in Clarendon are now said to be assured after more than four years of effort on the part of residents of that section, it was revealed yesterday.

Latest action by citizens to remove the open sewer which is in the heart of the residential section of Clarendon is being led by Albert H. Cohen, business man.

Cohen, a candidate for membership on the county board, says that officials of the county health and engineering departments have assured him of their cooperation.

A petition is being circulated and now has signatures of more than 40 per cent of residents. Only 60 per cent is required by law to have the county install a sewerage system at expense of persons served. It is hoped the petition will be ready to present to the county board of supervisors at its next meeting. The estimated cost of the line, which is 1,163 feet long, is $1,909.60.

Maryland Fugitive Arrested in Capital

Hood is alleged to have taken a wallet from the pocket of Arthur S. Whitcomb, assistant leader of the Marine Band, who was visiting at Wayside Monday night. The pocketbook was said to have contained $240. Police here said that a large portion of the money was recovered. Hood was turned over to Maryland police last night.

William Beall Funeral To Be This Morning

100,000 Expected to Attend Akron Christening Today

City in Ohio Is Prepared for Big Event; Mrs. Hoover to Name Dirigible and Will Be Entertained Throughout Day.

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Under the "big top" of the Goodyear-Zeppelin dock, the United States Navy had in readiness tonight the setting for one of its greatest shows.

The Akron will be named by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, as she pulls a cord to release a flock of 48 pigeons from a cage on the craft. The pigeons, brought here from air bases over the country, will fly back home with messages telling of the ceremonies.

As the Akron is christened it will be "air born," which corresponds to the launching of a battleship. The 6,500,000 cubic foot bag, with its twelve gas cells containing helium, will be released from its "cradle" moved along the dock for 40 feet and moored fast to the floor. It will not be floated out of the dock until the Navy begins its trial flights sometime later.

Christening day will be a full holiday here, with crowds arriving by plane, automobile, bus and train.

Mrs. Hoover is scheduled to arrive at the Union Station at 11:40 a. m. She will be met by a reception committee of women and escorted to the Portage Country Club for luncheon, which will be spread for 300 guests. An escort of special buses, filled with women, will take the First Lady to Akron Municipal Airport where the dock is located.

Before the ceremony begins at 2:30 p. m. (Eastern standard time), the giant orange peel doors of the dock, each of which weighs 600 tons, will be swung open to admit the spectators. Approximately 150 civilian and military airplanes will go through maneuvers for the spectators. Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam and Mrs. Blanche Wilcox Noyes will be on hand with their autogiros.

Speakers will include Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, which built the dirigible, and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics.

At 6:30 p. m. a banquet will be held for about 900 local and out-of-town guests, prominent aviation and technical experts, diplomats, public officials, newspapermen, and Mrs. Hoover's hostesses.

The spectators who file past the Akron before and after the christening will see it almost complete, to all outward appearances. A section of the hull amidships will be left uncovered to afford some idea of the inner structure.

Part of the eight engine mounts will be seen. Three of the four great rudders have been put in place in the last few days and the last, the lower vertical rudder, will be fitted soon.

Doping and painting of the outer cover with cellulose acetate and aluminum, is almost done. The name of the ship has been painted on it as well as the words, "U. S. Navy" 10 feet high. Fore and aft is the Navy insignia, a star within a circle.

FAIRFAX SEEKS WAY TO SAVE ROAD PLAN

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 168.

The Fairfax town council will hold a special meeting this evening to consider ways to prevent abandonment of the proposal to widen the Little River Turnpike through the town by the State Highway Commission. Citizens have subscribed $5,000 by private contribution to assist in the widening.

The turnpike through the town is at present only 16 feet wide and takes care of the combined traffic of the Lee-Jackson highway, the Lee highway and the Chain Bridge road, all of which are State roads. The street through the town is narrower than any of the three highways it serves.

The original plan of the State highway department was to widen the street from the junction of the Lee and the Lee-Jackson highways to 36 feet through the business section of the town past the county courthouse and county jail grounds and from that point the road would be widened to 28 feet to where the Lee highway and the Little River pike separate again just outside the western corporate limits of the town.

Last week Mayor Thomas P. Chapman received a letter from Chairman H. G. Shirley of the State Highway Commission, stating that he had received a number of letters protesting widening of the road through the town and urging that the proposed Lee highway cutoff around the town be constructed first. He declared that the commission was not willing to undertake anything against the wishes of the people of the town and it did not propose to be drawn into any controversy among citizens, so he was issuing instructions not to proceed with the widening.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors at its meeting Wednesday adopted a resolution addressed to the highway commission indorsing the project and asking for its continuance. A special committee will be appointed at the meeting this evening to visit Richmond and take up the question of widening the road through the town with the State highway officials.

He tells the court that he was arrested May 15 and compelled to remain in the county jail until July 15, when he made bond, on charges preferred by Mrs. Day of grand larceny. Former Dry Spy Free in Rum Case

Insufficient Evidence Is Ruling on Charge at Upper Marlboro.

Liquor law violation charges which had been preferred against William Lee Whittaker, former undercover agent for the Prohibition Department, were dismissed yesterday by United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran after a hearing at Upper Marlboro.

Whittaker had been acting as aid to Federal agents in Southern Maryland. He accompanied them on a raid and a quantity of liquor was placed in his car. Later, on the way to another raid, he disappeared, they testified. Several days later, on July 16, they stopped his car and found a quantity of liquor in it. He was arrested and charged with transportation and possession of intoxicants.

Commissioner Parran ruled that inasmuch as the agents had legally placed the liquor in the car and no evidence had been brought out to show that this was different liquor, the man could not be held on the charges and dismissed the case.

Legion Broadcast Locates Father, But Daughter Dies

A little detective work on the part of the American Legion yesterday got results, but too late to do any good.

Word was received by the legion yesterday that the daughter of Eppa Davis, whereabouts unknown, was dying in East Boston, Mass. The first thing the legion did was to enlist the aid of Station WRC, from which they broadcast an appeal for Mr. Davis, saying that his daughter was in a grave condition.

Mrs. Harry Holbrooke, chief operator of the Fairfax telephone exchange, who was off duty yesterday noon, heard the broadcast. She recalled that a large number of people by the name of Davis resided near Lorton, Va. She immediately got in touch with the Lorton exchange. While they were trying to locate Mr. Davis, Mrs. Holbrooke got in touch with County Commissioner of Revenue James Kincheloe, who recalled that Mr. Davis had a cousin living near Lorton, Malon Davis, who said to get in touch with a sister, Miss Mary Davis, of 922 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Miss Davis got in touch with the High Point Club, who located the missing Davis working on the Potomac River near the club.

After finally locating the man at 9 p. m., he denied having a daughter in East Boston.

Mrs. Holbrooke then called the Veterans' Bureau who in turn called Boston and found out that the daughter, Mrs. Gladys Vincent, was visiting an aunt there and had died at 8 p. m.

Mr. Davis then said that Mrs. Vincent was his daughter, but that he did not know she was in Boston. He said that he would not be able to attend the funeral, Sunday, as he was in ill health.

Fight Over Roads Ends in Arlington

War Department Agrees to Continue Maintenance of Military Links.

The question recently raised by the County Board of Supervisors over maintenance of the military roads in Arlington County was brought to a sudden close yesterday when it was learned by Commonwealth's Attorney William G. Gloth that the War Department has issued instruction for the continued maintenance of these roads out of Army appropriations.

The information came in a letter from A. Oden, secretary to Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia, in which he quotes from a letter addressed to Senator Swanson from the acting Secretary of War.

The action, it was pointed out by county officials, not only brings to a close controversy between the county of Arlington and military officials, but also promises much needed relief to the hundreds of motorists who are forced to use the Government roads leading into the county.

Miss Glasgow Is Married in Tientsin, China

Brig. Gen. W. J. Glasgow, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Glasgow, of El Paso, Tex., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Harriet Glasgow, to Mr. Harry A. Lucker, the wedding having taken place in Tientsin, China, on July 21. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Joseph Magoffin, of El Paso. She was graduated from the Georgetown Visitation Convent in Washington and continued her education in Brussels and Paris.

Mr. Lucker is a New York man and was graduated from Cornell University. He is in business in Tientsin.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Octavia Glasgow, as maid of honor and was given in marriage by her brother, Lieut. W. J. Glasgow, jr., stationed with the Fifteenth Infantry, U. S. A., in Tientsin.

News of the wedding in far-off China comes as an interesting postlude to the story attached to the friendship of Lieut. Glasgow for the Princess Ileana, whose wedding in the summer home of the royal Roumania family took place only five days after that of Miss Glasgow's. For it was Lieut. Glasgow who was detailed as aid to Queen Marie and Princess Ileana when they visited West Point on their American journey several years ago.

Mr. Morgan is president of the Curtis-Wright Aviation Company. Late in July she was the guest of Prince and Princess Sidamon Eristoff, at their country home in Highland Falls, N. Y.

The President, speaking from his summer camp on the Rapidan, will deliver an international message to the Y. M. C. A. World Conference convened in Cleveland, Ohio. Premier Richard B. Bennett, of Canada, talking from Ottawa, will speak on the same program: (WRC, WMAL, 8 p. m.). Their voices will be carried abroad by short wave.

AN earlier Y. M. C. A. broadcast, to be heard in this country and to be sent overseas by W2XAF, Schenectady, will bring leading educators from seven countries before the microphone (WRC, 3:30 p. m.) to discuss "The Youth of the World Today." The speakers are: Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese philosopher; Dr. T. Z. Koo, China; Rallia Ran, India; Dr. Erich Stange, Germany; Dr. W. R. Maltby, England, and Dr. John Mackay, Lima, Peru.

On the same day the world salutes the Akron, marvel of the mechanical age, the 100th anniversary of the invention of the harvester by Cyrus McCormick will be celebrated in historic drama to be heard during the National Farm and Home hour (WRC, 12:30 p. m.).

Beginning this morning, the children's program (WMAL, 10 o'clock) will include a cycle of four fairy stories. The first tale to be enacted will be "Beauty and the Beast."

Smith Ballew and his orchestra will be heard in a new series each Monday and Saturday night, beginning tonight (WRC, 11:30 o'clock). Ballew deserted the University of Texas with a banjo but no degree several years ago. His first musical instrument was a 75-cent mandolin with which he learned to accompany Southern ballads, taught him by "Old Ned," a singing Negro of Sherman, Tex.

THE Radio Playbill will present "Lafayette," scenes from the career of the French patriot woven into drama (WRC, 3:30 p. m.).

Two seldom-heard excerpts from Richard Strauss' operas will comprise the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society offering tonight (WMAL, 8 o'clock).

Variety in the program heard from WRC at 8:30 p. m. each Saturday will be furnished tonight by George Jessel, Broadway wit, and Alma Peterson, soprano.

During a recent week-end visit to the shore Kate Smith, when her back was turned for a moment, missed her ensemble coat. A thorough search by the hotel staff failed to reveal it. So Kate went back to New York sans coat.

The next day she received the following letter:

"Dear Miss Kate Smith: I am writing you this because I feel you ought to know what happened to your blue coat. I have a fondness for collecting souvenirs of my favorite celebrities, and had watched you for several hours, waiting to add something that belonged to you to my collection. I hope you didn't mind much, as I'm one of your loyal fans. Good luck to you!"

Nick Dawson, the daddy of "Daddy and Rollo," christened George C., never has been called by his right name since his third-grade teacher told him he was worse than Old Nick.

STATISTICIANS recently estimated that Amos 'n' Andy have written something like 1,252,000 words of conversation during the two years they have been on the WJZ network.

DOHERTY BUYS HALF OF PAPER FOR FIGHT

Makes Threat to "Destroy" Kansas City Star Unless Management Changes.

New York, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Henry L. Doherty, big business' most picturesque fighting man, served an ultimatum on the trustees of the Kansas City Star today that he would "destroy" the Star unless they expelled the present management of the paper and vested it "in honorable, constructive men." Doherty at the same time revealed that he had bought half interest in the Kansas City Journal Post and soon would join the Journal-Post's staff as a contributor of signed editorials.

As head of the billion-dollar Cities Service Corporation, Doherty contends that the Star, one of the most widely influential newspapers in the Southwest, has misrepresented his position in an editorial campaign for lower gas rates in Kansas. Last month, citing alleged misrepresentations, he sued the Star for $12,000,000, the biggest libel suit ever filed against a single newspaper.

Threatens to Destroy Star.

Today he announced his threat to "destroy" the Star and what he regards as its baleful influence on the people, newspapers and industries of the Southwest.

Thus journalism recruits its first hundred - million - dollar editorial writer, for Doherty's personal fortune is estimated at that figure, and the spectacular fight between the Star and Doherty's utility interests becomes a newspaper war of vast proportions.

Doherty bought his half interest in the Journal-Post from W. Laurence Dickey and Marion B. Sharp. Dickey and Sharp will continue to control it, as Doherty's contract provides that 10 per cent of his half-interest can not be voted. He reserves the right, however, to publish as editorials anything he thinks proper. He also has the right to buy advertising space at any time he sees fit for the publication of statements. Dickey and Sharp, if they see fit, may contradict his editorial "in the next column or on the next page."

Star to Push Its Fight.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Responding to the Doherty counter attack today, George B. Longan, president and general manager of the Star, said:

"The Star is still interested in the one thing Mr. Doherty does not discuss. That is the price of gas and the proper regulation of an unregulated monopoly. Furthermore, I think the public will have a complete understanding of Mr. Doherty's motive."

A more extended reply was made in the editorial columns of the Star. There the Star said in reference to the purchase of a newspaper interest:

"Henry L. Doherty now has resorted to a method that occasionally has been adopted by big interests fighting for special privileges. There will be no let-up in the Star's fight for reduction of excessive rates—a reduction already made throughout Kansas by non-Doherty utilities in accordance with what they have said was 'the trend of the times.'"

Marchers Protest Jailing of Miners

Philippi, W. Va., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Women and children today resumed their march around the Barbour County courthouse square protesting imprisonment of mine strike pickets and asking food.

More than a hundred were in the group, coming from the mining settlement of Galloway, the home of 33 miners who are in jail charged with violating an injunction prohibiting trespassing on the property of the Simpson Creek Collieries Co.

The women marched around and around the courthouse square, grim and silent, but the children shouted in noisy clamor. The demonstration began Wednesday and continued yesterday.

The group sought to interview Circuit Court Judge Warren B. Kittle, who issued the injunction against the miners. Judge Kittle apparently was not in the town.

Flag Parade Planned To Be Held Next June

Plans for celebration of the George Washington Bicentennial next year have progressed to such an extent that an impressive procession has already been assured for Flag Day next June. At least eight States and six nationally known organizations have assured the commission of intentions to be represented in the parade with floats depicting significant events connected with the flag.

Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, chairman of parades for the District Bicentennial body, will lead the procession. The parade will be reviewed in front of the Capitol.

Officials Are Guests At Market Terminal

Commissioner Luther Reichelderfer and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grand 3d will be guests of honor today at a breakfast to be given at the Union Market Terminal by proprietors of stores in the terminal.

Representatives of the District Commission, the Public Utilities Commission and the Zoning Commission will attend. The committee in charge is headed by Charles H. Tompkins, William H. Harrison and N. J. Ward. Edwin S. Hege will be toastmaster.

Mexican Catholics Held After Plot on Governor

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—A group of prominent Catholics in the town of Orizaba, some 70 miles from Vera Cruz, were arrested today and charged with participating in the recent unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Gov. Tejeda.

The arrests were made after the assailant of the governor had been identified as Jose Ramirez Frias, who lived in the Santa Rosa region near Orizaba. Frias was killed after he had wounded the governor.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

FROM the midsummer issue of The Bulletin, official publication of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, I learn that rapid progress is being made looking to the actual filming of the special Washington Bicentennial motion picture to be made by the Warner Bros. as that company's contribution to the great celebration planned for 1932.

It will be recalled that some weeks ago a contest was conducted by the Washington Chamber of Commerce to obtain suitable ideas for incorporation in the scenario of this picture, which will be sponsored by Chambers of Commerce throughout the country and given the further advantage of active cooperation by the M. P. T. O. A. membership the country over, thus insuring complete covering of the United States in the matter of distribution. Prizes aggregating $500 were offered by the local C. of C. for ideas suitable for the purpose outlined. This, it appears, was money well expended.

Jacob Wilk, chief of the Warner Brothers' scenario and story department, has recently been in Washington and has approved several of the ideas submitted in the contest for practical use in the script to be prepared by his office for the actual filming of the picture. Work on the continuity will be begun within the next few days.

The contact men on behalf of Washington, working in conjunction with Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, and his committee, and the local C. of C., have been A. Julian Brylawski, former president of the M. P. T. O. A., of Washington, and Sidney B. Lust, present president of that organization.

It won't be long now!

Sid Lust, by the way, has got so excited with all this going on, that in a moment of temporary—I hope—aberration recently, he stepped out and had his Hippodrome and Leader theaters both equipped with the complete Western Electric sound apparatus and public address system. As soon as he comes to and finds it out, there'll probably be the dickens to pay!

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Cullen, he being the popular panjandrum of the Loew interests in the National Capital and she is the former Hazelle Jennings, of "Show Boat" and other Ziegfeld productions, these past few days have been receiving the congratulations of the populace at large upon the occasion of the second anniversary of their marriage, which occurred on Thursday.

The event was signalized by a modest rout on a breezy roof garden during the waning hours of Thursday, to which representatives of the profession and the press were informally bid.

"..... was had by all!"

Mr. Cullen, in case you are still listening, confides to me that among the September stage attractions at the Palace will be Ted Lewis in a return booking, with his band, and Polly Moran, who is appearing at the head of a new Loew unit. Separate weeks, you understand.

Miss Moran, of course, is the same as is now appearing on the Columbia screen with Marie Dressler in "Politics," which enters its second week today.

Not to be outdone, the Earle, a week from today, will present again that gay young troubadour who made his screen debut with Winnie Lightner in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," Nick Lucas, who else? Mr. Lucas will headline the vaudeville bill with new songs, his guitar and everything, and if I were asked—as I won't be—it would be my suggestion that he play at least one strictly guitar solo, without any voice and no orchestra until the closing eight measures—or something like that.

The lad certainly can twang that thing.

My nomination for the best crack of the week goes to Harry Savoy, in the Fanchon and Marco "Talent" Idea, at the Fox, when he informs the audience that he has been requested to do an impersonation of John Barrymore.

"It was my intention," says Mr. Savoy, "to impersonate Mr. Barrymore as Louis XIV, but times are so tough you'll have to get along with Richard III!"

Speaking of hard times, things have come to a pretty pass when two of our players of proved competence are willing to appear in the merest bits—not even programmed or given screen credit—rather than remain idle. James Kirkwood and Crauford Kent are mere atmosphere in the Fox production of "Transatlantic." Each in his day has been a featured player and Kirkwood has been individually starred.

On the same bill, it will pay you to get an eyeful of the hard-shoe dancing contributed by Jeanne Carr. They don't come like that nowadays. The triple-time she executes and the tunes to which she does it, bring back memories of Weber and Fields' Music Hall, George Primrose, Carol Johnson, Barney Fagan, the elder Pat Rooney and a lot of other old-timers of whom you probably never heard.

And you will pardon me now, please? In a moment of inadvertence I just glanced at Arthur, the office curse. Arthur Mometer is the full name.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

FOX

"TRANSATLANTIC." Fox picturization of a story by Guy Bolton, with dialogue by the author, featuring Edmund Lowe, Greta Nissen, Myrna Loy and John Halliday, supported by Jean Hersholt, Lois Moran, Earle Fox and Billy Bevan. Directed by William K. Howard. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Almost the equivalent of a trip across the Atlantic on the most palatial liner afloat is this engrossing and wholly unbelievable tale of adventure on the high—and high-priced—seas. In fact, "Transatlantic" is saved from mediocrity less by the skillful efforts of a distinguished cast of principals to gloss over its inconsistencies than by the novelty of its settings, the expertness of its direction and the uncanny proficiency of one Mr. James Howe, who, I believe, was the cameraman throughout the making of the film.

The action in its entirety takes place aboard the S. S. Transatlantic between the hour of its sailing from New York and its arrival at the first port of call on the other side. William K. Howard, the director, has made an ally of the elements in the visualization of a story that pursues a course of cumulative excitement and suspense. As the progress of the plot becomes more and more tempestuous, so do the raging seas through which the liner plows its course. The screech of the hurricane and the roar of the waves add an eerie note to a narrative that ranges from marital perfidy to high-stake gambling, robbery on the grand scale and attempted murder.

The pivotal characters are an elusive gentleman of questionable professional lineage whose solicitude for the welfare of his feminine associates is as admirable as it is unaccountable; an aged grinder of lenses and his daughter, bent on enjoying the fruits of a lifetime of arduous labor, who see their little fortune all but swept away in the failure of a bank that is being plundered by a shady financier who is a passenger aboard with his wife; the wife's major menace, a flashy dancer, out for no good; a gang of crooks, trailing the banker and his pilfered securities, and the usual company of ship's passengers. The manner in which their lives become involved in a succession of common interests bears out the contention of Hudgins, the platitudinous room steward, that an ocean liner is a little world by itself, sir, etc., etc.

You won't believe the half of what goes on aboard that boat, but you will be interested and diverted by an entertainment that possesses the tang of novelty, even as you doubt. A pretty swell job of showmanship.

Edmund Lowe is the suave and reckless Monty Greer, upon whose head the police have set a price, about whom all of the exciting developments revolve. He checks in with a nice performance, enlivened by a well-turned note of humor. John Halliday and Myrna Loy are the banker and his wife; Jean Hersholt and Lois Moran, the vacationing lensman and his daughter. Earle Foxe heads the crooks and Greta Nissen is the dancer who doesn't love everybody only because she doesn't know everybody. Billy Bevan is a constant source of mirth as Hudgins. You will like them all, although many aboard ship never met them in all the time they were crossing!

On the stage, Harry Savoy dominates the Fanchon & Marco "Talent" Idea with his mildly insane humor and incorrigible clowning. His associates are George P. Wilson and Adele Beers, in an interval of music and monkey business; Two White Flashes, roller skating gymnasts; the Six Marinelli Sisters, clever acrobats, and Jeanne Carr, the best hard-shoe dancer that has tapped out triple-time on a local stage in the last 20 years—assisted by Mr. Carr, who doesn't dance so well, but he dances faster!

The Fox Movietone News, Bob Hamilton's Miniature Organ Recital, part II, another show-stopper, and Al Mitchell's arrangement of "Sing Something Simple," for the orchestra, complete a bit of bang-up box office!

RKO-KEITH'S

"THE MIRACLE WOMAN." Columbia Pictures' filmization of the play by John Meehan and Robert Riskin, adapted to the screen by Jo Swerling, starring Barbara Stanwyck, supported by David Manners, Sam Hardy and Beryl Mercer. Directed by Frank R. Capra. Reviewed Friday night by W. A. Whitney.

Against a background of commercialized theology—to have said religion would be little short of sacrilege—replete with all the cunning and grafting of its guiding hands, Barbara Stanwyck stands forth in bold relief, her angelic robes no less convincing than the sincerity of her own belief in the faith she is preaching.

With all its sordid, if not actually illegal, details of this evangelistic business, "The Miracle Woman" tells a poignant story of sublime belief and love, a story that rises above the dirt and other less engaging portions of the narrative.

Miss Stanwyck, as the evangelist honestly preaching the faith that sustains, portrays a difficult role with infinite care and the delineation easily ranks with the best she has done. In the moments of conflict between her sense of right, her duty to the good people who have supported her, and the unwaranted threats of framing on charges of embezzlement and murder, she is superb. In the final fade-out, as a Salvation Army lassie still carrying her message to those who will but stop and listen, she gives a truly inspired bit of pantomime indicative of that supreme satisfaction coming from a job well done.

In support of Miss Stanwyck David Manners is admirable as the blind lad who falls in love with her. Through his own ministrations, abetted by those of his ventriloquist's dummy (a cleverly depicted bit of byplay), he plays his part so convincingly that any time he forgets to be blind is entirely overlooked.

Sam Hardy, as the evangelist's general manager (a true crook in none too gentlemanly clothing), has a custom-made part and delivers himself of an authentic interpretation. Beryl Mercer has another of the kind, motherly roles that she does so sympathetically. Others of the supporting company are Russell Hopton, Charles Middleton, Eddie Bolan, Thelma Hill and Aileen Carlyle.

While dealing with a subject in which unpleasant comparisons might be drawn, "The Miracle Woman" does not point an accusing finger at any one—it is a straightforward story of a girl whose goodness and ability to preach a convincing sermon right from the heart are capitalized by those of baser motives. An excellent combination, this, of the banal and the beautiful, wherein the latter transcends the former and there remains but the grateful memory of a fine story finely told.

Heading the short list of subsidiary attractions is the camera version of The Washington Post feature, "Strange As It Seems," by John Hix, a very pleasing melange of odd facts, presented in multicolor, an embellishment that greatly enhances the presentation. The Aesop Fable, "Makin' 'em Move," presents a comedy within a comedy, burlesquing the making of animated cartoons. A release of the Pathe News completes a diverting and worthy program.

COLUMBIA

"POLITICS," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of an original story by Zelda Sears and Malcolm Stuart Boylan, adapted to the screen by Wells Root, costarring Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, supported by Roscoe Ates, Karen Morley, William Bakewell, John Miljan and Tom McGuire. Directed by Charles F. Reisner. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

With just that right mixture of the frothiest sort of comedy and drama bordering on the tragic, "Politics" furnishes the kind of entertainment that transcends such mundane considerations as moratoria or even the humidity, not to mention the heat.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, in the costellar roles of mayoralty candidate and campaign manager, respectively, work together more smoothly and with greater conviction than in any previous picture in which they have been together. For the first time, Miss Moran appears in a part more intricately worked into the plot, thereby giving her an opportunity to display her talents rather than merely being a comic impediment to Miss Dressler's impeccable delineation.

Fully up to her customary standard, Miss Dressler's careful interpretation of the would-be mayor is the dominating characterization of the piece. All else revolves around her—and it would be difficult to find a more thoroughly natural and convincing comedienne for any action to revolve around!

The supporting players, including Karen Morley, William Bakewell, Joan Marsh, Tom McGuire, John Miljan, Kane Richmond and Mary Alden—are well chosen and to be commended for their uniformly excellent characterization. Especial mention is due to Roscoe Ates, as the stammering husband of Miss Moran. Believe it or not, he comes close to stealing the show.

The subsidiary attractions are no less excellent than the feature, completing a highly diverting and well-rounded program. They are a release in James A. Fitzpatrick's Music Master series exquisitely acted and scored from the life and works of Franz Liszt; "Splash," a pictorial compendium of diving; "Ragtime Romeo," a Flip, the Frog, cartoon, and a release of the Paramount Sound News.

"Wobble Meter" to Test Plane Pilots for Fatigue

Ludington Line pilots and passengers at Washington-Hoover Airport will have a chance today to find out how much fatigue they have in their systems when Dr. F. A. Moss, scientist, will give a demonstration of his new "wobble meter." The instrument is designed to show whether you're tired or not, and, if so, how much.

Dr. Moss will make tests on the pilots before and after they go up, and also on those passengers who are willing. It only takes about a minute for each test, Dr. Moss explained. He also says, as a rule, women are steadier than men, and he will prove it to all skeptical pilots and others.

RESORTS SURPASSED BY WOODLAND BEACH

Many Washingtonians who have spent their vacations this year at resorts far from the Capital, but who are now back in the city and planning for next summer, are looking with interest into details of The Washington Post's offer of lots at Woodland Beach.

The fact that Woodland Beach offers all the advantages of other resorts and still is close enough to Washington to permit overnight commuting if necessary, appeals to those who do not care to be too far away from their homes and their places of business even when on vacations.

Furthermore, these residents who have been spending much time and money reaching other resorts, see that by purchasing and building at Woodland Beach, they might have almost year around use of their cottages for week-end outings as well as in vacation periods.

It costs little to become a Woodland Beach lot owner. All lots are priced at $93, with a down payment of only $9 required, together with the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post. After that, payments of $3.50 per month will soon wipe out the balance, and in the meantime the lot owner has the privilege of using his or her cottage.

The Beach is only 32 miles from Washington and may be reached via Defense highway to Camp Parole, turning right on Maryland State highway, No. 2, across South River and left on Mayo road, which leads to the property. Woodland Beach will be open for inspection tomorrow. If you have not visited it, tomorrow is a good day to go.

NAVY GRADUATES MOVE TOWARD ARMY GRID PACT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

WITH a half dozen managers in either big league blaming their plight on pitching deficiencies, the best pitcher in the minors is languishing on the Pacific Coast while the scouts who trail the ivory to its resting place are unable to do anything about it.

The lad is Fred Shellenback and he works for the Hollywood Club. He has lost but one game, finishing on the short end of a 2-0 score in his only setback. But he has won 18 or 19 ball games and is the terror of the league. The price that he would bring in the majors taxes the imagination in these days of inflated baseball values.

But the scouts have their fingers crossed every time his name is mentioned. Not a single recommendation for his purchase has reached the front office of the big league ball parks. Does this column hear somebody ask why? Echo answers that Shellenback (horrors!) is a spitball pitcher.

Banished in 1920

Spitball pitching went out of the majors eleven years ago when by concurrent action of the National and American Leagues, taken in their respective annual meetings in 1920, it was agreed that all bona fide spitball pitchers then remaining in the big leagues be exempt from the operation of the new rule for the balance of their big league careers, but that no new arrivals be permitted to use the spitball.

Seventeen pitchers were thus exempted from the spitball ban, nine in the American League and eight in the National. Those specifically named were: American—Jack Quinn, Allen Russell, Urban Shocker, Red Faber, Allan Sothoron, Dutch Leonard, Stanley Coveleskie, Ray Caldwell and A. W. Ayers; National—Bill Doak, Phil Douglas, Burleigh Grimes, Clarence Mitchell, Dick Rudolph, Ray Fisher, Dana Fillingim and Marvin Goodwin.

Agitation for the ban on the spitball was generated by the attack on all trick deliveries after the unfortunate death of Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, who was beaned by a submarine ball delivered by Carl Mays, of the Yankees. With the spitball out went the "shine" ball, the "mud" ball and the "emery" ball, all of which were controlled by the application of a foreign substance or vigorous rubbing of the cover.

Four Survivors

The passing of eleven years has seen the original line-up of seventeen certified spitball pitchers in the big leagues reduced to a mere four, three in the National League and one in the American. They constitute the deans of the big league pitching staffs, patriarchs of the pitching mound.

"Red" Faber, of the White Sox, is the lone survivor among the American League spitballers, although Jack Quinn, of the Robins, spent fifteen of his sixteen major league years with the Yankees, Red Sox and Athletics, being traded to Brooklyn last winter. The other two spitballers are confirmed National Leaguers—Burleigh Grimes, of the Cardinals, and Clarence Mitchell, of the Giants, who always bears the appendage of the only southpaw spitballer in captivity.

The claim has been made for spitballers that the ease of their moistened delivery makes for longevity on the pitching mound. The careers of the four survivors is expert testimony to that effect. Quinn first entered the big leagues in 1909; Faber made his debut in 1910, Grimes in 1916, and Mitchell in the same season. It's tough on Shellenback, fated to draw a minor-league salary for the rest of his baseball life.

Klein Hits 2 Homers As Phils Rout Giants

Philadelphia, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Clarence Mitchell handed the Phillie five runs in the first inning today on four walks and three hits. Then Chuck Klein hit his twenty-fifth home run of the season in the third and his twenty-sixth with two aboard in the seventh. As a result the Phillies won their second straight game from the New York Giants, 13 to 5.

Phil Collins gave the Giants sixteen hits to Philadelphia's eleven off four Giant hurlers, but after giving two runs in the opening inning, he pitched shut-out ball until the eighth for an easy victory. Klein added a single to his two homers for a perfect day at bat. Don Hurst hit three out of four for the Phillies while Bill Terry clouted three doubles for New York.

Lott, Sutter Advance to Finals

Vines Defaults Due to Heat and Illness After 4 Sets.

Mangin Hurt in Fall on Racquet in Match With Sutter.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—George M. Lott, jr., of Philadelphia, and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, marched into the final round of singles in the historic Meadow Club Invitation Tennis Tournament today.

A large gallery, which plied fans industriously to manufacture cooling breezes, saw Lott win from the Pacific coast sensation, Ellsworth Vines, jr., of Pasadena, who was forced, through illness, to default after four sets had left the two players deadlocked. A stomach ailment, which in recent weeks has developed into a near-chronic condition, forced Vines to quit. The scores in Lott's favor were 6—4, 2—6, 6—3, 9—7 and default.

Mangin Injures Self In Third Set.

A strange incident also marked Sutter's victory over Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, conqueror of John Doeg, national champion, in the quarter-finals. Sutter won by scores of 7—5, 10—8, 6—2. The closely-fought match turned into a rout in the third set when Mangin, fighting desperately to turn the tide, rushed to the net and slipped to the turf, jamming himself in the stomach with his racquet. He was "out" for five minutes and finished the match in a daze.

The lott-Vines match was a gruelling one. The heat was terrific and both players, evenly matched at most phases of the two-hour battle, were constantly under a strain.

Lott played his best tennis of the year, especially in his two winning sets. He was erratic off the ground in the second and in the third, after taking a lead of 4-1 in games and 40—15 in points on Vines' service, met a withering and determined fire from the Coast youngster's racquet.

Vines was shooting dazzling cross-court drives to Lott's backhand and when the latter, in desperation, tried a lobbing game, Vines smashed his way to victory.

Vines Misses Point for Game, Set and Match.

Young Vines ran up a lead of 4—1 in the fourth set and appeared to have the match well in hand. Lott rallied, however, to tie the score and broke through Vines' service in the sixteenth game to win the set. Vines missing an attempted kill for advantage point and the game, set and match on a clever placement. He was forced to default the deciding set.

The finalists in doubles tomorrow afternoon will be Mangin and Berkeley Bell, New York, against Vines and Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Calif. The former combination, which holds two legs on the doubles bowl, today turned back J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., and E. W. Feibleman, New York, 8—6, 6—2, 6—2, while Gledhill and Vines, holders of the National Clay Courts championship, beat the Turf Court champions, John Hope Doeg and Lott, by scores of 6—1, 6—0, 6—3.

While the gallery was strong for Vines throughout his match with Lott, and considered the default a gift to the former Chicagoan, it was Lott who really rated more credit than he received. This was his first singles tournament since Wimbledon and, considering that Vines has previously corralled the important home tourneys, Lott played well.

With Gledhill, intercollegiate singles king, carrying most of the burden because of the illness of his partner, which forced Vines to default his singles match to Lott earlier in the day, the California youngsters romped through the turf court title holders.

Center Attack on Doeg.

Gledhill and Vines concentrated their fire on Doeg, who has been playing far below the form which brought him the national singles title last September at Forest Hills, and won almost as they pleased.

It was only in the final set that Lott and Doeg showed any cohesion of play or individual brilliancy, but Vines and Gledhill, with victory in sight, were not to be denied.

In the mixed doubles Miss Stoddard, Southampton, and Bruce Barton, Austin, Tex., defeated Miss Dunne, Southampton, and Edward Burns, Brooklyn, 6—2, 6—4, in a first-round match.

Second-round matches results as follows: Miss Weeks, Easthampton, and Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, won from Miss Leboutellier, Westbury, and Wilmer Allison, Austin, by default. Miss Taubele and Eugene McCauliff, Yonkers, N. Y., defeated Mrs. Preston, Southampton, and Herbert Bowman, New York, 6—1, 6—2. Miss M. A. Waller, Southampton, and J. Gilbert Hall, East Orange, N. J., defeated Miss Stoddard and Mr. Barnes, 6—2, 5—6, default. Miss Rowlins, Southampton, and George Mott, Philadelphia, defeated Miss Morlee, Easthampton, and Edward Fiebelman, New York, 7—5, 7—5.

2 CALIFORNIA GOLFERS IN FINALS

Boy, 15, and Steel Man Survive on Public Links.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

KELLER CLUB, St. Paul, Aug. 7 (A.P.). — "California, here I come!" was the theme song of the national public links golf championship tonight. When the divots stopped flying on the rain-drenched Keller Club course late today the only contenders left for the big crown of fee course golf in America were two sons of California—Joe Nichols, 15-year-old high school sophomore from Long Beach, and Charlie Ferrara, steelworker from San Francisco.

The two will fight it out tomorrow for the title Bob Wingate, of Jacksonville, Fla., dropped by failing to qualify over the 36-hole route, insuring the championship for California for the first time since the boys who play golf after working hours started their national tournament.

There wasn't much to choose between the two finalists, but Nichols won the admiration and support of the galleries by his great comeback in his semifinal struggle with Ed Greenway, of Seattle, Wash. The Long Beach youth, after being three down at the end of the first ten holes, came back with an almost perfect brand of golf to square the tussle on the sixteenth and then win it on the final carpet when Greenway missed a 1-foot putt for a halve in par fives.

Youth Given Ovation.

The gallery gave the Long Beach boy, who had escorted St. Paul's last survivor, Al Priebe, out of the tournament by a 3 and 2 margin in the quarter-final, a great ovation.

Ferrara also was forced to fight an uphill battle in his final match, although the odds weren't nearly as heavy against him. One down at the turn in his battle against Charles Albertus, the golfing printer from Philadelphia, Ferrara squared the contest on the tenth and breezed to victory, 3 and 1, by laying his rival a dead stymie on the seventeenth green. In the morning quarter-final fight, Ferrara eliminated Horace Lacey, of Little Rock, Ark., 4 and 3.

The Nichols-Greenway match was the high spot of the day and the week. Greenway started out by bagging a birdie 3. They halved the next holes. Greenway then hiked his lead to 2 up on the eighth when Nichols

U. S. Women Beat British In First 3 Singles Matches

Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Harper Stage Stirring Rallies to Avert Defeat; Mrs. Moody Triumphs, 6-1, 6-4.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

WEST SIDE TENNIS COURTS, Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Due to two sensational finishes, the first of which saw Helen Jacobs prevail over Betty Nuthall, blonde British favorite, the United States put the British Wightman Cup Team to rout today by sweeping the first three singles matches of the international women's tennis series.

The California "triple threat" of the American forces proved entirely too much for the invaders as Helen Wills Moody, the acknowledged queen of the courts, and Mrs. Lawrence Harper, the No. 1 national ranking star, helped Miss Jacobs carry the day with the loss of only one set.

Miss Jacobs Furnishes Chief Thrills.

Miss Jacobs furnished the chief thrills for a sweltering gallery of nearly 5,000 spectators by coming back, after the loss of the first four games, to take the measure of Miss Nuthall, holder of the American singles championship, by scores of 8—6, 6—4, in a match that lasted one hour and fifteen minutes.

Mrs. Moody, with a characteristic display of polished and effective stroking power, scored the most decisive victory of the day as she disposed of Phyllis Mudford, 6—1, 6—4, in the opening match, lasting only 36 minutes.

Becoming more prolonged as the shadows crept over the big West Side Stadium, the day's battle was concluded as Mrs. Harper, after being five times within a point of defeat in the final set, staged a courageous finish to beat Dorothy Round in a marathon match that consumed 1 hour and 45 minutes. The scores were 6—3, 4—6, 9—7.

The United States requires only one more victory to clinch the cup, which England won last year by a 4-3 margin and which each nation has held four times since it was put into competition in 1923 by Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, of Boston, the captain of this year's American team.

Four matches are scheduled tomorrow to wind up the series, featured by the singles encounter between Miss Nuthall and Mrs. Moody, but it will take considerable improvement for the No. 1 player of the British team to make much impression on Queen Helen's present game.

Miss Nuthall Somewhat Erratic.

Mrs. Moody, although given brisk opposition by Miss Mudford in the second set today, was playing with all her shots well under control, whereas Miss Nuthall was exceedingly erratic after assuming an apparently commanding lead over Miss Jacobs.

Urbanski's Hit in Ninth Beats Out Robins, 3-2

Boston, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Hollis Thurston held the Braves to three hits in eight innings today but Boston rallied in the ninth, driving him from the mound to score three runs and defeat the Brooklyn Robins, 3 to 2.

Lance Richbourg opened the inning with a double, Herman muffed Randy Moore's single and Berger beat out a hit to drive in Boston's first run. Jack Quinn relieved Thurston with one out, filled the bases with an intentional pass and brought Billy Urbanski, recently of Montreal, to the plate. With the count three and two on him, Urbanski whacked a double to deep left and broke up the game.

Faber Blanks Browns, 2-0, Yielding 5 Hits

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The 43-year-old right arm of Urban (Red) Faber, dean of American League pitchers, limited the St. Louis Browns to five widely separated singles today and the White Sox scored a 2-to-0 shutout.

The veteran spitballer, who became a starting hurler several weeks ago when the Sox staff was almost wrecked by injuries, did not walk a man, struck out two and never was in danger. Only in the seventh did the Browns get a man as far as second base. Faber also joined in the attack with a double in the third inning, and scored on an error and Carl Reynolds' single. The first Sox run came in the initial inning when Lu Blue tripled and scored on Billy Sullivan's liner to Kress.

The victory was Faber's sixth of the season, against eight defeats.

CURLEY SEES COCHET ON MONDAY

$20,000 Yearly Pay Offered, Is Report; French Upset.

PARIS, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—French tennis officials were deeply perturbed tonight because of the announcement by Jack Curley, New York promoter, that he was determined to win Henri Cochet, the country's court idol, over to his professional tennis troupe and pit him against Bill Tilden in a "battle of the century."

Fear was expressed that Cochet's loss from the amateur ranks not only would cost France possession of the Davis Cup, but would constitute a telling blow to amateur tennis in this country. Cochet, almost single handed, beat back the English team in the Davis Cup challenge round last month and is more popular than ever before.

Curley told the Associated Press today he planned to interview Coehet Monday and make every effort to get his name on a professional contract.

Curley Wants New York Battle.

"No offer yet has been made," the hromoter said, "but I am eager to get him for a New York debut as a professional against Tilden."

The publication Autotoday said it had information Curley would offer the French idol a three-year contract at 500,000 francs yearly (about $20,000).

Cochet continued to keep his own counsel, refusing either to affirm or deny the report he would sign with the American promoter. But he was expected to make a definite decision soon. The French Lawn Tennis Federation was reported trying to persuade Cochet to remain an amateur and help defend the Davis Cup at least one more year.

NATS FACE 2 MORE FRAYS AT HOME

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

JUDGING from the manner in which the Nationals wielded their bats in Thursday's game, following a short respite, the Red Sox are in for another busy afternoon today, following another lay-off for Johnson's charges yesterday. This afternoon's contest, and another single one tomorrow, mark the last appearance of the Nationals here until September 4, except for a Sunday battle with the Mackmen on August 30.

Bob Burke, young southpaw for whom Johnson picks his spots, will draw the Washington mound assignment against the Beaneaters this afternoon, as he has been generally effective against the Collins' clan, while he likely will find Wilcey Moore, former Yankee, opposing him.

Nats Hike for West Sunday.

Johnson and his charges leave for their final swing around the West Sunday night, their first stop being Chicago. Then they visit St. Louis, Cleveland and Detroit in turn, playing four games in each city. From the Ford city they jump to Boston for two games, hop here for their Sunday meeting with the Mackmen, skip to New York for a game on August 31, jump to Philadelphia for battles on September 1 and 2, and then come home, opening a long home stand against the Yankees on September 4.

While the Nationals have practically given up hope of overtaking the Mackmen, they still have some little idea back in their heads that something might happen to suddenly put them in the race. They do not believe, for instance, that the days of miracles have passed, remembering what happened back in 1925, when the Athletics suddenly collapsed and lost 19 of 21 games, including a dozen in a row, and are hoping for a repetition.

In any event, they realize that they have a battle on their hands in beating out the Yankees for runner-up honors. This means that they will have to win consistently anyway, so, they figure, no harm will be done if they keep their eyes on the doings of the Mackmen, too, which is logical. And, if one of those miracles should happen—and we might classify a train-wreck, or something like that a miracle—the Nats hope to be in a position to benefit.

West "Up There Swinging," He Explains.

An interesting side issue to the current series between the Red Sox and Nats is the third-place battle for batting honors between Sammy West and Earl Webb. At this writing, the visiting rightfielder has a .366 average to West's .360. The latter has been hitting like all possessed of late and has leaped to the front at a fast clip.

West was asked how he accounted for his good hitting of late and his answer was: "Well, I'm up there swinging. Earlier this season, I was figuring too much on trying to get the pitcher in the hole, used to get in the hole myself, and then had to

Navy Launches First Organized Effort to Learn Sentiment.

Graduates Are Asked to Name Conditions for New Pact.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Naval Academy Graduates' Association of New York has sent a questionnaire to its members asking their attitude on a resumption of athletic relations between the two service schools, Army and Navy.

The questionnaire asks the members whether they would like to see the schedule resumed and what eligibility conditions—cause of the break—if any, they believed should be insisted on.

It was Navy which precipitated the severance of relations by asking the Army to abide by the same intercollegiate eligibility rules it had adopted. These provide that a man may play only three years of varsity football. The Army insisted that so long as a cadet was in good standing, if he had played three years or none of varsity football before he entered the academy, he was eligible for the gray-clad cadet team.

Four Years Since Break.

It has been almost four years since the two training schools for this country's fighting forces severed relations, which had extended through 30 years on the football field.

Last December, in the name of sweet charity, an armistice was declared and the Blue and the Gray fought a stirring 6-0 Army victory at Yankee Stadium, New York, netting some half a million dollars for unemployment relief.

The friendly spirit in which the battle was waged and the colorful spectacle, which the sporting public had not seen for two years, brought a renewal of requests that the breach be healed and the annual games resumed.

Questionnaire Is Detailed.

The Graduates' Association has sent the following questionnaire to its members:

"The Army-Navy football game (should, should not) be played.

"If the game is played, should it be played (a) under intercollegiate rules as to eligibility; (b) under no rules as to eligibility except that the players be in good standing; (c) under compromise rules as offered by Admiral Robinson on October 30, 1929? (Under (c) the following conditions): (1) three-year eligibility, (2), four-year eligibility, (3) two games under intercollegiate rules and two games under West Point rules, alternately. (d) Under any other conditions?"

The questionnaire is the first organized effort, so far as known, that has been made to sound out sentiment of either the Navy or Army group on the question.

7 Runs in First Inning By Pirates Beat Reds

Pittsburgh, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh clouted Lucas for six hits and his successor, Carroll, for two more, all in the first inning for seven runs, and won a ball game from Cincinnati today, 9 to 3, to even the series. Five doubles were included in the initial eight swats.

Kremer, who marked up his fourth win against the Reds this season, allowed eleven hits and five passes but tightened up in the pinches.

Cardinals Retain Street As Pilot for 1932

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals announced tonight that Charles E. (Gabby) Street would manage the team again next year.

Breadon, in announcing the reappointment of Street, said his decision was not due to the long lead the Cardinals have in the National League pennant race, "but because Street's judgment, ability and courage have been proven day after day and week after week since he relieved Bill McKechnie for a time during the fag end of the 1929 pennant race."

Street signed a one-year contract, Breadon announced, and "both of us are perfectly satisfied as to the terms."

Benny Leonard, in First Workout, Not So Bad, Not So Good as Movie Cameras Click

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The are lights blazed away and the picture machines whirred as 53-year-old Benny Leonard officially returned to the ring wars today.

The scene was a midtown gymnasium and the setting was perfect. Steamed up by a report the former lightweight king would put on the gloves with his new stable-mate, Mickey Walker, the faithful packed the house at so much a head. Mickey did not show but the crowd got its quota of entertainment.

Leonard, the somewhat flabby picture of a former ringmaster, stood in the full glare of light beside the man who is guiding his attempt at a comeback after six years' idleness, the debonair Jack Kearns. The noise subsided and Dr. Kearns went into action.

"I am pleased," said he in ringing tones, "to announce the return to the ring of the greatest lightweight of all times, Benny Leonard. We intend to fight all comers—lightweights, welterweights, middleweights and, if necessary, light heavyweights. I predict that within six months he will be the middleweight champion of the world."

There was wild applause and then Benny went into his act, consisting of two fast rounds with Jackie Phillips, a very earnest welterweight from Canada, and two more with one Jimmie Martin, an amateur flyweight. Realizing the cameras were recording his every move, Leonard appeared to suffer a mild attack of stage fright. He didn't look bad, yet he didn't look so good. He looked a great deal like a 35-year-old former champion attempting a comeback.

Benny wasn't blowing when the four rounds ended and still was skipping about in lively fashion. He avows his legs are in fine shape and, as for his hands, they are free from blemish as his face. There isn't a mark on Leonard's features, but his hair is thinning.

As yet, Leonard doesn't know, himself, what his best fighting weight will be. He weighed "about 150" today, and there was a roll of fat about his middle. He expressed the opinion he could get down to 140.

MAD CAREER RETURNS TO WINNING FORM AT HAWTHORNE

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Out of the money in his most recent starts, Walter J. Salmon's 3-year-old, Mad Career, returned to winning form by scoring a two-and-one-half-length victory in the Lagrange Purse at a mile and a sixteenth at Hawthorne today.

Quatre Bras II, the Three D's Stock Farm racer, which failed badly earlier in the week against virtually the same field, was second, a length and a half in front of the heavily-backed favorite, the Dixiana Stable's Lady Dean.

Mad Career ran the distance in 1:45 4-5 and paid $11.58 to win.

Buck Up, 7 to 1, Wins Spa Feature.

Saratoga Springs Race Track, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—In an exhilarating finish which brought the crowd to its feet, Joseph E. Widener's Buck Up showed the way to seven other stars of the filly division in the seventh running of the test, a 7-furlong dash here this afternoon. The Rancocas Stable's Ladana was beat three-parts of a length for the $3,050 purse, while Risque, from the stable of Mrs. J. D. Hertz, and favorite at 9 to 10, lost the place by a head.

It was the second time the colors of the Philadelphia sportsman flashed to victory in the fixture, Ruthenia having turned the trick in 1926. Buck Up was held at 7 to 1 and covered the seven panels in the fast time of 1:25 4-5 under 118 pounds.

Ladana set a keen pace to the stretch, while Risque and Buck Up followed about two lengths away. Ladana saved ground and appeared a winner until Risque made her challenge when straightened out. The Hertz miss got her head in front, but Mack Garner rode furiously astride Buck Up in the last furlong and the daughter of Buchan—Look Up drew alongside the leaders on the outside. Once in front, Buck Up drew away steadily and the peppermint silks swept across the finish line with a margin of nearly a length. Robin's Egg, after racing forwardly for 5 furlongs, dropped entirely out of contention. Avenger closed well to finish fourth.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Hawthorne Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7.—Willis Kilmer's record money winner, SUN BEAU, which surpassed Gallant Fox's imposing record by his brilliant victory in the Arlington Handicap last Saturday, will strive to further increase his earnings in the Hawthorne Handicap this afternoon. Nine sterling 3-year-old-and-up routers will face the Sunbriar horse to contest the major portion of the $25,000 added purse, over the mile and an eighth distance in the week-end feature.

The leading money winner has been assigned top weight of 131 pounds and will concede much weight to his nine rivals. Despite his difficult task, judging from his splendid performance in the Arlington Handicap, in which he shouldered 128 pounds, the son of Sunbriar—Beautiful Lady, should carry his impost to victory. Under the weight assignment, SATIN SPAR, from the Bill Bee Stable, with 104 pounds, figures to force the pace. DARK SEA has been training well and nicely weighted with 102 pounds, should share in the purse.

The Sky Harbor Handicap, a test over the 6½-furlong route, which attracted nine sprinters, will support the main event. MY DANDY and BROWN WISDOM, coupled as the Reichert entry, hold a splendid chance to gain the honors. Both steeds are ready to contest the issue, with ULUNIU and CHEERS. The last two are evenly matched and should furnish stern opposition to the favored pair.

FIRST RACE—NIGHT VINTAGE, a steady youngster from the Mrs. Johnson string, appears best of his rivals. IMA HIGH ONE has been freshened up and may surprise. SABINA H. has shown consistent form and must be conceded a chance.

SECOND RACE—PUNISHMENT has shown staying qualities and in this group figures to score. TIGER FLOWERS raced forwardly in his last start and is favored for the place, with DEVON selected for the show.

THIRD RACE—DUELIST appears best of this field. MAECENAS, from the Miss Hart string, finished second to Shady Rest last outing and should go as well here. DELMONICO should hold the others safe.

FOURTH RACE — SWEEP PAST scored easily in her last at this distance and should repeat. ZIDA has trained well since his last start. CERMICULITE will favor the route and figures to get into the picture.

SEVENTH RACE—LADRONE figures to carry his speed over this route. His chief opponent will be MASTER ACE. This colt has turned in some clever performances and should gain the place. PAULA L. will have MAKE BELIEVE to beat for the minor award.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVER FAITHFUL, $9.82, $4.94, $4.22; MAYETTA, $4.16, $3.90; YES, $6.52.

EVER FAITHFUL went to the front soon after the start and, setting a good pace, was never in serious danger. MAYETTA raced close up and, practically on even terms with YES for the entire distance, outfinishing the latter. YES showed improvement and held on fairly well. MARTHA D. rushed into early contention and was best of others. MAD STEP was off poorly, but although making up ground, was never a serious factor.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200. Special weights. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:46½. Off at 2:47. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ATLIL, $11.48, $5.52, $3.20; BUG HUNTER, $6.48, $3.62; BLACK IVORY, $2.78.

ATLIL, easily best, was held under restraint in last place for half the distance, then came fast on the outside to easily pass the field and, getting to the front at midstretch, was in hand at the finish. BUG HUNTER reached a contending position after going half the trip and raced well to the end. BLACK IVORY was hurried early and was with some interference, but closed ground in the stretch. GRASSLANDS was used up making most of the pace and tired. BASILICA bled while racing in prominent position.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs (out of chute). Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good for all but Wrigley Field. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:15½. Off at 3:19. Winner, E. P. Prichard's b. f., by Paul Weidel—Blemished. Trained by J. Greely. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48, 1:13 3-5, 1:20 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WEIDELEEN, $9.00, $3.90, $3.34; DICK MORRIS, $4.18, $3.20; ANNIE REE, $5.00.

WEIDELEEN followed DICK MORRIS closely in the early running and, overtaking him in the final eighth, took a short lead and held it to the finish. DICK MORRIS set the pace and held on fairly well, but could not resist the winner. ANNIE REE was always close up and held the others. BOSAFABO raced wide all the way. WRIGLEY FIELD was off slowly and made up ground.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The La Grange Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:46. Off at 3:46. Winner, W. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAD CAREER, $11.58, $6.44, $4.84; QUATRE BRAS II $7.10, $5.04; DESWASEY, $4.98.

MAD CAREER, showing greatly improved form over his recent efforts, followed QUATRE BRAS II in the early stages and, taking command when ready, had no trouble leading to the finish. QUATRE BRAS II had the most early speed and held on fairly well under punishment after being headed. DESWASEY saved ground at the stretch turn and finished gamely on the inside. LADY DEAN met with interference when the winner bore in at the start and could never get in the leaders, but might have been closer had not Jockey Dyer, on QUATRE BRAS II continued to wave his whip in front of her while driving his mount through the stretch. MICHIGAN GIRL met with some interference at start and was never dangerous.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:14½. Off at 4:14½. Winner, G. W. Osle's b. g. (4), by Prince Fal—Dulce Tokalon. Trained by owner. Valuee to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49, 1:13 3-5, 1:38 3-5, 1:45 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE TOKALON, $6.82, $4.72, $3.12; BARNEY SEXTON, $7.42, $4.14; PORT O' PLAY, $4.30.

PRINCE TOKALON, well ridden, saved much ground by hugging the rail rounding the first turn and getting through on the inside of BARNEY SEXTON turning into the back stretch, took a short lead and held BARNEY SEXTON when the latter challenged again in the stretch. BARNEY SEXTON was close at all stages and made a game bid in the final run, but although gaining slowly, could not get up. PORT O' PLAY made up ground in the last quarter. CHIP could not keep up. MACEDON raced on the outside and tired after reaching a contending position. The others were outpaced.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:42. Off at 4:42. Winner, Miss E. Glick's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GARNISH, $19.38, $7.12, $3.14; WIRT G. BOWMAN, $3.72, $3.04; BATTLING ON, $4.36.

GARNISH, under slight restraint in the early running, came to the outside in the stretch to catch WIRT C. BOWMAN nearing the wire and win going away. WIRT G. BOWMAN, racing forwardly, continued gamely after being challenged by BATTLING ON and shook off the latter in the final eighth, but could not last. BATTLING ON moved up on even terms with the leader on the far turn, but weakened slightly in the run home. PAULA L. was allowed to drop too far back in the early running and, although finishing well, could not close the gap. SAGE FIRE was on the outside all the way. PAULA L. tired.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:17. Winner, Coldstream Stud's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TORCH FIRE, $11.90, $6.36, $3.90; BAGIEL, $8.74, $6.62; BLUE LAW $5.26.

TORCH FIRE took a good lead on the back stretch and, drawing out when OUR BILLY began to tire, led by a wide margin to the finish. BAGIEL acted badly at the barrier and was off slowly, but closed an immense gap to best the others. BLUE LAW also made up much ground. PLAY BIRD, weakly handled, finished gamely on her own courage and can do better. DES JARDINES had early speed. OUR BILLY tired.

SEVERE TEST TODAY FOR SUN BEAU

By CHARLES DUNKLY.

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Old Sun Beau, back at old Hawthorne, scene of two of his greatest triumphs, will go after his third rich stake in the last three weeks tomorrow, when he will attempt to add $25,000 to his already world's record bulging bank roll.

With the crushing impost of 131 pounds, Sun Beau will line up at the barrier in the $25,000 added Hawthorne Handicap, at 1⅛ miles, against nine lightly weighted rivals, any one of which might hurl the world's greatest money-winning thoroughbred to defeat.

Heaviest Impost Since Revived Chicago Racing.

Sun Beau carried 126 pounds winning the Arlington Cup two weeks ago, shouldered 128 in capturing the Arlington Handicap last Saturday but tomorrow, with 131 pounds, will carry the greatest weight any horse has borne in a stake handicap since racing was revived in Chicago nine years ago.

Regardless of conditions, Sun Beau has been made a top-heavy favorite to triumph. He was a 4-to-5 choice tonight, and probably will go to post at these odds. The thoroughbred regarded as the outstanding danger to Sun Beau's chances is 4-year-old Satin Spar, racing under the colors of Willard Mack, Los Angeles playwright. Satin Spar finished second to Sun Beau in the Arlington Handicap and will have a 27-pound pull in the weights tomorrow.

If the entire field of ten accepts the issue, the race will have a gross value of a trifle more than $31,000, with about $24,000 going to the winner. Sun Beau, if victorious, will increase his earnings to more than $355,000 and will be able to give the horse laugh to Ksar, the French horse, which is claimed to have won $335,000. Ksar's winnings, however, are not recognized among turf statisticians because they include the intrinsic value of the pieces of plate, gold cups, and other trophies he won.

Today's Test Is More Severe Than Other Two.

Sun Beau's test tomorrow is even more severe than the two stakes he won at Arlington, for the distance, a mile and an eighth, is an eighth shorter than in his two previous victories. The loss of that extra eighth for his winning rush may make a big difference. The nine horses which will oppose Willis Sharpe Kilmer's sensational 6-year-old are Plucky Play, Ironsides, Dark Sea, Satin Spar, Morsel, Silverdale, Paul Bunyan, Battleship and The Nut.

Mike Hall, which finished second in the Arlington Cup and fourth in the handicap, will not be a starter tomorrow, as he apparently has had enough of Sun Beau's dust.

CONSTRUCTIONEERS ANNEX TITLE IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

Hamel Stars As Terminal Bows, 4-1

Hits Two Homers Off McIntire, Clinching Victory.

Winners Gain Place in City Series; Play-off Is Not Needed.

TWO lambasting home runs off the big bat of "Gayety" Hamel, and "Lefty" McIntire's inability to control his shoots, enabled Constructioneers to annex the second half of the Industrial League yesterday on the Monument Lot by squelching the challenge of Terminal, 4-1.

With the second half, Constructioneers take the league laurels, having won the first-half series earlier in the year. The team will represent the league in the city week-day series championship, to be held later in the month.

Sending "Lefty" McIntire down to defeat—the first he has suffered in the league this year—was accomplished by a flurry of nine hits, well spread over the entire route. McIntire retired from active competition at the beginning of the eighth, in favor of Crane, who muted the bats of the Constructioneers thereafter.

Eligible for City Series.

Constructioneers thus become the first team eligible to participate in the city series, none of the four other leagues having finished their schedules. Yesterday's winners rebuffed a determined stand on the part of Terminal, who nosed out Constructioneers early this week to deadlock play in the second half. A win yesterday for Terminal would have made a play-off for the league championship necessary.

Jewett hurled a good, conservative brand of ball yesterday, letting the losing squad nick him but eight times, and scattering these hits exceptionally well. Five of the losers were left on bases during the fracas. He added a hit to his generally good work in the box, but stick honors went to his teammater, Booker, who connected thrice in four times at bat; Hamel, whose two home runs traveled to the infield of the adjoining diamond, and Douglas, Brown and Doffelmeyer, of the losers, each of whom hit safely twice.

Commerce Nine Wins, 4-3, In Departmental Play-off

D. C. Repair Shop Is Defeated by Last-Inning Attack.

A SCRATCH hit from the bat of "Cody" Shapiro with the bases full in the final inning gave Commerce a 4-to-3 victory over D. C. Repair Shop in the first of their three-game series to determine the Departmental League champion. The game was terminated in the eighth inning because of darkness.

It was a hard-fought battle with the Repairmen off to a two-run lead in the first inning, when Freddy Noone's single scored Wolfe and Long. Commerce went its rival one better in the fourth, when Hessler and Shapiro singled in order, Hessler scoring on Gorman's drive through Wolfe. Singman, next man at bat, rolled out to Long, at third, but Gorman was safe at home when Hoffman threw wild to Fitzgerald at the plate.

Repairmen Knot String In Fifth.

The eventual losers knotted the count in the fifth on successive hits by Long, Noone and Ritnour, and that concluded the scoring until the final round, when Commerce eked out the victory.

In the eighth, Wesley weakened and walked Povich after Riley had previously singled to center. The runners advanced on Wells' sacrifice hit. Hessler was purposely passed filling the bases, with the idea of forcing Shapiro to hit into a double play. The thought was good but the execution poor for "Cody" knocked one between third and shortstop which Ritnour knocked down but was unable to field in time to make the play at home.

all three of his appearances at the plate, the last blow going for three bases. Willie Wolfe played a bang-up game afield, making what probably was the best play of the game when he went deep into right field to snare a foul fly, colliding with Horan, but holding the ball. Lester Singman performed well afield for the winners, while Shapiro's work at bat was best for his team.

CAPITAL CITY INSECTS IN BATTLE

"RIP" MILLS' Washington Orioles and Artie Palsgrove's Lionel Insects will come to blows this afternoon at 1 o'clock on the West Ellipse in a game which may determine the winner of the second half championship of the insect class of The Post's Capital City League.

The Orioles are leading the race with four victories and no defeats, while the Lionels are just a step behind with three wins and one loss. A Lionel victory will deadlock the second-half race, as the game is the last on the regular schedule. Should the Georgetowners win a single game will be played next week to determine which of the teams will meet the Wonder Boys, winners of the first half, in a three-game series for The Post's gold baseballs, emblematic of the city championship.

The two leading pitchers of the series, "Gump" Morris, of the Lionels, and "Art" Boggs, of the Orioles, will hurl for their respective teams. Morris has lost but one game this season, while Boggs is undefeated.

Chisox Release Simons' In Deal With Minors

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A deal involving the Chicago White Sox, Louisville Colonels and Toledo Mudhens was completed tonight with the announcement that Mel Simons, outfielder, had been released to the Toledo American Association Club by Chicago.

The White Sox recalled Bob Weiland, left-handed pitcher, from the Colonels and Toledo sent Carl Mays, veteran submarine performer, to the Kentucky team on an optional agreement.

Simons is expected to join the Mudhens Sunday. Last season, before his sale to the Chicago Americans, he was one of the outstanding outfielders in the American Association with the Louisville Club.

Spengler Nine Set For Legion Series

Spengler Post, District American Legion champions, will leave for Charleston, W. Va., scene of the State finals, Tuesday night at 11:20 o'clock, arriving in that city the following morning at approximately 8:30 o'clock.

While the complete plans of the team has not been announced, it is known that Wednesday morning will be spent in sight-seeing, followed by a lengthy drill on the playing field in the afternoon. The draw to select opponents for the first round of play probably will be made Wednesday night as the first games are scheduled for Thursday morning, with contests following Friday and Saturday. The champion of the Eastern portion of the country will be selected on the last day of play. There is a possibility that the local team may draw a bye in the opening round, and if this is the case Spengler would need only two victories to go to the national championship series.

Manager Hayre is taking a full roster of fifteen players to West Virginia. The team will be accompanied by Hayre, the athletic officer of Spengler Post and there is a strong possibility that T. C. McDonald, who directed the Legion series this season will also make the trip.

Legion Backs Legalized Boxing for District

The local chapter of the American Legion yesterday passed a resolution favoring legalized boxing in the District and will present the bill at the Capitol in the coming session of Congress.

A committee was named to deliver the message to Congress and in other ways seek to facilitate the passing of the bill.

INDIANHEAD PLAYS.

The Indianhead Cardinals will meet the Bryantown A. C. Sunday on their home diamond at 3 p. m. The Cards now boast a winning streak of five straight, which they hope to extend at the expense of their guests.

JUNIOR NINES READY FOR PLAY-OFF

THE Schwartz Jewelers and Stewart's Pharmacy nine will meet tomorrow in the first of a three-game series which will decide the 1931 champion of the junior class of The Post's Capital City League. The game is scheduled for 3 p. m. on the West Ellipse.

Despite the fact that they are rated as the under dogs in their fight for supremacy, the Pharmacists are confident that they will be on top when the curtain falls on the series. Manager George McNally may send the same team against the Jewelers that won the title for his club last Sunday, although there is a possibility that Dallas Shirley will be replaced by McGuire behind the plate. Shirley's pegs to trap base runners have not been up to par of late and as it is a well established fact that the Schwartz players are dangerous base-runners, McNally may use McGuire, in an effort to hold the runners on base.

Undecided on Pitcher.

Just who will pitch for the Brookland aggregation is not known but DeBettencourt is the most logical choice. DeBettencourt, who was rated as the third best twirler in the 1931 high school series, has experienced little trouble against junior teams and should he oppose the Jewelers the latter team will have its hands full.

Manager Raymond will use the same team that performed in all the regular league games. This team has shown plenty of hitting strength and is regarded as the best fielding club in the junior ranks. Cecil Hale, mainstay of the pitching staff, will be on the mound in the opening tilt, and more than likely in all of the championship games. Hale has developed rapidly in the space of a year from a mediocre twirler to a first string regular. He has been defeated only twice this season.

Retzlaff Wins by K. O.; Opponent Suspended

St. Paul, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Charley Retzlaff, the heavyweight walloper from Duluth, Minn., knocked out Ricardo Bertazzola, Boston, Mass., in the second round of their fight here tonight. Bertazzola was suspended immediately after the battle, if it can be called that, by the Minnesota Boxing Commission.

18 Grid Lettermen Report at Duke Sept. 7

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Aug. 7.—With the candidates for Duke's 1931 football team slated to report here a month from today for their first practice, the experts are beginning to wonder and to talk about the Blue Devils' chances for the coming season.

At the present time it looks as if there will be eighteen lettermen returning. That figure includes Fred Taylor, regular guard last year, who graduated in June. He is eligible for another year in case he returns.

Of the veterans there are eleven linesmen and seven backs. The backs are Capt. Kidd Brewer, Lowell Mason, Kenneth Abbott, John Brownlee, Glenn Lemons, Jim Mullen and Artie Erahler. Don Hyatt and Charlie Short are veteran ends, and Joe Sink, reserve back last year, was shifted to a flank post in spring practice. J. W. Harton and Bill Bryan, tackles; Don Carpenter, A. H. Werner and Taylor, guards, and Emory Adkins and Waite Hamrick, centers, complete the list of lettermen.

JACK PORTNEY WINS.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Jack Portney, Baltimore lightweight, knocked out Oscar Larosa, of Cuba, in 1:30 of the first round of their ten-round bout here tonight. Portney weighed 133 pounds; Larosa 136.

DECISION TO FREEMAN.

SENIOR TITLE AT STAKE SUNDAY

Francs Must Defeat Roamers for Tie in Section B.

THE title hopes of the Franc Jewelers will be at stake tomorrow when that team plays the Mt. Rainier A. C. in the last game on the regular schedule of the Senior Class of the Post's Capital City League. A victory for the Jewelers will deadlock them with the Miller-Roamers for the Section B senior honors, while a loss will automatically give the crown to the Roamers.

Both the Roamers and Francs have played at a fast clip all season, each downing the other once, while none of the other teams in the circuit have been able to stop them. The Millers, after taking the measure of their rivals in their first meeting, after eleven innings of play by a 1-0 score, felt the sting of defeat in an equal number of innings by a 6-3 score in the second tilt.

Both Teams Have Shown Class.

Both aggregations have played like real champions since their second meeting, and should a play-off be necessary to decide the winner of the section, it should be a nip-and-tuck affair.

Mount Rainier took a 3-0 trouncing from the Francs about a month ago, and since then has been anxious to get another crack at the coleaders. The "Mounts" have a well-balanced team, although they have not exhibited the same brand of play as shown by the leaders and therefore do not rank as high in the estimation of the fans. The Marylanders are hopeful of pulling a few rabbits out of the old silk topper Sunday, however, these same animals to assume the form of enough runs to upset their opponents.

While the fireworks are crackling in Section B, the Olmsted Grill nine, which scampered off with the Section A flag, is playing havoc with supposedly more powerful unlimited clubs.

The Grillmen number the Chevy Chase Grays, Rockvilles, and Hiser's All-Stars among their victims, and are still bowling them over.

Nau Sees Advantage for Team In Title Play.

"Snitz" Nau, who holds the reins, believes that competition with the older clubs will give his boys a big advantage over their rivals in the series for the city championship. "Snitz," however, is not frying his chicken before the bird is caught, he realizes that regardless of which team his boys face in the wind-up, it will be a worthy foe

French Olympic Body Promised Funds to Send Team in 1932

PARIS, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Emile Morinaud, undersecretary of public education, today assured the French Olympic committee funds would be forthcoming to send a French team to the winter games at Lake Placid and the summer games at Los Angeles next year.

Morinaud said the first advance for training expenses already had been voted and he expected Parliament to vote the necessary expenses when it reconvened in October.

The French Olympic committee recently announced the failure of Parliament to pass a bill authorizing expenses would prevent its sending a team to the tenth Olympiad.

Such a bill had been presented to Parliament, but was lost in the last minute rush before the closing of the current session.

District A. A. U. Swimmers Seek Championships Today

Onalene Lawrence Is Lone Defender of 1930 Crown.

A RECORD field of 60, the cream of the local swimming world, toe the mark today for the annual D. C. A. A. U. championships, to get under way at 2 o'clock at Tech High pool. Post entries are expected to swell the entry list.

Unique in that only one 1930 champion is competing, the meet today is confidently expected to establish new records, since several of the existing marks have been either tied or broken in minor tankfests this year.

Miss Onalene Lawrence, 1930 diving champion, will perform in defense of her crown, the lone titleholder in the swim. The numerous other 1930 champions are either out of town or have taken up the duties of lifeguarding since the close of last year's meet.

The marked improvement in the caliber of the younger swimmers is held to be a threat against the existing times today. The championless ranks is studded with many capable of wearing the purple. Most likely to fall, it is believed, is the mark for the 50-yard men's free style, in which fifteen speedsters are entered.

CARDS BEAT CUBS, 8-0, IN OPENER

Grimes Gets Shutout; Malone Pounded Out of Box.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The old spitball veteran, Burleigh Grimes, shut out the Chicago Cubs in the opening of a three-game series here today, 8-0, to increase the Cardinals' lead a full game and win his fourteenth game of the season. More than 29,000 persons, including 20,000 women, were in the stands.

Grimes' mates gave him an early lead, scoring four runs in the first on as many hits and two more in the second when George Watkins hit for the circuit with Adams on base. The other two runs came in the third and seventh.

Pat Malone, victor over the Cardinals in Chicago last week, was driven from the mound in the third and Jakie May, Bud Teachout and Warneke finished for the Cubs.

The Cardinals now are eight games in front of the Cubs and nine ahead of the third place Giants.

HOW IT BEGAN

TO DUB

THE ANCIENT WAY OF KNIGHTING WAS A BOX ON THE EAR, SYMBOLIZING THE LAST BLOW SO RECEIVED, BECAUSE THE RECIPIENT WOULD THEREAFTER BE FREE TO MAINTAIN HIS HONOR. THE SAXON "DUBBAN" MEANING TO STRIKE A BLOW, GAVE US THE WORD WE NOW APPLY TO THE NAMING OF VARIOUS OTHER THINGS.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

HARD TIMES ARE HEALTHFUL TIMES.

As a rule, the death rate drops in hard times. This rather surprising result has been noted in this country and in Europe during several periods of stress due to war and to other causes. The reason is that on the average we eat too much and have obesity or some other manifestation of overfeeding. In hard times we indulge our appetites less and reap the benefits. If times are too hard, we run into danger at the other end of the line. The consumption rate runs up and men suffer from hunger edema and other manifestations of prolonged undernourishment.

The chief fault in the American diet, in time of plenty, is the excessive amount of sugar it contains. Our per capita consumption of sugar is three times that of France and two and a half times that of Germany. What is more important, it was increasing steadily up to the time the "good times balloon" exploded. In consequence, we are supposed to have a million diabetics and nine-tenths of the people over 40 years of age are too fat for good health or for efficient work.

Some part of the excessive use of sugar goes into the manufacture of alcoholic beverages in illegal plants, a method that is wasteful of the raw product. Most of it is consumed as sweet drinks and desserts. We acquire a sweet tooth and thereafter we use sugar as a flavor or condiment. This artificially acquired taste makes plain drinks and unsweetened foods taste flat.

Dr. Stone says excessive use of sugar not only gives us a perverted taste, threatens everybody with diabetes and consequent gangrene, and mires us in our own fat, but it is responsible for considerable eczema and many boils and ulcers, and lays the foundation for much of what we call arthritis. If a man has chronic arthritis, eczema, ulcers or boils, and he does not know which way to turn, he might experiment for a while with a low sugar diet. Since a person on a low sugar diet tends to increase his consumption of starchy foods, the man who is trying out the low sugar diet must be careful to hold down his allowance of bread, cereals, potatoes, peas, beans and corn.

Dr. Wilder makes a good point in an article on reducing. He says that the dieting should be continued until new food habits have been established. If a man discontinues dieting before he loses his sweet tooth he will put on excess weight about as fast as he took it off.

The objection to the overuse of sugars applies to all of them. Molasses and brown sugars contain minerals that white sugars are without, but there are better sources for these food elements. Fruit sugars and honey are likely to be associated with useful vitamins and salts, but there are other good sources of these, and the sugar itself has essentially the same qualities as cane or beet sugar. The one advantage of fruits as a source of sugar is that they do not contain much of it.

LOWERED STOMACH.

Mrs. W. F. E. writes: Please tell me about lowered stomach and intestines. Do such people have indigestion? Are they underweight? Have they low blood pressure? What can be done about it?

REPLY.

People of the long, narrow type are likely to have a combination of prolapsed abdominal organs, low blood pressure, starch indigestion, and underweight.

They are liable to be more comfortable if they wear a well-fitting abdominal supporter; if they live largely on meat, fish, eggs, and eat very little starchy or sweet foods and drinks.

They gain joy in life if they cultivate enthusiasms and engage in competitive sports. If they can not play games, they will gain from looking on, provided they get excited over the sport.

RAILS LEAD STOCKS IN UPTURN AT CLOSE

Industrial stocks led the list in an afternoon recovery which accomplished gains of about a point in numerous principal issues, pulling up the rails from their earlier lows.

Wheat turned strong on covering by shorts, who may have felt the week's selling had been a little overdone, and corn rallied briskly. Cotton closed with small changes.

It was a dull day for stocks. Early losses of 2 to 4 points in prominent carrier equities brought an unimportant response from such leaders as United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone, General Motors and Consolidated Gas. General Electric, perhaps looking ahead to the dividend meeting late this month, was uneasy, although the regular payment is expected. Case was firm. Fox Film, selling on a 20 per cent yield basis, was offered on the theory that a revision of the dividend was coming, and then made full recovery.

Steel Common Gains.

The late rise pushed Steel common 1⅛ net higher, and gains almost as large developed in other industrial favorites. New York Central, after dropping 1⅝ to a new low, closed ⅛ higher. Radio issues firmed, helped by the slight surplus of earnings over preferred requirements in the first half year. The market's turnover amounted to 740,170 shares, nearly 200,000 under yesterday.

A temporary decline in sterling exchange found the financial community still scurrying around for an explanation of the pound's weakness. One suggestion advanced in banking circles, applying also to heaviness of the French franc, was that funds were returning to Germany, impelled by the improvement in conditions there. It was pointed out that a similar situation existed in France when her currency was stabilized several years ago. At that time a strengthening of the franc was accompanied by declines in other principal exchanges, reflecting the reverse movement of funds.

Sterling eventually received support here. After sagging ¼ cent to $4.84 15-16, cables rallied to $4.85⅜, up 3-16 net. The French franc, however, was weak.

Trade Holds Steady.

Wholesale and retail trade is holding steady in this period of seasonal dullness. Bradstreet's says "the encouraging optimism noted last week continues to be shown" as regards fall activity, although it is recognized there will be no "startling return prosperity." Dun's noted fewer downward revisions in wholesale merchandise markets and said some lines were showing firmer tendencies.

A contrast to the action of rail bonds was the performance of numerous foreigns, especially those of German origin. Many in this group rallied sharply, thus giving further evidence of increasing confidence in the Reich's ability to work its own way out. The Prussian plebiscite will give a clearer idea of how things are to go.

Wheat snapped up 2¼ to 2¾ cents a bushel net. The cash market was strong and private reports had a bullish tone. Corn's advances ranged from 1¼ to 1⅞, reflecting favorable Nebraska reports and dry weather in the Southwest. Cotton made new lows before recovering. The close was a point lower to 3 higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The liveliest purchasing and the sharpest advance of grain values in a long time followed a sudden change of front today by leading bear traders. Their complete reversal of market position was professedly based on the extreme low level of prevailing quotations and on likelihood of big reductions of wheat acreage, domestic and foreign. Probable improvement of general business was also asserted as a reason.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top level, 2⅛ to 2⅜ cents higher than yesterday's finish. corn 1⅞ to 1⅞ cents up; oats ⅞ to ¾ cent advance and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

More attention by wheat speculators was given to bullish Canadian and American spring crop prospects. Messages from Canadian wheat trade leaders expressed belief that Canada's left-over supply and her 1931 production could easily be taken care of, as the new Canadian crop was not expected to exceed 200,000,000 bushels.

There were also late advices that the dominion government had undertaken to guarantee against panicky wheat trade conditions in Canada. Meanwhile forecasts were current that the domestic spring wheat movement would be small, as the crop south as well as north of the Canadian boundary had deteriorated just before maturity, instead of improving.

Frosts reported in the Canadian wheat district known as the Peace River territory and rains elsewhere in the prairie provinces tended further to strengthen the Chicago wheat market. Notice was also taken that the peak of the United States winter wheat movement had passed, and that reserve stocks of wheat in European countries appeared ample. Wheat clearances from North America for the week were 7,148,000 bushels, the largest total in some time. Pacific Coast sales of United States wheat to the Orient were reported larger, and Australian supplies down to meager proportions.

Corn and oats rose with wheat, although temporarily December corn touched a new low price record for the season. September corn acted tight at times, affected by a statement from Thomas M. Howell that he now held 8,000,000 bushels of cash corn which he took on July deliveries, and that he has been constantly on the buying side of the corn market up to the present time. His statement added that he would not sell at present prices, and that he expected to get more for his corn.

Provisions responded to grain strength, but eased later as a result of a break in hog values.

Closing indemnities—Wheat—September, 49@49½, 51½; December, 53, 55¾@55½; May, 57½, 60½. Corn—September, 51¾, 53½; December, 40⅜@40⅝, 42⅜; May 45¼, 47.

CAPITAL TO BENEFIT BY NEW HOMES PLAN

Sears, Roebuck Financing Is Explained; Called Building Trade Aid.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

What continuation of operations of the home construction division of Sears, Roebuck & Co. will mean to Washington from the standpoint of bankers, architects, subdividers, contractors, individual home owners and building and loan associations was described to representatives of the foregoing professions yesterday by representatives of the division's local offices, who were hosts at a luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel.

Discussing the division's home-building plan, warmly commended by the guests, T. T. Hawksworth, general manager of the southeastern district of the company's construction division, said in part: "In these days, when bankers are often requested to make loans to customers who have for some time maintained good bank balances and have always been good credit risks for short-time loans, the matter of mortgage financing almost becomes embarrassing, as banks must necessarily maintain a liquid cash position.

Plan Relieves Bankers.

"This is one case where the 75 per cent fifteen-year loan financing plan can be of service to the banking organizations of Washington in that the bankers may refer their clients with a great degree of satisfaction and security to the plan of operation as established by Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s home construction division. The value of the fifteen-year loan is self-evident. The stability of home financing over a long time has a definite appeal to the home owners.

"Because of the fifteen-year financing plan, construction quality must keep apace. Our investment with the customer is over this period and houses must be built to stand for at least double the duration of the mortgage loan in order that proper security may be had for the loan. In this respect the quality of our houses is second to none and is well above the minimum standards as set up by the Bureau of Housing in the Department of Bureau of Standards. Our houses are built of the finest quality materials we can get and are in accordance with what is good building practice and accepted by the codes of all major cities.

Merchandising Guaranty.

"As a third companion to the matter of fifteen-year financing and the matter of quality of material comes the merchandising guarantee of Sears, Roebuck & Co. that our homes are sold under the same broad guarantee as our retail store and mail order division use; that is, the customer must be satisfied.

"A service which Sears, Roebuck & Co. offers to home builders today includes the one responsibility of a contract with them for the construction of their homes. This means that we supervise and engineer the construction of homes and employ local labor for the actual construction process, subcontracting in some cases and carrying pay rolls in other cases, whatever way is required, in order to produce the maximum quality job to the customer's satisfaction. There are no exceptions to our regulation of local labor as we regard our home and this expresses the further thought that in our financing we bring money into the community to support a local labor and material market.

"Assuming that $1,000,000 in mortgage money is deposited in Washington for the construction of our homes, at least $500,000 is spent in the purchase of local material, supplies and local labor. We feel that such an action produces more employment than might otherwise be in existence in the building field. Our financing plan also brings into being many homes that otherwise would not be built because the requirement under our plan is less cash than might normally be expected under a 55 or 50 per cent financing plan.

Paris Building Praised.

Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, as chairman of the Washington Bicentennial Celebration Commission, told of the building by Sears, Roebuck & Co. of a replica of Mount Vernon at the Paris Colonial Exposition and said that every specification of the contract had been met thoroughly.

Not only have many offers to purchase this reproduction of George Washington's home been received, but the building company has had numerous requests to construct other replicas in various parts of the United States, and one as a hotel in Nova Scotia. Replicas were also desired in various developments around Washington.

Officials of the company feel, however, that the original house should not be duplicated in various parts of the country, believing it to be the one that people should visit. The Paris replica is not the first one to be made, an earlier one being built for the San Francisco exposition of 1915. The Paris building may be set up at the coming Chicago exposition.

Those attending the luncheon were Representative Bloom, Vice President James H. Baden, Commercial National Bank; Vice President H. S. Haines, Title & Investment Co. of Maryland; President John Poole, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.; President John B. Cochran, Franklin National Bank; Thomas P. Lawler, secretary-treasurer, International Bank; Gen. R. C. Marshall, Eugene McLachlen, McLachlen Banking Corporation; Robert T. Beresford, President Ernest Daniels, Carry Ice Cream Co.; Secretary B. A. Skinner and DuBois Brookings, Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Albert W. Walker, Allan E. Walker Co., Inc.; Joseph A. Parks, William I. Deming, Col. D H. Sawyer, Federal Stabilization Board; E. K. Allen, Washington Herald; Vincent Tutching, Washington Star; Thomas M. Cahill, Washington Post; G. H. Smith, J. A. Taylor, T. T. Hawksworth, Theo J. Morgan, G. W. Minker, M. B. Mackintosh and H. G. Outwater, of the local office of home construction division Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Curb Review

Sales for the session increased to, roughly, 270,000 shares, which was 30,000 more than yesterday's, but this reflected a flurry of activity in one issue, Cities Service, in which the turnover was nearly 80,000 shares, against about 25,000 yesterday.

Cities Service shares touched a new low at 8⅜, then recovered to close at 9¼, off ¼ of a point net. There were no developments to account for the flurry of activity in the stock. Some of the company's oil-producing subsidiaries have been affected by the shutdown of all save stripper wells in Oklahoma, but the bulk of Cities Service earnings have been coming from its public utility properties of late.

Utility shares generally moved narrowly. American & Foreign Power warrants closed fractionally higher, and Electric Bond & Share was about steady, finishing up ⅛. American Gas & Electric and Niagara Hudson were unchanged. Peoples Light A, a lightly traded issue, appeared at 5½, off a point and new low. Public Utility Holding preferred dropped nearly 5 points, to 25, also a new low.

Oil shares were in the main about steady. Humble lost a point, but Gulf, Indiana and Vacuum were barely changed. Union Oil Associates, holding company for Union Oil of California, sold at 13¼, off 1¾, and a new low. There was considerable selling of some of the low-priced natural gas stocks, Appalachian and Duquesne both breaking to new low prices.

In the industrials, Aluminum Co. rallied nearly 3 points, and Deere and Ford of Canada A were fractionally higher. Benson & Hedges appeared at 2, or just half its previous closing price.

Midvale Co. dropped 3 points, to 50, a new low, in a thin market.

Wheat in Britain Sells At Lowest in 37 Years

Liverpool, England, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Wheat touched the lowest price in 37 years here today when October futures opened at 3 shillings 8¼ pence per hundredweight (about 53¾ cents a bushel).

The result is that thousands of English farmers find themselves in a bad position just when the crop is being harvested. Dumping of foreign wheat into an already oversupplied market is blamed for the drop. While the English output is insignificant compared to the world supply, it is an important crop for British farmers and the prospect of below-cost price has revived talk of a protective tariff.

POLICEMAN INJURED CRITICALLY IN CRASH ON EMERGENCY TRIP

OTHER MACHINE DRIVER IS CHARGED ON 3 COUNTS

Maryland Man Accused of Assault and Failure to Give Way.

While speeding down Connecticut avenue, with siren screeching a warning, in response to a false murder alarm at 2812 Connecticut avenue, Arthur H. Gelhar, policeman, of the Fourteenth Precinct, was critically injured yesterday afternoon when the police car in which he was riding struck another automobile opposite the Connecticut avenue entrance to the Zoo.

Gelhar was rushed to Emergency Hospital in an unconscious condition. He was said to have a possible fractured skull and pelvis, injury to his spine and possible internal injuries.

He was still unconscious at a late hour last night and when he became delirious doctors found it necessary to strap him in bed. It was said at the hospital last night that his condition was very grave.

Driver Escapes Injury.

I. T. Headley, who was driving the police car, escaped injury.

Headley told police inspectors that the car which was struck may have heard the siren of a motorcycle policeman who was preceding him, but apparently paid no attention to the siren of the police car.

He attempted to make a left turn into the Zoo, thus coming directly into the path of the speeding emergency car. Impact of the crash caused the police car to turn completely over and right itself again, on the opposite curb.

Police Car Demolished.

Lester Smiley, driver of the auto, who gave his address as Braddock Heights, Md., and his sister Frances, who was in the car with him, were unhurt and the damage to their car was slight, while the police car was practically demolished.

Smiley was arrested and taken to the Fourteenth Precinct, where he was charged with assault, failing to give right of way and bad brakes. He was released on $1,200 bond.

Gelhar, who is married and has two children, lives at 4612 Forty-third place northwest.

GRAND JURY STARTS UNION FUND HEARING

Score of Persons Presented in Alleged Shortage of Engineers.

After delay of several weeks, the District grand jury yesterday began its inquiry into tangled financial affairs of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

With E. J. Armbruster, special agent of the Department of Justice, heading its list of witnesses, the Government sent before the jury nearly a score of persons who could shed light on what brought about alleged shortages in the finances of the union. Armbruster, one of the ace investigators of the department, and the man credited with unearthing Government evidence that sent Harry V. Haynes, former president of the Farmers & Mechanics Bank in Georgetown, to jail, told the jury about the two months' investigation he has conducted in affairs of the union.

The office of the United States attorney indicated that only the financial affairs of the union would be investigated by the grand jury. None of the picturesque sidelights, such as horse-whipping of one of the union's officials or attempt of an assassin to murder three of the union's officers, would be presented, it was said.

Department of Justice agents tipped their hand when they brought about arrest of Dave Evans, former secretary-treasurer of the union, in Chicago several days ago. Evans was charged with embezzlement of $2,356 of the funds of the union. He is being held under bond in Chicago.

If the grand jury should act on the strength of information given it by witnesses yesterday it will not return an indictment for several days. The District Supreme Court is working under a one-man justice arrangement and Justice Joseph W. Cox, now sitting, will be called upon to sign indictments.

Show in Sky To Be Given By Meteors

A game of celestial tag is scheduled for next Tuesday night, when meteor showers running 50 to 100 an hour can be observed, if one is so inclined, high in the northeastern sky. The show is supposed to start sometime after midnight.

The spectacle really opens Monday night, but there will be only about half as many meteors then as there will be Tuesday, and it would be better to wait until you can get your money's worth.

These meteors are visitors from the constellation Perseus and are known familiarly as Perseids by astronomers who are on close terms with them. Leaving the constellation Perseus, these small stray worlds hit the atmosphere of the earth and burn up like a Southern dry listening to a Raskobian wet speech.

During the last century these little visitors have appeared regularly once a year. Astronomers have mixed their potions, brewed their teas, consulted their charts and learned enough about them to make up a very accurate time-table. It is a great pity, however, that such uncanny skill and knowledge can not be turned into more useful and practical paths, such as selecting race horses, for instance.

TWO ESCAPE INJURY AS CAR QUITS ROAD

Auto Plunges Down 15-Foot Embankment, Overturns in Rock Creek Park.

Two persons, a man and a woman, witnesses say, narrowly escaped injury last night, when the automobile in which they were riding plunged over a 15-foot embankment at the Park road entrance to Rock Creek Park.

Frank Y. Pollard, of 1363 Newton street northwest, declared he was driving behind the other car, when it suddenly careened to the wrong side of the road and crashed through a guard-rail along a high bank. The machine overturned twice, he said, and came to a rest with the wheels in the air.

Rushing to the foot of the hill, Mr. Pollard succeeded in opening one of the doors of the machine and turning off the ignition switch. He then removed the occupants and placed them in a passing car.

Park police said the driver of the demolished machine apparently lost control as he rounded a sharp curve. The car was listed to Percy B. Castles, of 1425 Rhode Island avenue northwest, a cartographic engineer in the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

FEDERAL BUILDING PAINTERS' WAGES DEFENDED IN REPLY

Contractor Declares That He Pays Scale Upheld by Government.

REPORT WILL BE GIVEN TO LABOR SECRETARY

New York Man Also Denies Charge Men Are Working Overtime.

Contending vigorously that his company was paying the prevailing rate of wages to painters employed on the new Internal Revenue Building, Herman Morris, of the Alliance Construction Co., of New York, in a conference with officials of the Treasury Department yesterday, attacked charges that he was violating the Bacon-Davis act.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Heath said that a report of the entire matter would be made to the Secretary of Labor, who, under the law, is the final arbitrator in all such cases.

Scale Is Specified.

The Bacon-Davis act specifies that on all Government construction the contractor shall be obliged to pay "the prevailing rate of wage" for work of a similar nature in the city in which the buildings are located. Union leaders here have contended that the $5, $8 and $12 scale the Alliance Co. is paying is not the prevailing union scale. Mr. Morris agreed with this, but went on to say that the $11 union scale is not the correct prevailing scale, and that the Government itself is paying the correct prevailing scale of $7.20, while his company had raised this to $8, and in some cases to $12. He explained that the $5 a day wage applied to painters' helpers.

"Would the Government force us to pay $11 a day, while it pays its own painters $7.20, the prevailing open-shop rate?" Mr. Morris asked. "Is the Bacon-Davis law for us and not for the Government? I think not. The union scale of $11 is all right for the union, but the union can not control our job or the Government's work, and the present union scale is not the prevailing scale in this city."

Overtime Is Denied.

There are between 600 and 800 union members and about 2,000 painters who do not belong to the union.

In answer to further charges that the men were being worked overtime, Mr. Morris again issued a denial, saying that the painters were not working more than eight hours a day, although in some instances it had been found necessary to have the men work at odd hours, due to the fact that the buildings were occupied during regular working hours.

LEGIONNAIRES CLOSE ANNUAL CONVENTION, OFFICERS INSTALLED

PLANS FOR FRATERNAL ORDER BEING STUDIED

Delegates Are Announced to National Gathering; Dry Law to Be Opposed.

The District of Columbia Department of the American Legion ended its thirteenth annual convention last night at the Buchanan School with the installation of officers and the appointment of delegates and alternates to the national convention to be held at Detroit in September.

Fred Fraser, of Sergt. Jasper Post, was named Department Commander and in his speech of acceptance outlined a program to enlarge the membership in the District to 6,000 active members. In addition he condemned the present support given the four veterans' hospitals in this area, Walter Reed, Naval, Mount Alto and St. Elizabeths, and said that it would be the policy of his administration to enlist the aid of American Legion members to better this situation.

Elections Are Unanimous.

For the first time in the history of the convention the officers nominated were elected unanimously, there being no opposing ticket formed.

A motion was adopted referring by-law to incomporate the department as a fraternal order to a committee of five attorneys who will report their findings to the executive committee.

Miss Margaret Preston, representing the 8-40, auxiliary of the 40 and 8, presented flowers to the incoming officers, and offered the best wishes of her organization. Additional flowers and an engraved gavel were given to Commander Fraser by U. S. S. Jacob Jones Post and the Henry Spengler Post.

It was announced that funds were being raised to send the District Legion Drum Corps to the Detroit convention, a boxing benefit being the chief feature of this program.

Oppose 18th Amendment.

The meeting ended a stormy three-day session of the legion in which it was voted to instruct the delegates to the national convention to go on record as being opposed to the eighteenth amendment as "having failed in its purpose and causing a condition which endangers the justice, temperance, freedom and security of the home and the prosperity of the United States."

FIST FIGHT RESULTS IN FEDERAL CHARGE

Upper Marlboro Man Under $5,000 Bond After Row With U. S. Agent.

Enlightening motorists on traffic regulations may have direful consequences, Robert L. Hall, jr., of Upper Marlboro, Md., learned yesterday, particularly if the motorists happen to be Federal revenue agents.

Mr. Hall, who is 27, and a brother-in-law of M. Hampton Magruder, attorney and political leader in Prince Georges County, was driving through Marlboro last night when he met difficulty in passing between autos parked in front of the courthouse. Noticing that two cars were parked, one back of the other, where parking is banned, he shouted to occupants as he drove past to apprise them of their error.

Walter Andrews, to whom Mr. Hall's remark was directed, replied heatedly, according to a witness. Incensed, Mr. Hall wheeled his car around, came to a stop and went over to Mr. Andrews, who is a Federal agent, and was one of a party of revenue officers, attached to a Baltimore unit, which was in Marlboro to deliver three prisoners to J. Frank Parran, United States Commissioner.

At this juncture W. T. Gray, a county officer, approached the agents' cars and ordered them to move from the restricted area. Apparently satisfied that they would obey, he left.

Mr. Hall then is said to have told the revenue agent that he would get some action if he were a policeman. This evoked a punch in the face, allegedly from Andrews.

In the resulting fist fight, which aroused a large crowd, the Federal officer came off worse than his civilian antagonist, facially speaking, it was reported.

Mr. Hall, however, was haled before Commissioner Parran and charged with interfering with a Federal officer in line of duty after Andrews swore out a warrant. He was released under $5,000 bond.

THREE PROSTRATED WHEN HEAT HITS 95

Downtown Thermometers Go Above 100; Little Relief Promised Today.

Temperatures that soared above the century mark in downtown Washington, and reached an official high of 95 at the United States Weather Bureau, claimed three more heat victims yesterday, and extended the unbroken heat wave.

Only slight relief was held out for today by the weather forecasters, who ordered weather "not quite so warm." For two days now the mercury has climbed to 95 here, and yesterday the avenue kiosk registered 102 at 3 o'clock.

As night came on a drop was noted, and at 11 o'clock the kiosk recording instrument had fallen to 86 degrees. A 10 per cent reduction in the humidity made the weather slightly more bearable.

It was hot enough, though, to prostrate three persons in Washington and vicinity. While working at the aviation field at Glendale, Md., Edgar Pyles., 27, of Glendale, was overcome by the heat and collapsed. He was removed to Casualty Hospital and treated.

Charles Chaney, 55, colored, of Occoquan, Va., was overcome while crossing Pennsylvania avenue near the Capitol. The United States Park Police took him to Casualty Hospital, where his condition was said to be not serious.

Porter Palaway, 18, colored, of 3005 Sherman avenue northwest, was treated at Casualty Hospital after having been overcome while working in a restaurant kitchen at Thirteenth and E streets northwest.

Man's Body Found In Secluded Spot

Search of Pockets Yields Only Match Box; Forehead Bruised.

While playing near his home on Bellevue road southeast yesterday, 12-year-old James W. Proctor, colored, stumbled across the body of a man in high grass and weeds. The spot is a few yards from a railroad spur and a short distance from Bellevue Magazine, an ammunition dump.

Although he discovered the corpse about noon, the boy waited until his father, Charles R. Proctor, returned from work before saying anything about it. Skeptical, the older Proctor had his son accompany him to the secluded, lonely place where the body lay before notifying police.

The dead man was about 50 years old. He wore dark trousers, light shirt and a straw hat, which rested on his body. Except for a bruise on his forehead, the victim's body bore no evidence of foul play. A search of his pockets yielded only a match box. Police removed the corpse to the morgue, where it will be examined today by the coroner.

Man Sues to Check Provision Moneys

Louie B. Sharp Is Seeking Accounting of Books of Company.

Louie B. Sharp, 1664 Columbia road northwest, who described himself as a copartner in the Capitol Provision Co., yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court to compel Thomas T. Keane, jr. The Southern Hotel Supply Co., both of 628 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and the Capitol Provision Co., of 630 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, to render to him an accounting of all receipts, disbursements and profits of the Capitol company.

Through Attorney Howard F. Ralph, Mr. Sharp says that on February 10 of this year, he entered into an oral agreement with Keane to form a partnership for the handling of produce. He was to furnish the money and Keane was to organize and carry on the business. Pursuant to this agreement the Capitol company was formed March 1, and the Capitol company was organized to carry out the plan.

Until July 1, the suit alleges, a large and growing business was transacted, but on that date the company was dissolved. Although he has been seeking an accounting, he says, he has not received a "regular and accurate" statement of what moneys were handled. The Southern Hotel Supply Co. was brought into the case because its officers, directors and stockholders formed the parent company for the Capitol company, which was to handle the produce end while the Southern company continued to supply meats to hotels and restaurants.

MRS. AGNES B. CROWE DIES

Wife of Federal Medical Director Succumbs After Short Illness.

Mrs. Agnes B. Crowe, wife of Dr. John W. Crowe, medical director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, at her home, 1325 Park road northwest, after a short illness.

She is survived by her husband; one son, Joseph N. Crowe, and a daughter, Mrs. R. E. Zelley, of Amarillo, Tex.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Mrs. Crowe was 65 years old.

Parley Cardon's Body Held Here for Parents

Pending the arrival of instructions from his parents at Mesa, Arizona, the body of Parley Cardon, 25 years old, employe of the Department of Agriculture, who was drowned Wednesday night, at Wide Water, Md., is being held at Chambers funeral home, 1400 Chapin street.

The body was recovered from the canal at Wide Water, where he drowned while on a swimming party with friends, yesterday morning. Mr. Cardon was a graduate of the University of Arizona, and had been in Washington only two months at the time of his death. He made his home here at 115 B street southeast.

Couple Held After Raid Staged by Liquor Squad

Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe M. Leedy, 24 and 18 years old, respectively, were arrested yesterday when a police liquor squad raided their apartment at 54 M street northwest. Acting Sergt. George Thornton reported that he seized 3 gallons of white whisky, 4 gallons of red whisky and 235 bottles of beer.

Charges of illegal possession were lodged against the couple. The raid was made on a warrant.

Phone Exchange To Be Improved

Permission Is Due Today on $1,800,000 Outlay C. & P. Co.

The Public Utilities Commission today will approve certain extensions at the Cleveland-Emerson telephone exchange, necessitated by the development of this residential area.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday asked permission to enlarge the exchange and add new equipment at a cost of $1,800,000. Since the establishment of the exchange in 1908 the number of phones has increased from 1,900 to 13,000.

Harleigh H. Hartman, acting chairman of the commission, said the request would be granted at the regular meeting today. The exchange is located at Wisconsin avenue and Warren street northwest.

Low Trees to Replace Tall Ones Near Airport

Tall trees that skirt the Alexandria pike for three-fifths of a mile at the southern approach of Highway Bridge are to be replaced by small and stocky trees, to remove a hazard at the Washington-Hoover Airport.

District Commissioners decided on this course yesterday after inspecting the highway, which, between the Columbia pike and the bridge, comes under their jurisdiction, prior to advertising for bids to repave it. Repaving of the thoroughfare for 1,000 yards is estimated to cost $45,000. Bids will be sought this month.

Return of Child Ends Night Hunt

A search for a 2-year-old child, led by frantic parents, aided by scores of policemen and more than 100 neighbors, ended yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, when the child walked into the home asking for something to eat after having spent the night in the back yard of a vacant house less than half a block from her home.

The child, Patricia Livesay, left home early Thursday night while her father, James Livesay, was engaged in work on his automobile in the garage of his home at 1437 East Capitol street. When he missed her the family started a search, and later called on police and neighbors to aid. The lookout for her was broadcast over local radio stations, and even motorcycle policemen stopped watching for speeders and took up the hunt.

It is believed the child strolled along until she became exhausted and turned into the house thinking it was her own. Her mother expressed the belief that the child had lain down in the grass of the yard and slept, to awaken at her regular breakfast time.

New regulations were drawn under direction of Dr. Fowler to include beauty shops and to make the rules regarding barber shops more strict in their precautions against communication of disease.

THE UNBURDENED TOURIST.

GANDHI, how I envy thee!
Sailing simply o'er the sea
Fettered not by precedent,
Caring not how others went,
Shelving all the fuss and stew—
Doing what you wish to do!

Toting not a pair of pants,
Scorning bridge games and the dance,
Bearing not a single suit,
Not a shoe and not a boot,
Shaking off the care that goes
With a lot of tourist clothes!

Never giving thought or care
How to pack your underwear,
Never wond'ring on the seas
If you've ample B. V. D.'s,
Never worried on a cruise
By your garters coming loose!

FRETTING not o'er which is right—
Black or tan shoes, gray or white?—
Never limping quite forlorn
'Round the ship with popping corn,
Never bothered by your starches,
Vitamins or fallen arches!

Lugging not a dozen bags,
Plastered with confusing tags,
Never in your slumbers tossed
By the fear your clothes are lost,
Never fearing through the day
That your trunks will go astray!

Never feeling deep despair
Over what you ought to wear,
Caring not a whoop in hell
What is cheap and what is swell,
Dressing as you darned well choose
To the ending of the cruise!

NEVER shattered by the shock
Of a hole found in your sock,
Never by the thought distressed
That your dinner suit's unpressed—
Free from all the pain and hurt
Of a hard-boiled dinner shirt!

Mourning not a single thing
That you somehow failed to bring,
Never feeling woes abound
Cuz your cufflinks can't be found,
Never blue because you lack
Shirt studs you forgot to pack!

Sailing, sailing all the while
Shorn of all regard for style,
Wearing this and nothing more—
Just the garb you wear ashore;
Happy in this thought, oh, spinner—
You don't have to dress for dinner!

RIDING in the steerage where
You won't have each millionaire
Pointed out as though he were
Some one worthy of a stir;
Knowing that if undressed, too,
He'd look rather worse than you.

L'ENVOI.

Traveling the way you do!
Oh, that I could sail that way
With no bag or trunk display—
Would I travel thus afloat, sir?
NOT IF I MUST TAKE TWO GOATS, SIR!

Boy Sues for $25,000 After Stepping on Wire

The Potomac Electric Power Co. and the City Cab Co. were named joint defendants in a suit for $25,000 damages brought against them yesterday by William H. Howard, a minor, through his mother, Mrs. Agnes Howard, 34 Sherman circle northwest.

Mrs. Howard alleges that her son was crippled when he came into contact with a live wire that had been left on the ground when a City Cab struck an electric light pole and felled it. Through Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer, the boy claims he stepped on the wire and that a resultant burn has left his foot unable to fully perform its functions.

Temperatures that soared above the century mark in downtown Washington, and reached an official high of 95 at the United States Weather Bureau, claimed three more heat victims yesterday, and extended the unbroken heat wave.

Only slight relief was held out for today by the weather forecasters, who ordered weather "not quite so warm." For two days now the mercury has climbed to 95 here, and yesterday the avenue kiosk registered 102 at 3 o'clock.

As night came on a drop was noted, and at 11 o'clock the kiosk recording instrument had fallen to 86 degrees. A 10 per cent reduction in the humidity made the weather slightly more bearable.

It was hot enough, though, to prostrate three persons in Washington and vicinity. While working at the aviation field at Glendale, Md., Edgar Pyles., 27, of Glendale, was overcome by the heat and collapsed. He was removed to Casualty Hospital and treated.

Charles Chaney, 55, colored, of Occoquan, Va., was overcome while crossing Pennsylvania avenue near the Capitol. The United States Park Police took him to Casualty Hospital, where his condition was said to be not serious.

Porter Palaway, 18, colored, of 3005 Sherman avenue northwest, was treated at Casualty Hospital after having been overcome while working in a restaurant kitchen at Thirteenth and E streets northwest.
